Tosto, Chernick, Kenna gain easy victories

All 3 incumbent trustees retain posts

by JERRY THOMAS

Elk Grove Village residents voted to retain three incumbent village trustees.

It was an easy sweep to victory for Michael Tosto, Ronald Chernick and Edward Kenna, all elected to four-year terms.

Challenger Sandra Todd with 635 votes, gave the three incumbents a close run but could not grasp a post on the village board. "I'll be back again and hope for a seat on the plan commission or community services board," she said.

TOSTO WAS THE highest vote getter with a 909. Chernick got 774 and Kenna 776.

Challenger Melvin Bytnar trailed the field of five candidates with 420.

A jubilant Tosto said, "The election results prove that somebody likes a hard-working man and I'm going to hang in there for the next four years and work hard."

Tosto, 47, a trustee since 1973, has been a resident of the village since 1963.

CHERNICK, 48, a veteran member of the village board, has served as a trustee since 1964, chairing almost every committee and is currently chairman of the capital improvements committee.

Kenna said he was grateful for reelection.

tion. "Now we will keep on Centex (Homes Corp.) officials' backs and get the building code violations issue settled."

"I guess we did do the job and the voters supported us," he added.

Kenna, 40, a trustee since 1970, is district sales manager for Plan Hold Division, Times-Mirror Corp.

A 13-year resident of the village, Kenna ran a campaign that stressed the accomplishments of the total board.

MRS. TODD, 37, was an unsuccessful candidate for village clerk in 1971. She is a former member of the housing commission, League of Women Voters and Taxpayers for Better Government.

For Bytnar, 40, this election was also a second unsuccessful attempt at office. He was defeated in a 1973 try for a trustee post.

Bytnar, outspokenly critical in defeat, said, "The big loser was the village. What the voters have done they will have to live with," he said.

While he offered the re-elected incumbents "congratulations" he said "they won by default because apparently I failed to raise the issues and there was a poor turnout."

Bytnar said he will not run again for elected office but will work with citizens' groups for a better village.

INCUMBENTS WERE REELECTED in Elk Grove Village in a quiet election that drew only 1,414 voters in nine precincts. Challenger Sandra Todd, right, seeking a village board post, was unsuccessful.

The inside story

Cashman, Brennan unseat park incumbents

by JILL BETTNER

Challengers James Cashman and Joan Brennan unseated incumbents David von Schaumburg and Sherie Shapiro by narrow margin in Tuesday's Elk Grove Park Board election.

Unofficial totals late Tuesday showed Cashman received 708 votes and von Schaumburg 631 votes in the race for the two-year term open on the board. Mrs. Brennan had 699 votes compared to 670 cast for Mrs. Shapiro to win the six-year seat.

All four candidates were running neck and neck in the voting, with von Schaumburg and Cashman tied at one point.

VOTING WAS heaviest in Precinct 7 (Admiral Byrd School), Precinct 3 (Ridge School), Precinct 2 (Rupley School) and Precinct 8 (Daniel Cook School).

Mrs. Shapiro leveled charges of "dirty politics" at Mrs. Brennan for distributing reprints of an article that appeared in Tuesday's Herald. The story incorrectly reported the park district is considering a museum tax that would raise the tax bill of the owner of property assessed at $10,000 by $15 per year. The tax, that could be levied to support a proposed historical society would actually increase the average homeowner's tax bill by about $1.50.

"Anybody who does their homework would know the figure in the story was incorrect," Mrs. Shapiro said. "I can't blame people when they see something like that, but to me using it like that is dirty politics."

Saying she thought The Herald story won the election for her, Mrs. Brennan denied knowing the article was incorrect.

"I did not know about the error and I didn't check it because I took the paper at its word," Mrs. Brennan said. "Believing what I read I felt it only fair and just to tell my neighbors and friends in Elk Grove. In today's economy, we don't need a tax increase — whether its $15 or $1.50. The amount doesn't make any difference."

MRS. SHAPIRO said she would like to continue to work to establish the historical society and on the Horizons '76 committee planning activities for the nation's

Correction

The Herald incorrectly reported Tuesday the amount of a museum tax being considered by the Elk Grove Park District.

The amount of the proposed tax is 1.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The tax would add $1.50 to the annual tax bill for a house with an equalized assessed value of $10,000.

The Herald regrets the error.

Daley 'Bearing down' on move

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley lashed out Tuesday at the Chicago Bears' plan to move to a new stadium at Arlington Park Race Track and vowed to go to court to take "Chicago" out of the team's name if it makes the move.

"You don't want the name of Chicago in Arlington Heights," Daley told an audience of city hall reporters.

City lawyers are preparing briefs for a suit to prohibit the Bears' owners from referring to their team as "Chicago" if they go through with their stated intention to be a principal tenant in a proposed $25 million stadium adjacent to the race track, he said.

"I tell you this pretty directly," Daley said. "They won't use the name of Chicago and move to Arlington Heights. They can use the name Arlington Heights Bears, but never use the name Chicago while I'm mayor."

DALEY AID HE does not expect the move ever will take place. "The citizens of Arlington Heights are not foolish enough to vote a bond issue for eight football games," he said.

Madison Square Garden Corp., owner of Arlington Park, is expected to ask the village board to issue revenue bonds for the stadium which would seat 80,000 fans, compared with the 55,000 seats being used at Soldier Field.

Bears' officials could not be reached Tuesday for their reaction to Daley's remarks.

The mayor called Soldier Field "the best field in the United States," and said the City of Chicago will not build a professional stadium for any team.

"We're hoping eventually to get the Olympic Games in Chicago," he said.

Daley said a domed stadium was not needed in Chicago.

"We're a robust people. We're sturdy people in the Midwest," he said.

BEARS' OFFICIALS have said Soldier Field is too old and too small for use by a National Football League team. But Daley promised the stadium will not be torn down.

Madison Square Garden officials are expected to come before the village board in May or June to outline their stadium plan and attempt to persuade village trustees to finance the project with tax-free revenue bonds.

In return the village is likely to see revenue from the stadium through an admission tax. Other income possibilities that have been mentioned are the proceeds from a preseason exhibition game and a minimum guaranteed annual payment to the village.

Filers play 'beat the clock' as tax-return deadline nears

by JOE SWICKARD

Ed Downey unlocked the back of the box and out they tumbled.

Those white preaddressed envelopes to the Internal Revenue Service seemed to stand apart from the rest of the mail Downey, a postal assistant, was unloading at the Post Office.

The countdown was on and the last-minute filers — the perennial procrastinators — were lining up to get their returns in before the midnight deadline. Downey kept filling the mail sacks, it didn't matter to him. He filed back in January and already had his refund.

Not so with Jeff Cady. He leaned out of the window of his truck and laughed as he pushed the return through the slot.

"Hah. I've been too busy responding to sump-pump emergencies to file it," said Cady, who runs the Emergency Sump Pump Service, Arlington Heights.

"OH GOD," SAID Jay Woods while throwing up his hands. "Why am I filling now? Because it got lost in the mails."

Woods, Arlington Heights, spent the day getting emergency forms and hurriedly completing them before the midnight deadline. He walked away from the mailbox shaking his head.

There were pauses in the rush to the mailboxes between commuter trains.

Those not pulling close enough to the box had the added aggravation of leaning and straining to pay their taxes.

Outside of emergencies and lost forms, the most common reason for the last minute posting was owing Uncle some money.

"I have to pay money," called Warren Fromm, Palatine, as he slid his return in the slot.

DONALD DOLNIAK, Arlington Heights, said "I had to pay. How's that for a reason?"

One woman said, as she dropped in other mail, "We filed a long time ago. My husband took care of it downtown." She shook her head in silent comment on those waiting until Tuesday night.

"Yeah, it's income tax. But it's not mine, it's my boss," said Corey Iverson, Rolling Meadows. "I sent mine in back in January . . . I don't know whether you could say I always do it early. This is only the second year I've done it."

The clock marched on toward midnight and the box postal assistant Downey had so recently emptied was rapidly getting filled.

"I owed 'em money and I'm not going to give it to 'em any sooner than I have to," shouted one taxpayer roaring off until next April 15.

Rolling Meadows mayor wins by 79

Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland J. Meyer was reelected Tuesday, narrowly defeating former mayor William Mieska.

Meyer beat Mieska, owner of a Rolling Meadows service station by 79 votes; Meyer had 1,817 and Mieska 1,738. Meyer now will serve a third term, having first been elected in 1967 by defeating then-incumbent Mieska.

Also in Rolling Meadows, Independent candidate Raymond Neukranz defeated incumbent Thomas Scanlan, who ran on Meyer's Citizens Action Party 1975 ticket. Reelected were incumbents John T. Rock, by only 7 votes in the 3rd Ward, and Kenneth Retzke in the 5th Ward.

Palatine

Village Board — Three incumbents were reelected, with independent Fred Zajonc leading the ticket with 1,934 votes. Despite Zajonc's victory, the Republican Party retained a 6-to-1 majority.

Also, reelected were Republicans Bryan P. Coughlin Jr., with 1,833 votes, and Philip E. Stern, with 1,488.

The other GOP candidate, John V. Serio Sr., placed fourth with 1,396. He was trailed by Independents Thomas D. LaDore, 1,108; and Patricia E. Miramonti, 1,008.

Park Board — Incumbent Waldon O. Degner, running against four other candidates, won almost 50 per cent of the total vote in Tuesday's election for a six-year term on the Palatine Park Board.

Degner got 564 of a total 1,278 votes. John Turner, who invested an estimated $2,400 in his campaign, claimed second with 283 votes; Mrs. Nancy Larsen got 188; Eugene Dorsch, 156, and Mrs. Patricia Picardi, 86.

Village clerk referendum — Palatine voters chose to retain the elected status of the clerk. In a referendum asking whether the clerk's position should be appointive or elective, 1,733 voters opted for election of the clerk, with 1,424 voting for an appointed clerk.

Des Plaines

City Council — Three of four veteran aldermen were ousted in Tuesday's election.

The only survivor among the four incumbents seeking reelection was Joseph Szabo, 1st, who defeated James Ballowe by a 2-to-1 margin.

In highly organized campaigns, Robert Sullivan defeated Ald. Kenneth Kehe in the 2nd Ward, and Robert Kraves won over Ald. Ewald Swanson in the 6th Ward.

Former alderman John Leer was elected over incumbent Spencer Chase in the 3rd Ward.

In the 4th Ward, Patrick (Dan) Brannigan beat Clifford Scherer for a vacant seat on the board. Aldermen Arthur Erbach, 5th, and Alan Abrams, 8th, were reelected without opposition, while Ald. John Seitz waged a successful campaign against write-in candidate Carroll Salinan.

Elk Grove Village

Village Board — Elk Grove Village residents reelected three trustees, with the closer challenger missing her bid for election by more than 100 votes.

Elected were Michael Tosto, with 908 votes; Ronald Chernick, 774, and Edward Kenna, 776. Chmaller Sandra Todd attracted 636 votes.

Schaumburg

Village board — Incumbent village officials, all members of the Schaumburg United Party (SUP), scored a resounding victory in Tuesday's election, with the leader of the ticket, Trustee Raymond Kessell winning the village presidency by a margin of more than 3-to-1.

Kessell polled 3,143 votes. Sally O'Brien got 1,041. Incumbent Village Clerk Sandy Carsello was elected to her third term with 2,383 votes over challenger Carolyn Sue Johnson, with 1,590.

In one of the four contests for the village board, SUP candidate Nels Horstrom tallied 2,738 to the 1,397 of his opponent Dominic Levita, of the newly organized Schaumburg Citizens for Planned Progress Party, outpolling Levita in his home precinct by one vote.

Other winners included incumbent Edward G. Olsen, leader of the ticket for three four-year terms on the village board with 3,035 votes; James Rogers, with 2,031; and Alan Larson, with 2,845. SCOPP candidates Lawrence Thelen, James Origer and Martin Ryan, totaled 1,292, 1,182, and 1,060, respectively.

Inverness

Village board — Two incumbents were reelected to the Inverness Village Board of Trustees Tuesday while independent candidate William B. Garrett succeeded in ousting Trustee A. James Valliere.

Garrett ran second in the election, with 343 votes, while incumbent Valliere attracted only 124.

Incumbent Walter Pugh led the ticket with 351 votes and his fellow trustee, George W. Guderley ran third to Garrett with 334.

Walker, Daley 'not aware' of redistricting

While Republican and Democratic congressmen deplored the redistricting plan for their districts, the two top Democrats in the state disclaimed any knowledge of the new map now before the Illinois Senate.

Denying any part in the proposal introduced by Senate Pres. Cecil Pardee, D-Chicago, was Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley. But Daley said those opposed to the Pardee map are "trying to build a Chinese wall around Chicago."

Gov. Daniel Walker told The Herald Tuesday he had not yet seen the map drawn by Pardee and was "surprised" at its introduction.

U. S. Rep. Abner Mikva, D-10th, who would lose most of his current district — including his hometown of Evanston — under the Pardee plan called the map a "vindictive attempt to gain tighter City Hall control of the suburbs."

Sihanouk will be figurehead in Communist Cambodia

PARIS (UPI) — Exiled Prince Norodom Sihanouk's role in a Communist-run Cambodia likely will be that of a figurehead and any new government will be directed by little-known rebel leader Khieu Samphan, a spokesman for Sihanouk said Tuesday.

The statement was telephoned from Peking and broadcast here by Radio France, as the fall of the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh to the rebel Khmer Rouge (Cambodian Red) appeared imminent.

Sihanouk was deposed as Cambodia's chief of state in a bloodless coup March 18, 1970, and went into exile in Peking. He said that if he returned, it likely would be as a figurehead — a sort of "public relations officer for international affairs," as he defined it.

The telephoned announcement indicated an agreement on governing Cambodia had been reached between Sihanouk and the Khmer Rouge insurgents, whose leaders include some of the pudgy prince's one-time enemies.

One of them was Khieu Samphan, the 45-year-old Paris-educated economist who directed the rebels' day-to-day war in Cambodia. Sihanouk ordered Khieu Samphan jailed in 1967. The rebel leader fled to the jungles.

In Peking, Sihanouk named Khieu Samphan defense minister in his government in exile.

In the statement Tuesday, Sihanouk's spokesman said that "as soon as our capital has been liberated, the Royal Government for the National Union of Cambodia and its administration will move immediately to Phnom Penh to assume all national responsibilities."

He added, "Mr. Khieu Samphan, leader of the Khmer Rouge, will preside over the council of ministers in the absence of Sihanouk's prime minister whose state of health must detain him in Peking."

In an interview broadcast Monday by the radio station Europe One, Sihanouk himself said, "After the victory I would be a chief of state and beneath me there would be an administration and a government entirely of Khmer Rouge.

He said "I am not a Khmer Rouge. I am not Communist. I don't understand Communism, but it so happens that the Khmer Rouge still recognizes me as the chief of state of Cambodia."

His spokesman's statement Tuesday also rejected a U.S. request — according to Sihanouk — that the prince retake full powers in Cambodia and obtain a cease-fire from the Khmer Rouge.

Khieu Samphan's role as leader of the rebel forces, friends said, was an unlikely one for a man whose background was schooling in Paris in law and economics, plus an almost total lack of military training.

But he has a reputation for organization. Khieu Samphan is given credit for the success of the Chinese-style farm communes and mobilization of the population over the 90 per cent of Cambodia controlled by the Khmer Rouge.

6 suburbanites charged with smuggling cocaine

Ten persons, six of them residents of northern suburbs, were indicted by a federal grand jury Tuesday on charges they smuggled more than $1,250,000 worth of South American cocaine into the United States.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Michael Monico said James Loesch, 25, suburban Lake Bluff, was the leader of the drug ring. The other suburban residents named in the indictment were Fred Young, 25, Highland, who is a fourth-grade teacher in the Chicago public school system; Mrs. Cecilia Hamilton, 21, McHenry; John Doyle, 21, Lake Forest; Wayne Urbanek, 21, Lake Forest; and Jay Wetterer, 22, Lake Bluff.

Dash of depression in state of economy

Depressing figures on the state of the economy came Tuesday from the government and the auto industry. The Federal Reserve Board said industrial production in March — the output of factories, mines and utilities — showed a decline for the sixth consecutive month.

The nation's automakers, meanwhile, said new car sales for the first 10 days of April were the poorest for the period in 14 years. General Motors and Ford, said car sales followed the downward trend of March with the end of the industry rebate program. GM delivered 86,188 new cars, Ford delivered 48,670, Chrysler 19,803 and American Motors 8,529, a drop of 22 per cent from a year ago. In Germany, Volkswagen announced it will dismiss 25,000 workers by the end of next year because of the worst slump in its history.

Grand jury postpones Hearst farmhouse case

A federal grand jury investigation into the possible harboring of Patricia Hearst in a Pennsylvania farmhouse was postponed indefinitely Tuesday. The subpoena against the only known witness was blocked. The witness, Jay Weiner, 20, of Philadelphia, had testified earlier and had been subpoenaed for a second appearance Wednesday. The subpoena was put into abeyance, after his attorney filed a motion that it be suppressed entirely, charging the government had used improper means in its investigation.

Britons clobbered with tax hikes

The Labor government Tuesday clobbered Britons with tax hikes hitting everything from booze to bingo and taking more than $2.4 billion out of their pockets as its answer to inflation. Announcing this to a grimly silent House of Commons, Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey said huge tax increases and slashed government spending were unavoidable in order to pull Britain out of her current inflation fueled economic crisis. Healey warned that the world economic recession is the grimmest since the 1930s.

Portugal's industries are nationalized

Portugal's leftwing rulers turned the country into Western Europe's most Socialized nation Tuesday by nationalizing most basic industries and ordering the start of a fundamental land reform program. "We believe we are on the road to the future, on our country's road to economic, political and social progress, on the road to liberty," Prime Minister Vasco Goncalves said. The far-reaching nationalizations appeared to be primarily aimed at pacifying the country's rising labor unrest and disruptions.

Foreign Relations panel completes first draft of S. Viet emergency bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday completed a first draft of legislation to give President Ford a $200-million South Vietnam emergency fund, mainly for evacuating Americans and some South Vietnamese.

The legislation would also allow U.S. troops to be used to safeguard the evacuation.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger predicted the legislation, on lines worked out at an unusual White House meeting Monday between President Ford and the entire committee, "would be acceptable to the President."

The draft legislation, which committee chairman Sen. John Sparkman described as "tentative," will be sent to the White House for study and the committee was to consider it again Wednesday.

Kissinger, in a 2 1/2 hour appearance before the Senate Appropriations Committee Tuesday, also pressed for an additional $722 million in military aid for the Saigon government which he said would "run out of ammunition" by early June.

"If Congress does not approve our request then chaotic conditions will develop quite rapidly," Kissinger said, echoing administration warnings that Saigon had a chance to survive the Communist onslaught with additional American aid but would inevitably fall without it.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., said the general contingency fund was envisaged by the committee as "a global fund" to underwrite the evacuation of U.S. citizens and some other nationals.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, added "There also is recognition that some endangered Vietnamese would want to come out with the Americans."

Church said the language of the legislation would allow evacuation of some South Vietnamese "as long as it would not require use of our forces for anything other than the evacuation."

The legislators were seeking language which would keep any U.S. forces out of possible armed confrontations with either North or South Vietnamese.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey said it "conceivable but unlikely" that would be able to siphon off part of evacuation fund to shore up South Vietnam's defenses.

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Communist-led rebels bombarded Phnom Penh from two sides Tuesday. The government's best army division destroyed its own supplies and retreated five miles to try to protect the capital in the dying hours of its defense.

Military sources said the rebels were a bare 10-minute drive from the heart of the city and collapse appeared imminent. Khmer Rouge insurgents swept into the northwestern suburbs and hammered the eastern fringes with barrages of artillery and rocket fire, touching off fires and turning residents into refugees.

A message on the UPI leased news wire between Phnom Penh and Saigon-Hong Kong said:

"Situation seems to be very critical and unsure there will be any more messages because of circuit break . . . SOS." Then the transmissions ended.

In a broadcast monitored in Saigon, the rebels said, "Phnom Penh is now on the point of collapse, and the liberation forces have liberated almost all of the country."

The government's 7th Division, rated by military experts the country's best, abandoned its headquarters at Doem Ampil, nine miles to the north of the capital, blew up its American-provided supplies and fell back five miles to try to shore up Phnom Penh's defenses and stave off its imminent collapse.

This left Phnom Penh open to short-range mortar fire from all sides.

Field reporters said six Cambodian T28 propeller-driven fighter-bombers struck back at insurgent forces assaulting an armored personnel carrier corps headquarters five miles west of the capital. This indicated that, at least temporarily, the city's airport was in government hands.

Rebel radio broadcasts monitored in Saigon said the insurgents had seized the airport at Pochentong and a nearby radio transmitting station.

In South Vietnam, Communist artillery attacks shut down the sprawling Bien Hoa air base and the government abandoned another province capital after an assault by tank-led Communist troops.

Military sources said more than 30 rounds of 122mm rocket and 130mm artillery shells struck Bien Hoa, headquarters for the government's Military Region III, 14 miles northeast of Saigon.

Two busloads of American contractors were turned back at the gates of Bien Hoa and ordered to return to Saigon.

There were no immediate reports on casualties or damage in the 10-minute barrage. Bien Hoa is headquarters for more than half of South Vietnam's air force.

Military sources also said government rangers abandoned the province capital of Phan Rang, 165 miles northeast of Saigon on the coast of the South China Sea, when 5,000 Communist troops with tanks attacked from three sides of the city.

In another province capital, the battered and besieged city of Xuan Loc, North Vietnamese artillerymen poured in more than 1,000 rounds in a single shelling attack Tuesday.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong had bombarded Bien Hoa for three days. Tuesday they also shot down two jet fighter-bombers, demonstrating they had moved long-range artillery and missiles to within 35 miles of Saigon.

Fighting continues to rock Beirut; 105 dead

BEIRUT (UPI) — Palestinian guerrillas and right-wing Phalangists battled throughout the Lebanese capital with mortars and machine guns for the third straight day Tuesday.

The government said it hoped a cease-fire would be arranged during the night between the Palestinians and the right-wing Phalangists, who are opposed to the presence of Arab guerrillas in Lebanon.

There were no official casualty tolls for Tuesday's new fighting but Palestinian spokesmen said two Palestinians and nine Lebanese were killed and dozens more wounded on both sides. An Armenian community spokesman said five Armenians also were killed by Phalangists, bringing the estimated three-day toll to 105 dead and more than 200 wounded.

Premier Rashid Solh met with leaders of both sides and told newsmen after a cabinet session he was optimistic that a cease-fire could be achieved, either Tuesday night or Wednesday.

But as of last night heavy fighting continued throughout the capital.

Two bomb blasts after dark damaged buildings off Beirut's fashionable Hamra shopping district as the violence inched upward, where most foreigners live.

One bomb wrecked a clothing store a block away from the U.S. Embassy Cultural Center and blew up a car belonging to the embassy's technical attaché, George Thomas Miller. The other hit the offices of a prominent right-wing politician and former president, Camille Chamoun.

Four policemen were wounded when a rocket landed on a rooftop where they were standing, police sources said.

Telephone lines and water pipes were cut in several parts of the city which became virtual war zones.

The Phalangists, whose leader Pierre Gemayel commands a well-armed militia of 5,000 men, have long opposed the guerrillas' presence in Lebanon on grounds they have too much influence.

Elsewhere in the Middle East:

• Israelis mourned the more than 10,000 war dead in fighting with the Arabs since Israel was born 27 years ago. Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said Israel was advancing toward peace but preparing for war at the same time.

• In Cairo, Egyptian Premier-designate Mamedouh Salem continued his consultations for formation of a new cabinet whose primary task will be to implement domestic reforms proposed by President Anwar Sadat.

Prosecution, defense rests in Connally case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Both the prosecution and the defense rested their cases Tuesday in the trial of former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally on charges he accepted a $10,000 bribe from a milk producers cooperative.

The attorneys ended their cases after Connally, the last of 11 defense witnesses, completed two days of testimony in which he emphatically denied charges he accepted a bribe in 1971 for his help in convincing President Richard M. Nixon to increase federal price support for raw milk.

The jury of five men and seven women presumably will begin deliberations in the case late Wednesday.

While the defendant was still on the witness stand, prosecutor Frank M. Tuerkheimer charged during cross-examination that Connally repeatedly gave Watergate investigators wrong information during their initial investigation of the so-called milk fund scandal.

Tuerkheimer focused much of his attention on Connally's grand jury testimony in November, 1973, in which he failed to mention a meeting he had on Oct. 26 — only 19 days earlier — with milk producers lobbyist Jake Jacobsen about the alleged $10,000 payoff.

Connally mentioned only that he had met with Jacobsen on Oct. 29 about an unrelated Texas bank charter, according to the grand jury transcripts which Tuerkheimer read.

Jacobsen has contended that he made the payoff to Connally in 1971 and that Connally returned the $10,000 in cash during their Oct. 29 meeting in Houston, fearing the investigators were about to uncover it.

$1,000-a-plate fund raiser held by GOP

• President Ford Tuesday night led the cream of Republican officialdom at the GOP's first big post-Watergate fund raising function. The $1,000-a-plate dinner was expected to net nearly half a million dollars. The Republican National Committee and the House and Senate GOP campaign committees hope to divide at least $450,000 after expenses. The Democrats also are planning a big fund raising dinner this month, with $500-a-plate tickets. They expect to collect somewhat more than the Republicans for their two congressional campaign committees. The annual fund raising dinners are Washington traditions.

In his talk, Ford struck at the political exclusiveness of conservative elements in the GOP and said he intends to base his election campaign next year on a broad-based GOP philosophy.

• There already is a "no frills" airline operating in California, but the passengers are not necessarily enthusiastic about it. Bill Main, owner and operator of Security Transport, says there are few complaints about service, lack of coffee, tea and milk. A strict no smoking ban is enforced, the airline has no competition and the stewardesses carry .38 caliber pistols. The passengers are all prisoners being transported by police departments from one California city to another.

Funeral services were held Monday for Majorie Main, known to millions as "Ma Kettle," in Forest Lawn cemetery in Hollywood. She left no known relatives and had asked to be buried next to her husband, Stanley Krebs, a former university professor. . . . AT THE 1971 OPENING, Arlington Park Theatre was patronized by many local residents. The theater closed this weekend and will not reopen until a new leasing agreement is worked out with Hilton

Corp., the owners. In the past four years many celebrities have appeared on its stage, including Art Carney, Don Knotts, Burt Reynolds, Barbara Rush and recently, the Gabor sisters.

Arlington Park Theatre goes dark; expenses cited

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Arlington Park Theatre, which opened just four years ago amid high hopes that professional theater could flourish in the Northwest suburbs, has closed its doors.

Saturday's performance of "Brief Lives" marks the last production to be staged in the theater-in-the-round until a new rental agreement can be worked out between the Hilton Corp., owners of the theater, and either the present producer of Arlington Park Theatre, David Lonn, or a new production company.

A spokesman for Hilton Corp., released this statement: "The lease with Arlington Park Theatre is being terminated and the theater is temporarily closed. Hilton Corp. is doing whatever is necessary to have the theater reopened in the near future. But at this time we are not sure who the new operator will be."

ARLINGTON PARK THEATRE opened in July of 1971 adjacent to what was then the Arlington Park Towers Hotel. In the four years the theater has had five owners. The original lease called for a certain percentage of the weekly gross sales as rental payment "which just became impossible to meet," said Lonn.

Operating expenses greatly increased, he said, as the theater brought in bigger name stars and better productions.

"Our operating expenses fluctuate anywhere from $26,000 to $40,000 per week and our gross sales vary from $48,000 to $72,000 per week," Lonn said. "From this it is impossible to come up with a percentage formula."

LONN CITED SKYROCKETING real-estate taxes and

cost-of-living increases as other factors affecting the escalating costs of operating the theater.

Lonn added that previous owners were all sympathetic and realized that a new lease had to be developed.

By verbal agreement with previous owners, Lonn said his production company, Rannoch Productions, had not been paying the full amount stated in the lease.

HILTON, WHICH took over ownership of the theater last December, is holding Rannoch Productions to the original demands of the lease and in addition is asking $90,000 in back rent, Lonn said.

"Originally, the theater was designed as a typical suburban theater," said Lonn. "But people did not support it. It was a disaster. Burt Reynolds was the only thing that saved the theater during the first six months of operation. Bringing in comedies with has-been stars isn't the answer."

"We had to spend more money to bring in the kind of show people did want to see."

IN THE FOUR YEARS of its existence, Arlington Park Theatre, under the guidance of Lonn, has won several honors.

The theater has been awarded two Joseph Jefferson Awards for best production.

"Dance on a Country Grave," which had its premier at Arlington Park Theatre in December 1973, received the award as did "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," which won in 1972.

In addition, the latter production set a new record in Chicago theater by being nominated in five different "Jeff" categories and winning all five. No other production has been so honored.

'Disagreement healthy'

Zanca elected school board president after divided vote

Judith Zanca has been elected president of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education by a divided vote.

Mrs. Zanca, 81 Roxbury Ln., Des Plaines has served on the board for five years. She was elected by a 5-to-2 vote, rather than the customary "solidarity" vote of 7 to 0.

Following Mrs. Zanca's nomination for president, board member Paul Kucharski nominated Gerald Smiley, who served as president during the 1974-75 term, for president.

The motion died, for lack of a seconding vote, and Mrs. Zanca was elected with Smiley and Kucharski voting "no."

Smiles said the no votes are "all a part of our attempt to do everything in the open."

"It's healthy for board members to disagree," Smiley said. Avis Wold, 540 Ruskin Dr., Elk Grove Village, was elected secretary of the board.

In other action Monday, the board confirmed an earlier decision that directed the administration to begin preparing for a possible fall tax hike referendum. The authorization was given at the last meeting of the board, but members wanted the authorization confirmed by the new board, which was seated Monday.

New board members Lynne Helvie and Barbara Somogyi who were elected Saturday, took their seats on the board, replacing Albert Domanico, who retired, and Jean Cashman, who was unseated in Saturday's election.

Klyber, Wilber, Paglia win library board seats

Incumbent Nancy Klyber and newcomers Mary Wilber and Tina Paglia were elected to six-year terms on the Elk Grove Village Public Library Board Tuesday.

Incumbent library board member Darlene Greaves was unopposed for a four-year term.

Precinct turnouts paralleled the vote in the park board election, with voting heaviest in Precinct 7 (Admiral Byrd School), Precinct 3 (Ridge School) and Precinct 2 (Ruple School).

All three candidates were elected to their positions for the first time. Mrs. Klyber has been serving as an appointed board member since last November.

Expanding the library's book collection, offering additional programs and activities for junior high school students and creating a local "Friends of the Library" chapter are some of the priorities of the newly elected board members.

Cashman, Brennan oust park incumbents

Bicentennial and 20th anniversary of the village next summer.

A charter member of the Elk Grove Park Board, von Schaumburg said only "At least now I'll be able to watch the Thursday night movies. I lost, I don't have any other comment."

Cashman echoed the remarks of most persons who were surprised both at the turnout of about 2,000 voters, which was better than had been predicted, and the closeness of the race.

"It's been quiet and not much going on to come up with totals in some precincts that were only 6 to 10 apart," he said. "That's a substantial race and I think the turnout was pretty good for a park district election."

Teen shot by police out of intensive care

Timothy Engelson, the 18-year-old Mount Prospect youth shot by an Elk Grove Village policeman April 5, is in fair condition and has been transferred from the intensive-care unit at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

The youth earlier was in serious condition suffering from extensive abdominal injuries.

Officials of the State's Attorney's office are reviewing the case and have not decided if any charges will be filed.

The policeman, Patrolman William Jaworski, has been temporarily relieved of duty pending the outcome of the investigation.

Engelson has filed suit in Circuit Court against the policeman and the village seeking $1 million in damages.

VFW unit at convention

Sons of the VFW Unit 728, an affiliate of Elk Grove Village VFW Post 9284, recently attended the fourth annual state convention in Bloomington.

Elected to office in the state organization were Michael E. Soja, junior vice commander; John Mirali, judge advocate; Tim Connelly, trustee, and James A. Soja, trustee.

Other unit members attending the convention were Bill Connelly, Eric Theil, Bill Emslie, Dan Kuska and Jamie Champa.

Artemenko heads high school board

Gene Artemenko has been elected president of the High School Dist. 214 Board of Education.

Artemenko, 431 Millers Rd., Des Plaines, has served on the board since 1971, including a term as president in 1973-74.

Artemenko succeeds Jack Costello, who served as president for the 1974-75 term.

In Saturday's school board election, Artemenko led all candidates with 2,471 votes en route to reelection to his second full term in office. He was appointed to fill a one-year vacancy in 1971.

Walker program to fight sex bias

Gov. Daniel Walker announced support Tuesday for a five-point legislative program to "minimize sex discrimination in business practices."

The bills introduced in the Illinois General Assembly late last week would prohibit discrimination in credit, insurance and accommodations and open up part-time jobs for women, Walker said.

Walker's bill to open up part-time work for women authorizes state department heads to change up to 10 per cent of the jobs in their departments from full-time to part-time. Two of the bills would prohibit banks from discounting a married woman's salary when a couple applies for a mortgage and allow married women to keep their own credit files open, rather than rely on their husband's credit rating.

A fourth bill seeks to prohibit insurance companies from charging higher rates for women than for men with the same coverage. The fifth bill would prohibit private clubs, restaurants and hotels from rejecting women as customers or members.

Howlett fires 250; more?

Illinois Sec. of State Michael Howlett has fired more than 250 of his employees this year, and more layoffs are expected.

At the same time, Howlett's office has filed legislation which would put many of his remaining employees into a separate Civil Service-type "personnel code," thus protecting their job rights.

Most of the layoffs have come in the driver's license testing, registration and title sections. The firings, which come in the midst of a patronage battle in Illinois courts, are the result of a budget pinch and reorganization to provide better service, an aide said.

Illinois briefs

Freight service may go on

The financially troubled Rock Island R. R. may be ordered to continue freight operations when a court-ordered service extension ends May 15, a federal judge said Tuesday.

U. S. District Court Judge Frank McGarr, who originally ordered the railroad to postpone its freight shutdown until May 15, said he delayed the shutdown to allow time "to see where we stood."

An attorney for the Rock Island told McGarr many shippers assumed the March 26 ruling means the railroad will cease all freight operations May 15.

County assessments rise

Cook County real estate assessments reached $13.4 billion in 1974, a $614 million increase over 1973 totals, according to figures released Tuesday by Cook County Assessor Thomas Tully.

Tully said the higher assessments could result in lower taxes and noted that the figure marked the first time suburban areas have overtaken the city in total assessed valuation.

State pinball tourney set

The first State of Illinois pinball tournament will be held next week in Bloomington, with a special appearance by Chicago pinball wizard Steve Justman, it was announced Tuesday.

All receipts from the five-day tournament will be donated to St. Jude's Midwest affiliate in Peoria. The winner will receive a $1,000 professional pinball machine.

Market soars to highest '75 level; Dow hits 815

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market reached a 1975 high Tuesday.

The Dow Jones Industrial average gained 13 points to 815.93 — its highest level since 816.96 on June 26, 1974 — and

4 unemployment offices to open in Chicago area

Four new offices, where application for unemployment compensation benefits can be made, will open soon, officials of the Illinois Bureau of Employment Security said Tuesday.

No specific dates were available as to when the offices will open, but the move of equipment into at least one of the facilities is to begin Thursday, a spokesman said.

One office, 223 Main St., Woodstock, will be aimed at alleviating the overload of claimant filing at the Des Plaines office, Comr. Billy J. Paige, said. Other new offices will be at 914 E. Lincoln Hwy., East Chicago Heights; 5417 W. Madison St., Chicago; and 13113 S. Western, Blue Island.

The announcement comes on the threshold of a strike threat by members of Local 1006 — American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees that threatens to close down the system unemployment compensation division.

Results of the union referendum are to be announced today.

In the news...

Savings inflow up $205 million for February

Reflecting a national trend, savings inflow in Illinois savings and loan associations rose more than $205 million in February, 9.7 per cent higher than January and more than 106 per cent higher than February 1974.

Loans closed in Illinois, however, were the lowest for that month since 1971. February loans totaled $151 million in February compared to nearly $146 million in 1971, said H. Thomas Dunck, Illinois Savings and Loan League president.

Earnings: Net operating earnings for the first quarter of 1975 were $396,123 compared with $317,963 for the same period last year, said Arthur H. Weiss, president, First National Bank of Des Plaines. "This is an increase of 25 per cent and represents earnings of 71 cents per share," he added. . . . Des Plaines National Bank has announced a 7 per cent per share cash dividend for the first quarter. . . . De Soto Inc., Des Plaines, reports a first quarter loss of $1.78 million or 33 cents per share compared to a 1-cent per share profit for the first quarter of 1974. The company's sales were $51.8 million, a 13.2 per cent decrease from last year.

Directors of A. O. Smith Corp. voted to reduce quarterly common stock dividends to 15 cents per share from 19.4 cents.

Happenings: Allied Chemical Corp. will relocate from Palatine to 1 Woodfield Pl., Schaumburg. . . . Ribbon cutting was held recently for the opening of Chicago Savings & Loan Association's branch office, 1065 Oakton, Des Plaines. . . . Technical Publishing Co., Barrington has purchased for cash, Digest Books Inc., from MPK Enterprise, Northfield. . . . Nardit & Co., the industrial real estate firm, has moved its central offices from Chicago to Hillside. . . .

People: Michael S. Sweazy of Arlington Heights recently received a 10-year pin for employment by Allstate Insurance Co. at the Sears store, 4730 W. Irving Park Rd., Chicago. . . . Lawrence J. Pezen, Hoffman Estates, is one of Illinois Bell's employees to receive a perfect score during the company's February record-quality audit. Pezen, a test center foreman, with his eight-man crew and 11 repair clerks, shattered all records to establish Chicago's first perfect score in the audit.

brought its six-day advance to 72.20 points. It has climbed 46.93 points this month, 198.84 for the year and 237.48 since its 1974 low of 577.60 on Dec. 6.

New York Stock Exchange volume soared to 29,620,000 shares from the revised figure of 26,800,000 traded Monday. It was the ninth largest turnover in history and the heaviest since 34,133,840 were traded March 4.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained 0.70 to 65.30, also a new 1975 high. The average price of a NYSE common share increased by 22 cents. Advances topped declines, 829 to 603, among the 1,817 issues crossing the tape.

DuPont rose 5 1/2 points, giving it a two-day gain of 11 1/2 points. Although the chemical giant said its first quarter earnings would amount to around 40 cents a share — down sharply from a year ago — some said this was encouraging because analysts had pegged it for a loss.

DuPont's PERFORMANCE set the pace for the rest of the market. Steels, rails, oils, oil services, drugs, retails and some glamors in particular were strong.

American Telephone & Telegraph warrants led the actives, up 5/32 to 13/32 on 672,200 traded. There were several blocks in the issue. G. D. Searle, the second most active Big Board issue, gained 1 1/2 to 21 5/8 on 245,400 shares. Borden was in third place, off 1/8 to 22 5/8 on 226,600 shares, including a block of 200,200 shares at 22 1/2.

Prices closed higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange. The Amex market value index gained 0.53 to 82.77. Volume totaled 3,247,000 shares, compared with 3,273,000 traded Monday.

by Ed Landwehr

Price shouldn't be the guiding factor in electronic service and purchases. Rather the overall cost through the years should be considered. You probably will forget the price, but the quality is in front of you each time you turn on the set. And maintenance should be the most accurate with replacement components at least equal to the original equipment. This consideration has proven to make the cost less.

At Landwehr's Home Appliances, we use only the best components for electronic maintenance, all carrying substantial guarantees. Our servicing instruments and TV bulletins are the latest for accuracy. And our business growth has shown that we have the know-how to apply it. Phone 255-0700 next time and let us prove this bargain idea to you.

'Help, don't pity, alcoholic workers'

Employers urged to establish counseling programs for drinkers

by STEVE NOVICK

People with drinking problems are being killed by kindness by their employers, supervisors and peers, said Ray Kelly, industrial-employee alcoholism coordinator for the State of Illinois.

Those working around people whose drinking affects their jobs are ignoring a "time bomb" that each year kills 86,000 of the 9 million alcoholics in the United States, he added.

Kelly spoke during a recent seminar on alcoholism, "The $15 Billion Hangover," sponsored by the Des Plaines Chamber of Commerce and Industry, the Maine Township Council on Alcoholism and Forest Hospital, Des Plaines.

He told business leaders they can establish a program to identify and treat alcoholism among their employees. The program also will save the company thousands of dollars, he added.

THE KEY TO a successful program is to recognize that alcoholism is an illness like diabetes or heart disease and to deal with drinking problems the same way.

Just as an employer cannot diagnose other diseases, he cannot diagnose alcoholism, Kelly said. He suggested establishing a program through which an employee whose job performance is declining can be sent to a counselor with professional expertise.

Kelly showed a graph indicating that the typical alcoholic begins to show a slow drop in efficiency between the seventh and 11th years of his career.

Performance then drops sharply, leading to dismissal from his job in about the 14th year. Kelly said the problem of dismissal can be avoided by dealing with the disease earlier.

Managers and supervisors who notice increased tardiness, absenteeism or frequent disappearance from an employee's station but do nothing about it are doing no one a favor.

Hiding for an employee what might be suspected as an alcohol problem or encouraging the employee to hide the problem, too, he said.

FRED WACHTER, industrial alcoholism consultant for the state, said traditional appearances of alcoholism should not fool anyone.

The classic markings of red eyes, decline in personal appearance and habitual drinking are not the only marks of the alcoholic. Earlier signs are slow or sloppy work and poor decision making.

Kelly defined alcoholism as a problem involving anyone whose drinking affects how they function, regardless of how little beer or liquor they consume.

Both speakers emphasized the employee whose alcoholism is becoming evident should be put on notice that his alternatives are to accept help or eventually lose his job.

SETTING UP A counseling program for people whose job performance declines is not a witch hunt, he added.

A company policy should state that any program makes no moral judgments, Kelly said. Supervisors should avoid references to drinking and should only monitor performance, except when a personal relationship ensures that a morale boost can be offered, he added.

He also said employees should be told which programs are available and a confidential referral system can be established.

Many small companies have formed a cooperative to deal with alcoholism, perhaps hiring a consultant who works between them. Employers should be familiar with the agencies accessible to their employees, Kelly said.

AN ALCOHOLIC in business should not be identified by appearances. Early detection can show up in a decline in job performance that usually begins between the seventh and 11th year after entering a career.

Other stores 'lower all along'

Dominick's, Jewel making price cuts

The competitive spirit is hitting supermarket operators with Dominick's Finer Foods announcing reductions Monday, Jewel Food Stores making its announcement Tuesday and other chains saying they have been offering lower prices all along.

"We've tried to be explicit that by cutting out coupons we are reevaluating our price structure with the lowering of wholesale prices coming to the full benefit of the customer," said Dominick's spokesman.

"We're going through our entire inventory, between 8,000 and 10,000 items and making 3,000 to 4,000 price changes," he said. The reductions will be between 10 and 25 per cent and will be in effect within the coming week. Dell, a certain amount of grocery items and merchandise "all the way down the line" will be reduced, he said.

JEWEL PRESIDENT Harry G. Becker announced his company's reduction Tuesday.

"Reductions will be completed by Thursday," he said of items to include brand name and Jewel label grocery items, canned goods and beverages, frozen foods, butter, eggs, margarine, cheeses, salads and many nonfood household items.

More than 3,000 of the 8,000 to 12,000 items carried at Jewel stores will be reduced an average of 10 per cent in price, a spokesman added. Price reductions will range between 2 and 28 per cent.

"NATIONAL HAS BEEN on this program since last November," said James Watson, spokesman for National Tea Co. "We've lowered 2,000 prices in the last six weeks. Inflation is zero or lower (on many grocery items)."

We're not losing a daughter. We're gaining a dowry.

Let's eliminate food sales tax

If Illinois can discard the present sales tax on food and prescription drugs — as has been proposed by a Republican legislator — we'll be taking a giant step towards an equitable system of state taxation.

The proposal, from State Sen. James Philip, R-Elmhurst, is not only a step toward removing an unfair tax burden from the shoulders of those who can least afford it, but it also doesn't cut needed tax revenue for the state.

Philip's proposal eliminates the 5 per cent tax on food and prescription drugs. In turn, it raises the present state sales tax on all other commodities from 5 to 6 per cent.

As a result, we'll be taxed more heavily for non-essential items, but we'll no longer face that nuisance tax every time we buy a sack of groceries.

The plan is of special benefit — as it should be — to those (the elderly and the unemployed) who must spend more of their income on food and drugs. It will shift some of the burden to those of us who can afford both food and non-essential purchases.

Meanwhile, in Cook County a new liquor tax has been proposed to meet an anticipated county deficit of $18 million. This proposal, however, is not any kind of legitimate tax reform, as is Philip's proposal, for it is merely another nuisance tax.

County Board Pres. George Dunne, rather than inflicting another new tax on us, should cut $18 million from the county budget. This latest scheme will only drive liquor buyers to counties where liquor is cheaper. The new tax should be rejected by the County Board.

The issue, on both proposals, should be tax reform, and Philip's proposal clearly moves toward a system which taxes us on our ability to pay. Gov. Walker should support this proposal, to assure it of bi-partisan support; it's a reform that's overdue for the long-suffering taxpayers of Illinois.

The lighter side

New gun scheme needs regulation

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON — At long last the administration has come up with a gun control proposal that stands some chance of being approved by Congress.

Its author is Attorney General Edward H. Levi, who, despite only a short time on the job, already is showing amazing comprehension of how the government operates.

Levi's formula, in case you missed it, or in case your mind boggled before you could finish it, contains this provision:

Transport, transfer or sale of handguns and handgun ammunition would be prohibited in urban areas where the crime level exceeded the national average by a certain percentage or exceeded the national average by a smaller percentage but at a rapid rate of increase over the area's previous level.

The only way that provision could be improved would be by adding the phrase "whichever comes first."

I doubt Levi's approach will be any more acceptable to gun control opponents than an outright ban has been. But it will appeal strongly to members of Congress.

The section cited above, as you can see, sounds almost exactly like a tax loophole. And that may make the legislation irresistible if it comes to a vote in that form.

Anything that resembles a tax loophole is almost automatically assured of passage.

But getting the bill through Congress is only half the picture. The half that intrigues me is how this type of regulatory program will work out in practice. Perhaps somewhat as follows:

You are walking down a deserted city street at night. Someone steps out of the shadows and presses something against your back.

"Your money or your life," he snarls. "Just a moment, sir," you reply. "May I inquire whether that is a handgun that is poking me in the ribs?" "It sure as shooting ain't no pepper-mint stick, buster."

"I suspected as much. And may I also inquire whether you perchance acquired this weapon sometime within the last 30 days?"

"Quit stalling, Mac, and hand over the dough before I drill you. But to answer your question I bought this here heater last Saturday night."

"Aha! In that event, the transaction was illegal."

"Whadda ya mean, illegal?" "Well, my good man, it so happens that as of last month crime in this area, which has a population of 50,000 or more, rose to a level 20 per cent above the national average, thus making handgun sales unlawful."

"Curse, fooled again!" (United Press International)

They attack threat to apartments

Open fairy tale to The Herald and Rolling Meadows City Council:

Once upon a time a parcel of land was annexed to the Kingdom of Rolling Meadows. It was owned by the great and mighty Kassuba, and they said, "Let there be Meadow Trace," and Phase I and II were built. The buildings housed many families for many years, however they were built before strict building codes and the buildings fell into disrepair. One building was destroyed by fire, another boarded up after a new road was built. The Kurse of Kassuba was upon the complex and another building caught on fire. But the Good Fairy Littlestone saw the chaos and heard the residents cry for help. And she came and began to initiate changes. The Recreation Hall was redecorated, repair begun on the buildings, new playground equipment ordered, a monthly newsletter published and a full recreation program started. The Good Fairy Littlestone showed that she cared about the residents even if the Rolling Meadows City Council did not.

The moral of my story is this: My home is Whispering Glen Apartments, and I do not like it being called a municipal headache. Yes, Meadow Trace had its problems, and I agree that building 4712 and 4728 should come down. However, the "Meadows Ghetto" image is gone and Littlestone is doing its damdest to undo 10 years of damage. My family lives in an apartment because we cannot, at this time, afford a home. We looked at Algonquin Park Apartments, Weathersfield, Interlude and Prairie Ridge before moving here. As Rolling Meadows residents whose children must attend Schaumburg schools, we seem to be treated like second class citizens because we are apartment dwellers. I'm sorry, Rolling Meadows City Council, I will not leave because you want another office building. Before you tear down housing, try the empty, vacant "municipal headache" between Arbor and Algonquin.

Peter and Karen Sauter
Rolling Meadows

Election pleases her

Due to an unfortunate accident that had traffic tied up in front of the motel where my family was enjoying the Easter holiday, I was not able to obtain the final results of the Prospect Heights Park District April 1 election until April 2. I called from the middle of Disney World to learn of my victory. Can you imagine being in the middle of thousands of people, my family was off in the Haunted House attraction, and not being able to share my joy? Thanks to some nice people from one of the southern suburbs who were using the next telephone I was able to share my enthusiasm and not be hauled away in that nice white wagon.

Thanks to the staff of your paper for all the coverage, especially the endorsement, all my friends who voted for me and made all the telephone calls. I also want to say that I hope the gentlemen who were my opponents will continue to show interest in the park district. Mr. Lohrenz I did not have the pleasure of meeting, but Chuck Guedelhoefer really is quite a fine man who I hope will continue to share his knowledge with all the park board.

Last but not least, thanks to my fellow board members who made me very welcome. I'll do my best to serve all of the residents of Prospect Heights to the best of my ability.

Sports article 'inadequate'

I've read your two-part series on boys and girls in sports and I believe you have received inadequate and incomplete information on the sports situation that exists, or at least that of Dist. 214.

In the articles, you gave the impression that the girls have practically reached equality in sports, and are chasing many boys from athletic opportunity. That is far from true. Gary Avischious may be discriminated against, but the instances where boys are discriminated against are very few compared to those against girls. Most of the problems are against teams as opposed to individuals.

For example, at Buffalo Grove High School where I am a student, the boys' basketball team has a four month season. The girls' basketball team has a two month season and has to practice before school because the boys' team practices after school. Only the girls who can get transportation to school early in the morning can participate in basketball.

The boys' gymnastics team has a three month season while the girls' team has a one month season. Also, the boys' gymnastics coach works only with gymnastics, while the girls' coach has to work with gymnastics, swimming and volleyball.

The girls officially have one more sport than boys, but with the huge inequalities, girls are still at a great disadvantage. And many of the teams are small; the girls' golf team has only four members.

The problem lies in the shorter season lengths for girls (some of which are being changed slightly, but are still unequal), lack of enough coaches for girls and the allowing of boys to dominate in use of facilities. Some changes must be made.

Assistant Sports Editor Paul Logan wrote an article clarifying The Herald's policy of equality in coverage, but your series is a contradiction of his claim. Even if you wanted to help Gary Avischious, you should have at least included a third part to the series exposing the real discrimination in high school sports: the discrimination against girls.

'Helpful to consumers'

In Dorothy Oliver's April 5 article titled, "Children's new playground friends: safer equipment," mention was made of a notice published in the Federal Register by the Consumer Products Safety Commission to inform the public that they were "commencing formal proceedings to develop the safety requirements and inviting anyone to submit standards." Having worked recently for the Office of Consumer Affairs in Washington, D. C., your article brought to my mind some information for consumers that your readers might find helpful.

Consumer-related actions are continuously proposed by government agencies. These federal agencies are required by law to include their proposals for public review and comment in the Federal Register, a scholarly record of all actions proposed by such agencies. It is published Monday through Friday (excepting federal government holidays) and is virtually impossible for most of the American public to keep up with — especially on the regular basis need to monitor the government effectively.

The Office of Consumer Affairs, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Washington, D. C., North Building, 2020I prepares a listing, a summary written in "plain English" of consumer-related proposals from the Federal Register. This listing is called "Consumer Register," and is a supplement to their bi-monthly newsletter, Consumer News. This publication can inform us about what the federal government is doing and not doing to protect the American consumer. "Consumer Register" also directs us to appropriate federal agencies to air our individual gripes, affirmative support of proposed actions and our better ideas.

Hits Viet 'defeat'

America, hear well the voice of your 55,000 dead soldiers crying from their graves. America, watch closely the sacred land steeped in their blood being defiled with defeat. America, bow your head in shame as your cowardice rips apart the Paris agreement you forged with so priceless an anvil.

Once, first in war, you marched only if it was to victory. Once, first in peace, you stood proud and strong, believing in yourself and your deeds. Now, now you flee from your conscience and your duty even faster than the millions of refugees flee from the Communist pigs.

Beware America, for history wagers three million orphans that this blood you shall never wash from your hands. Never.

Writer complimented

On Wednesday, March 26, an article appeared in The Herald written by Jill Betner about me and my "career" as an alcoholic. The article was exceptionally well done. It showed a depth of understanding that I didn't think could be packed into a piece of writing of that length.

That article, like almost any piece of writing, can have sentences lifted out of it and torn to shreds; that's not unique. What separates Jill's handling of the article from other writing is the "tone" she built into it. That "tone" has reached people more than almost any reading I've done on alcoholism and its treatment.

Evidently, her handling of the material reached others, too. The A.D.D. office has received calls from people since its publication who are seeking help and are prospective patients of the program. And, despite the fact that I have an unlisted phone number, I've received calls from people I've never heard of that are requesting my help.

Results? Most emphatically! That was the purpose of the whole thing and it succeeded eminently well; my compliments to the writer.

The almanac

Today is Wednesday, April 16, the 106th day of 1975 with 259 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

Those born this date are under the sign of Aries.

Wilbur Wright, American inventor of the airplane, was born April 16, 1867. Actor Charlie Chaplin was born on this date in 1889.

On this day in history:

• In 1862, Congress abolished slavery in the District of Columbia.

• In 1947, more than 500 persons were killed when a French frigate carrying nitrates exploded at the dock in Texas City, Tex.

• In 1968, novelist Edna Ferber died in New York City at the age of 82.

• In 1972, Apollo 16 blasted off for the moon with three American astronauts aboard. Also that day, U.S. planes raided the North Vietnam capital of Hanoi.

A thought for the day: American writer Charles Warner said, "The thing generally raised on city land is taxes."

Gallo wines boycott focuses on area

by STEVE FORSYTH

The farm-labor dispute raging from the fields of California to the halls of Congress has surfaced again in the Northwest suburbs.

Sympathizers of the United Farm Workers of America are conducting picket and boycott campaigns at some local liquor stores, pressuring owners to remove Gallo wines from the shelves.

At the heart of the issue is a union jurisdictional dispute between the powerful Teamsters and the United Farm Workers concerning control of the thousands of migrant farm workers in California, and perhaps the nation. The Teamsters have managed to draw thousands of members away from the once-booming Farm Workers, which has dwindled from 55,000 to an estimated 10,000.

GALLO HAS BECOME the object of the nationwide boycott drive because the workers on Gallo ranches had UFWA contracts that have since been lost to the Teamsters. The dispute is not over wages, which are reportedly similar under both unions, but over working conditions. Farm Workers spokesmen say the union is more concerned with proper toilet facilities in the fields, cool drinking water, union halls for job assignments and protection from hazardous pesticides.

Rusty Kennedy, a United Farm Workers representative, said efforts in the Northwest suburbs are aimed at convincing liquor retailers not to sell Gallo products.

Earlier boycott efforts in this area by the union and by followers of Caesar Chavez, United Farm Workers leader, have been directed at lettuce and table grapes.

Union pickets paraded last weekend in front of Kenessey Gourmet Internationale, 1100 S. Elmhurst Rd., Mount Prospect, asking customers to boycott the entire store, not just the Gallo wines on the shelves.

Kennedy said the picketers have now decided not to continue their efforts against Kenessey, but will instead move around to various liquor stores and try to inform patrons about the farm worker issue.

"We're going to move around more, not to turn people away but to inform them," Kennedy said. "We felt we were offending a few people at Kenessey's."

A SPOKESMAN for Kenessey said, "They've made their point. They have served a purpose and have informed some people, and we agree the itinerant farm workers do have a problem."

Owner Ivan Kenessey said business was off as much as 50 per cent Saturday because of the picketing. Customers could frequently be seen returning to their cars in the parking lots without entering the store. Kenessey said other stores in the shopping center were also losing business because of the pickets.

Kenessey had negotiated with Kennedy over the past few weeks about removing the Gallo wines, but he said there was pressure from the Teamsters, who deliver supplies to all the stores in the shopping center. Instead, he offered to poll the customers through a ballot box in the store, but Kennedy turned that down, saying the customers were not informed enough to vote on the issue.

KENESSEY AND other businessmen in the shopping center expressed concern for the picketers' cause but agreed that hurting Kenessey's business was not doing any good.

Kennedy said the United Farm Workers' support in this area is primarily from the Catholic churches, but some of the young picketers have learned about the issue from speakers invited into high school classes.

Gallo sales representatives also stood outside the store Saturday, trying to explain their side of the dispute. They are promoting passage of a Senate bill that would amend the National Labor Relations Act to include agricultural workers.

Although the move would allow the farm workers the free, secret elections they are seeking, Kennedy said there are drawbacks that prevent them from supporting the amendment.

AMONG THE DRAWBACKS is a prohibition of secondary boycotts such as the action against Kenessey's. Kennedy said the National Labor Relations Board also requires a 90-day "cooling-off" period in labor disputes, but that is longer than most harvest seasons.

Residency requirements would also prevent migratory workers from voting on union issues, he said. Instead, the United Farm Workers are hoping for more help from the California legislature, where there are bills pending that would regulate union elections in the state.

Gallo and Teamsters representatives also want state and federal legislation, but they want to put the farm workers under the jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Act.

A Teamsters spokesman in Washington, D.C., said the union has no fear of a free, secret election in California if it is conducted under a body of laws. He said Chavez has indicated he wants elections run by priests or other third parties.

The Teamsters' spokesman said there are 250,000 farm laborers in California, and 50,000 are now under Teamster contracts. He said that leaves a lot of room for union competition, which could benefit the workers by getting them better contracts.

COOPERATIVE BLOOD REPLACEMENT PLAN 477-7500

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Jaw arthritis is possible

It all started while we were eating corn on the cob. My jaw snapped, seemed to go out of joint and, for a second I was stuck with my mouth opened. My daughter was sitting across the table and was shocked to see what had happened to me. When things got back to normal we all laughed and proceeded to eat our corn. Then, snap again. From that day on it would happen every now and then. That was two years ago.

Last winter when I was out in the cold only a few minutes my face became swollen on that side, and the next day the joint pain was back. It lasted longer than two months.

I went to see several doctors, including ear, nose and throat specialists. I have been checked for arthritis of the jaw, as I have rheumatism in various places and have had for a long time, but all the tests were negative.

A week ago I was out in the severe cold weather. (I'm from Canada and winter can be very severe.) The next morning when I opened my mouth to eat my toast, I couldn't. I tried harder and finally got it in, but I could hardly chew. At lunch I could hardly open my mouth wide enough to insert a fork. In the afternoon I tried a snack of cookies and milk. I ate it with tears rolling down my cheeks. The pain was unbearable.

What do you think? In what direction should I go now? I can see the day when I'll have to eat through a straw. Please help me!

From the rest of your letter I know you have seen a lot of doctors and have already seen a dentist.

As one doctor explained to you, the jaw joint is a unique hinge joint. You can have arthritis of the joint.

If the teeth are out of line or if a person has improperly fitted dentures it can put a strain on the joint and lead to problems. The first thing to do is study that joint and the stresses and strains put upon it. Apparently this didn't happen with your earlier visits to a dentist. This may require a dental specialist and if you happen to have a dental school nearby I would suggest you go there. They would have a variety of different specialists in dentistry who could get to the bottom of the mechanics of your difficulty. You won't be the first case with this problem they have seen.

I DON'T KNOW why you are so reluctant to follow the route of getting the right dental care. When a person has trouble chewing it seems like the first thing to think about is the teeth. You may need to ask for an orthodontist, the dentist specializing in how teeth fit together and the mechanics of the working of the jaws.

Even if you have an underlying medical problem that has not been properly tagged as yet, you will still need a dentist to work with you on this problem. If there is something mechanically wrong, he can surely improve it and help you to prevent such attacks.

Touhy Ave. shows need for road project: Walker

Gov. Daniel Walker stopped briefly in the Northwest suburbs Tuesday to promote his $4.1 billion "accelerated building program," citing poor surfacing on Touhy Avenue between Lincoln Avenue and Northwest Highway as an example of the need for the project.

Walker said the condition of Touhy between Skokie and Park Ridge is a prime example of the need for a major resurfacing of highways throughout the state.

Walker has asked the Illinois General Assembly for authority to issue state bonds for his building program, partly to establish jobs while the nation endures the current recession.

Walker said projects on roads in the Skokie-Niles area, including resurfacing projects on Lincoln Avenue, Elston Avenue, Foster Avenue, River Road, and Milwaukee Avenue, would cost more than $6.7 million and provide wages of around $1.7 million.

Win at bridge

Take insurance on lone king

Any rubber-bridge player worth his salt will pay a one-trick premium as insurance of today's three notrump contract. Match point duplicate players aren't likely to do so. A one-trick premium is likely to be a luxury in that game.

East plays the queen of spades at trick one. If West has led fourth best from a six-card suit, South can insure his contract by letting that queen hold. If West had led from a four-card suit, South can insure his contract by letting that queen hold. If West had led from a four-card suit it makes no difference what South plays. The defense never can collect more than four tricks.

South decides it is far more likely that West led from a five than from a six-card suit. Therefore, he wins the first trick with the king of spades and leads a club.

You can see that the club finesse is going to work and that if South takes the finesse he will start with 11 tricks: one spade, three hearts, two diamonds and five clubs.

South doesn't see that king of clubs and should take out a cheap insurance policy against finding the singleton king in the East hand. He plays dummy's ace of clubs!

The king doesn't drop and he leads a second club. West takes his king. If West plays a second spade, South gets his trick back; if West leads any other suit, South has to settle for 10 tricks.

Prospect's Gattas honored as top athletic director

George Gattas of Prospect High School has been named Athletic Director of the Year by the Illinois High School Directors Association.

"I had no idea . . . I'm very much surprised and honored," said the long-time Knight AD after being presented with a plaque at the IHSDA's annual convention in Peoria.

Gattas noted that he had been aware of being one of the nominees from his district but that there were 17 districts in the state eventually advancing one nominee for final consideration.

Gattas, who was president of the IHSDA in 1969 and currently is a member of the association's executive board, has a long and varied career as an athletic director that spans two states and 16 years.

This is his 10th year at the Prospect helm. His first AD job was at a small school in Kansas where he also doubled as a football, basketball and track coach.

"The job has become a much more complex one over the years, especially in recent times with the increased activity in girls sports," Gattas observed, noting, "But I enjoy my position immensely. It's a new challenge every day. And working with young people makes it a tremendously rewarding career."

Born and raised in Shenandoah, Pa., Gattas was a standout football player in high school there but interrupted his athletic career to spend two years in the Army during World War II before going on to college at Southwestern in Winfield, Kan. He then obtained his master's degree at George Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn.

Gattas first began coaching at Kaney

High School in Kansas southwest of Wichita. He moved up to athletic director there and then went on to Marshall, Ill., to assume similar duties.

"The move to Illinois was sort of reaching the happy medium," recalled Gattas, while pointing out that his wife was from Kansas, he was from Pennsylvania, and Marshall in downstate Illinois was about halfway in between. "I was always impressed with the school systems in this state," he added.

After three years at Marshall, he came up to Prospect in the fall of 1962 and served as an assistant football coach for two years before assuming the job of division head.

Gattas and his wife live in Mount Prospect and have five children, Marilyn, 24, who is married and a school teacher in Freeburg, Ill.; Marcia, 23, a school teacher living in Mount Prospect; Tom, 20, a part-time student and park district employee; Joe, 18, who will graduate from Prospect this spring; and Gerry, 12, a junior high student.

Last year the award was presented to another local man, Howard Lester. Lester retired in 1974 from the post of Dist. 214 coordinator for athletics.

SPLITT SECOND. Arlington speedster Matt Splitt wins the race against the clock despite a good stretch by Elk Grove first baseman Ken Wajerski of a high throw. Arlington tallied two in the third and two in the fifth to blank Elk Grove, 4-0. (Photo by Mike Seeling)

Townsend, Huber register Mid-Suburban mound gems

Righthander Dar Townsend twirled a nifty three-hitter and teammate Jim Vogts drove in two runs with a single as Arlington blanked Elk Grove, 4-0, in the Mid-Suburban League baseball opener for both clubs.

Townsend, employing a variety of off-speed deliveries, checked the Grenadiers on three singles by Bill Strybel, Paul Gulliksen and Barry Haft. In working the seven-inning distance, the rangy Arlington hurler walked only one while fanning 11.

Townsend was razor sharp in the early going, setting down the first 11 Elk Grove hitters he faced and 16 of the first 17 on the strength of nine whiffs.

Vogts and Jerry DeSimone backed Townsend's masterpiece with two hits apiece as the Cardinals tallied a pair of runs in each of the third and fifth innings.

Matt Splitt opened the third with a single to left and soph Mike Mayercek walked before an error pushed both runners into scoring position. Vogts drilled his first of two singles to drive in two.

Arlington doubled its lead in the fifth after two were out. DeSimone singled and stole his second of three bases on the afternoon while Brett Frase was drawing his third successive base on balls.

Consecutive singles by Townsend, Rick Purcell and John Vukovich rounded out the scoring as two more runs crossed.

Elk Grove stranded five runners over the final two innings without denting the plate. Bob Ray started on the hill for the Grenadiers and was relieved by Kevin Stockwell who pitched the sixth.

HERSEY TIPS PROSPECT

Hersey lefthander Bob Huber fired a one-hitter and Jim Lococo drove in the winning run with a ground single in the sixth inning as the Huskies opened their baseball season with a 2-1 victory over Prospect.

Huber, a junior, struck out nine and walked eight Prospect batters in gaining the win. He didn't allow a hit until two were out in the top of the sixth.

The game, played on Prospect's field although Hersey was the home team, was a scoreless duel between Huber and Knight righthander Dave Rochelle until the fifth. A line single by Lococo, only the second hit off Rochelle, plus two sacrifice bunts and a sacrifice fly off the bat of Don Bianchi gave Hersey a run.

Bases on balls put Prospect runners in scoring position in three of the first four innings against Huber, but each time the Huskie southpaw worked out of the jam. In the third, Hersey rightfielder Roger Murbach made a long run for Mike Quade's blast, but the ball caromed off his glove. It was ruled an error, putting a runner on second with just one out, but Huber bore down and extinguished the fire.

In the sixth, though, two walks and a wild pitch set up the only Prospect score. With two outs, Chuck Weege punched a single into right center just out of the reach of Gary Hart as the tying run scored.

Hersey rallied in the sixth as catcher

Carl Sandburg to host volleyball invitational

Carl Sandburg will host its second annual girls' volleyball invitational tournament this Saturday.

The eight-team junior high meet will begin at 9 a.m. and conclude at about 1 p.m. The finals will be played Wednesday at 4 p.m. at the Rolling Meadows junior high site.

Admission is $50 for adults and $25 for students.

Carl Sandburg is the defending invitational champion.

Hermanson delivers key blow in St. Viator win

Mike Hermanson's bases loaded triple was the crucial blow during a five-run seventh inning rally which enabled St. Viator to escape the clutches of defeat at Carmel.

Down 4-2 into the last frame, Viator used just three hits to score the five runs and win, 7-4. Relief pitcher Paul Kastner, in for Mark Bonucchi, picked up his second victory.

Jim Kane's two-run single, scoring Bill Robin who had singled and Nick Joslen who had pinch-hit for Mike Murray, tied Carmel and Viator at 2-2.

After Kastner walked, he and Kane moved ahead on a passed ball. It looked bad when they took off running on three-and-two as Jim Thompson swung and missed.

But the Carmel catcher lost the pitch. Thompson made it down to first while Kastner and Kane retreated to safety. One out later, Hermanson lofted his triple to deep left field, giving Kastner all the margin he needed.

Viator scored single runs in the second and third for a 2-0 lead. Pat Bucaro reached on an error in the second, then came all the way home on two throwing errors after his attempted steal of second base.

Kastner walked, stole second and scored on one of Pat Rooney's two hits for a 3-0 lead which Bonucchi could not hold.

Carmel tied the score with two in the third, then tagged Bonucchi for a lead run in the fourth. Kastner yielded a single run in the fifth, putting Viator down, 4-2, but wasn't threatened over the final two innings.

All three of Viator's wins are East Suburban Catholic Conference decisions. League schools play 14 games and Viator coach Pat Mahoney has said 12 victories should take the conference title.

Harris takes WIM skating championship

DeeDee Harris, of Arlington Heights, impressed all five judges at the Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota (WIM) Figure Skating Competition recently for a first place finish.

DeeDee is 12-years old and a student at Holmes Junior High School skating for the Chicago Figure Skating Club. She will be appearing in the Randhurst Ice Show April 25-27.

Her parents are Bernie and Maggie Harris who have been the comedy acrobats in the Ice Capades for the past 15 years.

Tom Knauber coaxed a two-out walk from Rochelle and then stole second. Lococo followed with a bouncing single into centerfield, just out of the reach of shortstop Quade.

Huber snuffed out a Prospect rally by retiring the last two batters with the tying run at second base as Prospect's mark fell to 1-1.

Chicagoan offers Namath $2 million

All Joe Namath has to do is say "yes" and he'll be $2 million richer. But to get that kind of money, Broadway Joe will have to turn his back on New York and the NFL, and head for Chicago and the World Football League.

Joe Namath still has not signed a new contract with the New York Jets, but his playing days may end at the drop of a hat because of a couple of bum knees which could give out at any moment. This may tempt him to switch leagues for one last fling at age 32. Gene Pullano, a real estate developer who heads the Chicago syndicate trying to sign Namath, confirmed Tuesday his group is interested in the Jet superstar.

"I have not personally met with Mr. Namath," Pullano said. "Negotiations have been conducted between the league and Mr. (Jimmy) Walsh."

Walsh is Namath's attorney and, according to Pullano, currently is studying the package. But Namath cannot make any commitment until May 1 when his option with the Jets runs out and he becomes a free agent. He is currently working out at Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Pullano confirmed Namath has been offered $2 million for a three-year contract with a down payment of $500,000. But Chicago is not sure it will be granted a WFL franchise.

"If we can come up with a 'superstar' package, then we're in," said Pullano. "We have the money, but the league is insisting we sign a superstar." Pullano said he was hopeful of signing Namath. "He's a fantastic gentleman and will bring a lot of credibility to our league."

Black Hawks suffer 2nd setback

Rick Dudley scored two first period goals Tuesday night to lead the Buffalo Sabres to a 3-1 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks and give the Sabres a 2-0 lead in their National Hockey League quarterfinal Stanley Cup series at Buffalo.

Dudley fired in an 18-footer from straight out after a pass from Jim Lorenz to put the Sabres ahead by 2-1 at 9:59. He deflected a powerplay shot at 15:09 of the same period to give the Sabres their final 3-1 margin.

Following a scoreless second period, the Black Hawks came on with a vengeance in the final period, outshooting Buffalo, 16-6. But Sabres goaltender Gerry Desjardins confounded the Chicago attack.

Stan Mikita scored on a breakaway at 51 seconds of the first period to give Chicago a 1-0 lead. But at 1:35, Danny Gare trickled the puck past Chicago goalie Tony Esposito to tie the score before Dudley's two goals wrapped it up.

Sox fall in 13th; Cubs postponed

Dave Nelson opened the 13th inning with a single Tuesday, stole second and scored the winning run on Joe Lovitto's single to give Texas a 6-5 win over Rich Gossage and the Chicago White Sox, breaking a two-game Rangers losing streak and ruining the Sox' home opener. The first-place Cubs game at Pittsburgh was postponed last night by bad weather.

Gossage pitched 5 2/3 innings in relief of starter Claude Osteen and allowed seven hits, including three of them in the 13th inning to take his first loss. Jim Kaat pitched the last out.

The Sox moved ahead in the seventh when they bunched singles by Ken Henderson, Carlos May, Jorge Orta, Nylis Nyman and Bucky Dent around a walk to Deron Johnson to score four times and take a 5-4 lead. But the Rangers came back to tie the game in the eighth. Chicago scored its first run in the first on Nyman's single, an infield out and Bill Melton's single.

BEGGING TO DIFFER with the umpire is White Sox manager Chuck Tanner after a play in Tuesday's home opener.

Drake is back; Harper welcomes half-mile star

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and Field Editor

Steve Drake has come home.

The ex-Wheeling half-miler, who turned in a dazzling 1:54.9 in the state track meet two years ago, is running for Harper Junior College now, and he's doing a decent job to say the least.

After spending some time at Western Illinois University, Drake transferred to Harper where he now runs for the Maroon and Gold of coach Bob Nolan.

Drake captured first place in the 800-yard run last Saturday at the Florissant Valley Invitational in St. Louis with a superb 1:56.2 clocking. It came in Harper's first outdoor meet of the year and it served to encourage Nolan, whose Hawks just completed a sluggish, low-key indoor season.

"It looks like Steve is going to be really strong for the outdoor season," Nolan said. "He was second in our region meet with a 1:58.1 and he made the nationals and ran the same time."

"You know, he was a district champion a couple years ago in his senior year in high school," added Nolan, "but he hasn't run competitively since then."

Drake helped the Hawks pile up 24 points in the 12-team invite at St. Louis, giving them a ninth-place finish. Other Harper trackmen who scored were pole vaulters Brian Walther and Bob Maslin, who were third and fourth respectively, each with a 12-foot vault.

Drake runs in the relay events, too, as anchor man.

The Hawks' 400-yard relay and 800-yard relay teams both placed fifth. Phil Flore, Tom Rochfort, Larry Mennes and Drake ran the sprint relay in 1:44.2. The same four runners notched a 3:29.5 in the mile relay.

Nolan is particularly enthused about his relay squads. He figures their times are bound to improve.

Which they did Monday at the University of Chicago Junior Varsity Relays. Flore, Rochfort, Mennes and Drake turned in a 1:43.9 for fourth place, just four-tenths of a second behind the winning time.

Flore, Mennes and Drake joined Rick Reithal in the spring medley relay and the mile relay to capture a pair of seconds at U. of C. Drake ran a 1:50.9 half in the medley and Flore contributed a

Hersey hopes to rebound in baseball

by ART MUGALIAN

Hersey head baseball coach Steve Chernicky always seems to find himself in this position. It happens every spring.

Preseason polls are again indicating that it will be a rough campaign for Chernicky's Huskies. But the Hersey boss is an intelligent man — he knows that early predictions rarely pan out.

He also knows his own team better than most anybody else, a factor that won't come as a surprise to baseball fans.

For one thing, he knows that his No. 1 pitcher is lefthander Bob Huber, only a junior. The big southpaw, who was 2-1 in limited action last year, stymied the big bats of Prospect on Monday with a dazzling one-hitter. Only a bloop RBI single stood between Huber and a no-run, no-hit gem.

"He threw some good pitches in the right places," said Chernicky after his mound ace had disposed of the Knights in the seventh inning. "There are times when he tightens up and he isn't so smooth, but he managed to get out of the jams."

Huber walked eight while fanning nine Monday, but it wasn't easy to stay loose on such a cold and windy day.

Chernicky is less sure about his second-line pitching. He has Gary Hart, a righthander who doubles as the starting centerfielder, and Dan Stoltz. In relief, the Huskie coach can go to tall righty Todd Walker.

The Huskies hope to improve on last year's .302 team batting average, which dragged the club's Mid-Suburban League mark to 4-12.

Chernicky should get plenty of punch from third baseman Jim Lococo and shortstop Dave Carey, two returning regulars who will see a lot of action

Saxon netmen handle Maine North, 3-2

Schaumburg's tennis Saxons whipped through the three singles matches against Maine North and then held on for a 3-2 win Saturday.

No. 1 singles player Tracy Madon got Schaumburg started in the right direction with a 7-3, 4-6, 6-1 triumph over Paul Williger. Gary Wright and Steve Collins sealed Schaumburg's win with victories at the other two singles posts.

Maine North came back in the doubles matches with Mitch Goodman and Dean Toriumi taking the No. 1 doubles from Drew Kron and George Pulg 7-6, 2-6, 6-3 while Jeff Johnson and Jim Oehlerting won the No. 2 doubles.

Schaumburg 3, Maine North 2
Madon (S) over Williger 7-5, 4-6, 6-1.
Wright (S) over Geppert 7-6, 6-3. Collins (S) over Kofeob 6-3, 6-2.
Goodman-Toriumi (MN) over Kron-Pulg 7-6, 2-6, 6-3. Johnson-Oehlerting (MN) over Lefebvre-Plocuch 6-3, 6-1.

Just dogs

by Dave Terrill

Spring cleaning for dog houses

Although you think of spring house cleaning once during the year, dog owners who keep their pets outside all year are to be reminded that the dog's house should be cleaned regularly to prevent the harboring of unwelcome guests, such as fleas, ticks or other parasites.

No matter what kind of material is used for bedding, cleanliness is the most important consideration for the dog's comfort and well-being. We keep reminding you about checking that outside dog house and now that the weather is starting to get better, do a good job of it.

Shredded newspapers or wood shavings should be changed every week and if old towels or blankets are used, they should be cleaned every week, too. The interior walls can stand to be scrubbed clean and allowed to dry before the dog is permitted to occupy the house again.

And while you are at it, don't forget to check the walls and roof for leaks which might allow water to enter. Dampness is the dog's worst enemy, especially in his dog house.

Dog Writers' educational trust—

It is with great pride that the Dog Writers' Association of America announces its sponsorship of the Dog Writers' Educational Trust. This trust was established in 1962 under the name of the George F. Foley Educational Trust, later changed to the Exhibitors' Educational Trust. In 1975 the trust has been renamed the Dog Writers' Educational Trust when the DWAA assumed full sponsorship of its operations.

Since its inception, the Trust has solicited and accepted donations which are tax deductible, from individuals, clubs and other organizations interested in young people and their welfare.

The proceeds of the trust fund are distributed each year to selected worthy young people who are carefully investigated by the Trust's board of trustees concerning their need, scholastic abilities and potential.

Most grants go to those who wish to pursue education related to animals and particularly dogs, although others who have had close association with dogs can apply. Communications regarding the Trust may be directed to the secretary of DWAA, Mrs. Robert H. Futh Jr., Kinney Hill, Washington Depot, Conn. 06794.

Shih Tzu fun match—

The Chicagoand Shih Tzu Club is having its third specialty fun match Saturday, April 19, at the Anderson Florist Annex, 2601 N. Harlem Ave., Chicago.

The doors will open at 11 a.m. with entries taken until 12:30 p.m. and judging to start at 1 p.m. The judges will be Jeanne and Arnold Leadbitter from Lancaster, England, who have the famous Greenmoss Kennels.

If you want more information about the match, contact the show chairman, Albert A. Anderson at 625-8415.

Terrier trim classes—

The Welsh Terrier Club of Northern Illinois is offering a terrier trim class for pet or show dogs. Two classes have been held with two more scheduled for April 20 and 27.

Instruction is given by competent club members at $5 per lesson. The classes start at 1 p.m. and are held at "Grooming by Frank," 1127 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Better get your name on the list for a reservation. Call Mrs. William B. Tait, 724-0752, for all the particulars.

Barks & Bays—

It's official. The American Veterinary Medical Assn. has announced the opening of their new administrative office at 930 N. Meacham Rd., Schaumburg, Ill., 60172. The telephone number is 312-835-8070.

who pinch hit Monday, may also work his way into the Huskie lineup.

Hersey is scheduled for a game against Arlington today, which will give Chernicky a chance to see a little more of his team in action.

So far he likes what he sees. It may be better than what most people are expecting.

:51.1 quarter. Flore repeated his :51.1 effort in the mile relay and Mennes ran his best quarter of the season as Harper finished in 3:26.6.

"It was a :51 flat for Mennes," said Nolan, "and that's really encouraging. He's cutting his time — his best had been :52.5."

Harper also got good efforts from the distance medley team of Leo Jewett, Mark Kimmel, Dave Adler and Bob Borucki which finished fourth. Jewett, Kimmel and Borucki joined Jim Simonik to take fourth place in the two-mile relay.

"Kimmel turned in a couple of good times in the half — considering that he's a three-miler," said Nolan.

The Harper freshman ran 2:04.5 and 2:05 in the two relays.

The Hawks finished fifth Monday with 31 points behind DuPage's winning 68 points. At St. Louis Saturday, DuPage was 10 points ahead of Harper as Mennec College won the meet.

"We were pleased with the chance to get outside and run," said the Harper coach. "We haven't had much of an opportunity to work on things like exchanges."

"We're looking for better things this year," Nolan continued. "We've got a bigger group to work with this year. We've got more than 20 kids out for track."

Another good performance Monday was turned in by Rochfort, who finished second in the intermediate hurdles event. Other Hawks who scored at the U. of C. meet were long jumper Bill Nash, with a fourth at 20-3 1/2, and Dan Frost, who was fifth in the discus.

Arlington Park announces stakes schedule

Arlington Park's 94-day prime summer racing season will be highlighted by a $1,010,000 stakes schedule, Racing Secretary Tommy Trotter announced Tuesday.

The June 9-Sept. 23 campaign boasts five races that are expected to gross over $100,000. They include the $100,000-added American Deby on July 5, the $100,000-added Arlington Handicap on Aug. 23, and the $100,000-estimated Lassie on Sept. 6, the $200,000-estimated Futurity on Sept. 13 and the $100,000-added Secretariat on Sept. 20.

With the addition of 10 days to the Arlington meeting over 1974, Trotter expects to pay particular attention to horses stabled at the Chicago track, concentration on writing overnight handicaps for horses on the grounds rather than being locked into a mid-week mini-stakes schedule.

"This will give us the perfect opportunity to serve the horsemen who race with us and provide the Chicago racing fan with the most competitive, high-quality racing possible," Trotter said. "And at the same time, we will be maintaining Arlington's traditional major stakes of national reputation."

Pitching must mature to make Grens formidable

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

A baseball team with the leading hitter and pitcher from the year before returning ought to have a pleasant season to look forward to. That is the situation Elk Grove finds itself in but the outlook for Larry Peddy's Grenadiers is not so rosy.

Bob Ray returns from the team that went 7-13 last season and captured the Lake Park District title. He led them with a .333 average, carved out with a 1-for-3 hitting season.

The ace hurler returning is senior Steve Kliff, a minute reliever who was Elk Grove's only winning pitcher with a 3.08 ERA.

"Everything about this team is questionable," Peddy said. "But if our pitching matures the rest of the team will come along."

Kliff is not the only experienced pitcher the Grove has. Ray was on the mound in the opener against Arlington, which the Grens lost 4-0. He worked eight innings last season.

Peddy will look to three other underclassmen to get the side out, juniors Jeff Raver and Kevin Stockwell and sophomore Tom Curran. They all had strong seasons with the sophomore team last year and could become very tough as the season builds.

"I see us right in the middle somewhere," Peddy said. "Our goal is to win half our league games."

"We are very slow as a team and I can't see us doing much in those areas."

Harper women top Kishwaukee

Kishwaukee went up against Harper's powerful women's tennis team Monday and became the Hawks second straight victim by a 5-0 score.

"I'm very pleased with the way this team is playing," said coach Martha Lynn Bolt. "I have three girls back from last year which makes our singles very strong and Sue Kelly is playing just beautiful tennis."

Kelly did not play last year but is operating at No. 1 singles and knocked off Jackie Donbo 1-6, 6-3, 6-1. Kathy Zyrkowski and Cathy Aldana won the other two singles matches handily, each in two sets.

Harper's No. 1 doubles team of Dianne DeWitt and Amy Redeen smoked Kishwaukee 6-4, 6-0.

"My No. 1 doubles have been playing together since high school and they have We'll just try to hit the ball and see where it goes."

Peddy opened with a starting lineup which included six seniors but that is far from inflexible.

"We'll go with the seniors until they show they don't deserve to be starting. Then we'll try something else."

Elk Grove, for the time being at least, will have Dave Wudick, Bill Strybel and Paul Gulliksen in the outfield. Gulliksen is the only returning vet out there, having hit just .095. Strybel is a familiar name to Elk Grove baseball. John Strybel hit .158 for the Grens last year.

The Grens' infield will have Ken Wajerski at first, Barry Hafft at second, Glenn Stromberg at shortstop and Dave Millner at third. Jim Nisler will be behind the plate.

Elk Grove's infield has been there before, with all four having seen some action last year. Hafft, the smooth pivoting second basemen, led the returnees in hitting last year with a .250 average.

"I'm looking for good things from Stromberg and Millner," Peddy said. "Millner has been moved from first to third and he seems to be handling the change well."

Stromberg saw lots of playing time last year but needs to pick his hitting up from the 4-for-45 he managed last year.

"We were good on the lower levels last year," Peddy said, "and I think that will help us as the year goes along."

"Right now we just try to teach them the basics because that's where you win or lose."

been very strong this year. Ann Gilmore is a good doubles player and she's helped out the No. 2 team."

Gilmore teamed up with Carol Hopkins to post Harper's final point 6-0, 6-1.

Karelia Hussissian, Anita Jay, Rose Adamczyk and Pam Potter kept in tune with exhibition matches against the Kishwaukee men's team.

At Fair Lanes Bowl

Some hefty scores were recorded by the Rolling Meadows Classic League at Fair Lanes Bowl. Claudia King led the way with a sparkling 517 series and 234 game while Angie Pilcher hit 531-223. Jan Markese 536-211. Charleen Hancock 531-157. Evelyn Hansen 529-220. Lou Lawrence 515-179 and Jeri Werner 514-154.

OUR IRISH WHISKEY COULD BECOME THE GREATEST NAME IN SCOTCH.

Ever since our $20,000 Chicago Taste Testing Competition proved that Tullamore Dew was every bit as smooth and light and mellow as the leading scotches, a lot of scotch drinkers have been asking for it by name.

The wrong name.

They've been calling it "Tullamore Dew Scotch," or just "Tullamore Scotch," when, in fact, Tullamore Dew is a blended Irish whiskey.

But we understand.

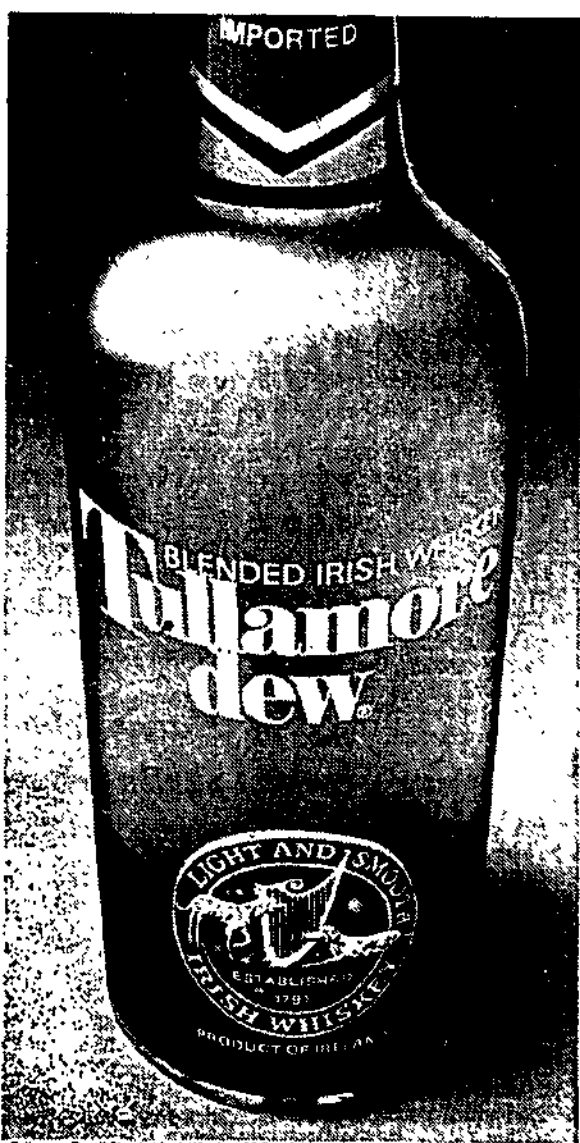

You see, Tullamore Dew has a taste that is unlike any Irish whiskey, and, in the opinion of an increasing number of former scotch drinkers, actually more pleasing than the scotch they used to drink.

It's no wonder that a lot of people have switched to Tullamore Dew without realizing they were giving up their scotch for an Irish whiskey, but if the trend continues, it could get a little confusing.

So before we find Tullamore Dew topping a list of the world's great scotches, we just want to make sure you know it for what it is: a smooth, light, mellow Irish whiskey.

Try Tullamore Dew, if you haven't already. And try, also, to get the name right.

Bikes on ice? Believe it!

You're not gonna believe Jan Gabriel. I almost didn't, not at first. What's the man's angle . . . money and fame, or satisfaction from doing anything bigger and better . . . maybe even a spot in the Promoter's Hall-of-Fame?

This guy is one giant bag-of-tricks. He's almost scary. Kinda makes the hair on your legs stand up. You wonder, what's he got going next?

The man is 34 years old and comes across as the Aggressive Young Businessman, maybe a stockbroker.

You know the image . . . Wall Street Journal under one arm, a portfolio of papers under the other . . . wire rimmed glasses, spit-polished shoes, classy clothes, the whole businessman routine you might expect from a radio and television marketing consultant, of which Gabriel is one.

Up-the-ladder goes Jan Gabriel, settling into community life, joining the PTA, taking the family on a two-week tennison-packed vacation to the Wisconsin Dells, maybe planting begonias near his front sidewalk, tossing a row of beans in between the backyard weeds.

No way! Let the man out!
"A lady motorcycle jumper we used to work with, Rena Hart, once told me, 'When you're bored with life, then risk it,' which I thought was beautiful," remembered Gabriel, sitting in relative calm of the Randlehurst Twin Ice Arena reception room.

It's at Twin Ice on Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon that Gabriel will pull off the world's first indoor professional motorcycle race on ice. If you can judge from Gabriel's past successes, this will be a hit, too.

What keeps the guy from boredom? Almost anything. Here's how he spent the past 15 years:

A) Repainting standard red, white and black Duncan Yo-Yos, then reselling them as Do-It-Yourself Fluorescent Yo-Yo Kits;

B) Inventing beer salt by grinding hickory chips into popcorn salt, only to discover that Schlitz and friends didn't think their beer needed any salt; and

C) You might have caught him winding hard around some Midwest race track. Gabriel ran three-wheel motorcycles plus stock cars, sportsman and late model, for three years.

All that was just a beginning. "I found I could make more money announcing than racing," said Gabriel, who calls the shots at Sante Fe Speedway . . . and as back-up announcer at the Indianapolis 500.

He's also the guy who does those screaming U.S. 30 Drag Strip commercials, the ones which shatter all sound barriers. They're recorded in Deerfield.

Gabriel announces Cycle-Rama shows in Dallas, Detroit, Boston and Chicago.

He found time for a brief disc jockey stint at WJOL in Hammond, Ind. When the Dick Clark craze was peaking about 1968, Gabriel conceived "Up Tempo" for WCIU-TV, channel 26, in Chicago.

"We put that together in eight hours, packed it and made a pilot tape," said Gabriel.

"I've tried a lot of different things. Now things all the time. They don't always work, but all it takes is one success."

Gabriel is banking on his indoor professional motorcycle racing. He's bringing nine nationally ranked American Motorcycle Association cyclists to Randlehurst this weekend, including Texas' Darryl Hurst, Louisiana's Mike Gerald and Michigan's Bart Markel, the AMA's former No. 1 racer.

Gabriel will supplement that field with a bevy of Illinois racers including the Arlington Heights brother act of Jimi and Tommy Collins, Keith Ullick of Kenosha, Wis., will jump barrels.

Gabriel held a dry run press preview on Monday inside Twin Ice. It all went well. Nobody got killed. Nobody lost an arm. Nobody suffocated because special exhaust fans were used.

Six riders put their bikes on ice, round-and-round they went, where they'd stop, not even they knew.

"Nobody has ever done it and I always want to do something that nobody has ever done," Gabriel stated in a moment of rest.

"The Chicago Fire came in town with a new football team. But football is not new. I think people are ready for something like this, even if they only see it once. You couldn't do it every week."

Everybody around Eagle Lake in Wisconsin thought they'd come across some real motorcycle crazies last month when Gabriel and crew laid out a lake course and began racing bikes in the bitter frigid air, just to see if their idea was decent.

And it worked. Hundreds of sheet metal screws are imbedded in front and rear tires. They keep rider and bike afloat.

Okay, Gabriel knew the idea was good. Now he had to sell it.

The Amphitheater was interested for $7,000 but there was too much political hassle. The Oak Brook Forum said sounds great for $14,000, which Gabriel termed, "insane."

Mike Klein
Staff Sportswriter

The people who book Chicago Stadium for owner Arthur Wirtz told Gabriel it was impossible; he'd wreck their ice.

Finally, the Emil Anderson Corp., owners of Twin Ice, bought Gabriel's plans. For about $3,000 . . . that's just a guess. The go-ahead came three weeks ago, when Gabriel assured the Anderson people he could get insurance.

A $8 million policy was bought from Mission Insurance in Texas, the same folks who've insured the first Muhammad Ali-Joe Frazier fight and Rolling Stones Concerts.

Ticket arrangements were hurriedly made through Ticketron, but there have been some mix-ups so admission at $5.50 per seat will be accepted on Saturday (8:30 p.m.) and Sunday (1 p.m.).

Then, there was advertising. "I could buy this place (Twin Ice) for what air time has cost," Gabriel mused. "We've put out a considerable sum, thousands of dollars."

And there's always the problem of Motorcycle Image . . . you know, bikers are guys with chains and clubs who maul old women and maim defenseless kids.

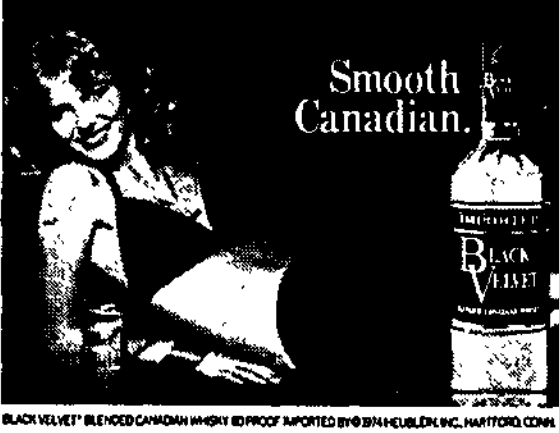

"You start talking motorcycles to people and they just freeze," Gabriel said. "This is sport and it's entertainment. It's a family show. We've got a clown on a bedpost bicycle and there'll be a gorilla who does a little act."

There's really no telling what's next for Gabriel. He wants to take this show around the nation. That's why Saturday and Sunday must come off with no blunders, no injuries, no flying sheet metal screws.

"What would be greater for the people of Akron, Ohio, or Keokuk, Iowa, who've got an ice rink and have never seen anything like it before?" he asks. "Right now, they're stuck waiting for the Harlem Globetrotters."

Jan Gabriel . . . the mad promoter? Mad like Hamlet!

Formco Metal records 3168; Zikes has 702

by GENE KIRKHAM

Hoffman Lanes can take credit for one of the highest scoring nights this season in the Paddock Classic Traveling League.

Formco led the league with 3,168 as they sewed up the title with one week remaining. Four other teams hit over the 3,000 mark with a total of twenty-one 600's and Les Zikes' 702.

Formco had to earn their five points from Des Plaines Ace Hardware as Ace won the first game 1,078 to Formco's 1,044. Formco then tossed 1,037 to Ace Hardware's 1,014 to win by 23 points. The last game also went to Formco as they finished strong with a 1,087 game.

For Des Plaines Ace Hardware, Joe Simons led the scoring with 233, 236, and 199 for a 670 total. Bill Corneliuss pitched in 666 with games of 214, 223 and 227, and Don Christensen added 604 with 222, 211, and 171. Mike Shoop of Formco Metal Products fired a fine 681 as he led his team with games of 221, 199 and 239. Barry Stjernberg hit 668 pounding out 231, 212 and 223, and Fred Hansen rolled 212, 236 and 211 for 659. Formco leads the pack by 12 points with one week to go.

Sullivan Pontiac and AFCO Products battled each game with both teams hitting over 3,000. Sullivan won four points with AFCO getting three.

AFCO won the first game 1,084 to 966 as Sullivan came back to win the second game 1,073 to 1,049 and the third game 1,017 to 940. AFCO's 3,081 edged Sullivan's 3,036 for the series point.

Zikes showed his ability to shoot the big scores it takes to cash on the pro tour as he led the league for Sullivan Pontiac with a big 702. Zikes had games of 198, 269 and 247. Ernie Kocho chipped in his own big total with 238, 202 and 226 for a 666 series. Bob Green added 193, 245 and 198 for 636.

For AFCO Products Bob Hurwitz had 650 with games of 224, 201 and 225, Bill Angolino had 644 with 197, 232 and 215, and Bob Leahy had 294, 223 and 184 for 611.

Arnie Yusim Chevrolet won five points from Kolo Realty as they totaled 2,997, winning the first two games with 1,039 and 980 as Kolo came back to win the final game 974 to 975.

Glen Chesser of Kolo Realty led the scoring in this match with a 699 series, second only to Zikes' 702. Chesser fired games of 210, 235 and 234.

For Arnie Yusim Chevrolet Randy Aubert has 620 with games of 203, 205, and 212. Ray Baccas had 613 with 211, 224 and 178, and Lobby Lobinsky had 210, 180 and 220 for a 610 series.

Teddy's Liquors won five of seven points from Rolling Meadows Shell as they totaled 3,077 with three games over 1,000.

Teddy's won the first game with 1,024. Rolling Meadows Shell hit 1,120 the second game to win over Teddy's 1,045 and grab the second highest team game of the season.

Teddy's stayed on the track as they rolled 1,008 to win the third game.

Teddy's Liquors was led by Jay Hoban as he totaled 662 with games of 214, 200 and 248. Mike Wagner had 641 with 181, 235 and 225, and Ray Stirber hit 201, 214 and 184 for a 629 series.

For Rolling Meadows Shell Gene Kirkham led the scoring with 668 on games of 182, 238 and 248. Gene Folkes had 634 with 194, 226 and 214 and John Berg rolled 209, 243 and 149 for a 603 total.

This week's position round will be held at River Rand Bowl as Kolo, Sullivan, Des Plaines Ace Hardware and AFCO Products are only a point apart for second place.

At Fair Lanes Bowl

Burb Bode registered a booming 550 series to have the action in the Wednesday Morning Melodies League at Fair Lanes Bowl. Shirley Swanson hit 517, Bernice Gross 607, Shirley Sinks 498, Gert Grogan 478 and Marilyn Elliott 413. Karen Lintz rolled a 175 game, Sally Price and Ma Hart 175's. Lt. Mervyn 175, Barbara Peckys 174 and Mary Stum and Donna Dones 172.

At Brunswick Northwest

Jackie Wright ripped a 550 series for the Washday Women's League at Brunswick Northwest Bowl off games of 151-201-159. Darlene Doman bowled a 507 series with a high game of 277.

At Beverly Lanes

Entering the final week before the bowl-offs the Polka Dots league of Beverly had a high series of 164-126-177-181 from their leading bowler, Bucky Stern.

Other high games were rolled by Sandy Walker 188, Sally Koen 150, Linda Piesko 173 and Carol Loverdo 164.

Striking team won the first three games over Ziebart as they rolled 2814 with games of 889, 978, and 947 while Ziebart was totaling 855, 866, and 869 for a 2610 total.

At Striking Bette Brelle ripped up the maples for Striking Lanes with a 658 total as she poured in games of 225, 201, and 232. Judy Brumond added 563, Eunice Whitmore had 557, and Lu Schoenberger had 220-545.

For Ziebart Rustproofing Peggy Harris rolled a strong 594 set with 210, 213, and 171. Joan Christensen had 521. Tiny Cazel hit 511 and Carol Anderson rolled 501.

From here on in, Ziebart had to win every game to stay alive in this best-of-seven series.

Moving to Des Plaines Lanes for the home lane advantage, Ziebart, the second half champions, took the first game 905 to 831, then won the second game in a 10th frame finish 930 to 920.

The third game also went to Ziebart in another close match 933 to 910 to carry the playoffs into the seventh and final game.

The scores were a little lower in the final game but the excitement was higher as this game went down to the last bowlers with Striking coming out on top 863 to 845.

In the final four games Peggy Harris of Ziebart led the 10 bowlers with a 768 series with Tiny Cazel hitting 731, Carol Anderson rolling 720, and Carol Miller hitting 702.

Bette Brelle again led her Striking Lanes team, hitting 746 for the four games. Eunice Whitmore had 740, Judy Brumond had 726, and Alice Schroder rolled 708.

Bette Brelle led the overall seven game total as she hit a fine 1404 for a 200 average, which was a great performance in a pressure situation. For Ziebart Peggy Harris totaled 1362 for the second highest average of the rollofs, a 194.

Falcons, Saxons rule triangulars

by ART MUGLIANI
Track and Field Editor

Forest View and Schaumburg may indeed be the two most powerful track teams in the Mid-Suburban League. They both have strong individual performers, lots of depth, and able coaching.

There may yet come a strong argument from Fremd or Rolling Meadows or Palatine, but until then, Monday's results will have to stand as an indication of where the most talent lies.

Coach Bill Mohrmann's Forest View Falcons held off the rugged challenge of Libertyville to win a triangular meet at Wheeling. The Falcons totaled 10 points to 64 for Libertyville and 32 for Wheeling's Wildcats.

Mohrmann's squad captured 12 firsts, including three victories for junior sensation Steve Schellenberger and two more by junior teammate Mike Harvey.

The Schaumburg Saxons, meanwhile, were up against Crown and Elk Grove Monday, and though the competition wasn't quite as rough the Saxons proved their depth. They racked up 110½ points as coach Denny Garber did a lot of experimenting. Crown was second with 37½ and Elk Grove had 29.

Schaumburg was first in 11 of 17 events and the Saxons took second spots in nine events. Leading the way was Brian Feicho, who won the high hurdles (15.6) the lows (41.5) and the triple jump (36.1). Feicho was also second in the high jump behind teammate Scott Mielke, who won with a six-foot effort.

Other top performances for Schaumburg were turned in by pole vaulter Bruce Mahlig (11-0), quarter-mile Steve Pace (33.3), weightman Dave Wodek, with wins in the shot (59.2½) and the discus (136-2), 220-man Roger Diver (23.6) and lead jumper George McCahey (20-2½).

At Wheeling, it was Schellenberger who stole the show. The willowy junior broke two minutes in the half-mile, running 1:59.3 to better Augie Zicarelli of Wheeling who clocked 2:01.3. Schellenberger followed that with a win in the 440 in :51.4 as Falcon mate Bill Milos was second (:53.0). His final victory came in the 220 in :23.0. All three of Schellenberger's winning times are the best outdoors in the area this season.

Harvey reached 40-8 in the triple jump and he won the long jump also, with 19-4½. John Keneally won the high jump for Forest View at 5-10, Mike Mischnick was the shot-put winner (48-2), and Darryl Robinson captured the two-mile (10:11.9). The high-hurdles winner was Jim Vartanian (15.3) and the lows went to Dave Matz (40.3).

Wheeling's Zicarelli won the mile in 4:37.6 for the Wildcats' only first place. Teammate Jim Lemke was second in both hurdles races — :55.4 in the highs and :40.4 in the lows. Darryl Stillson was second in the triple jump (39.4).

Forest View turned in a 46.0 to win the 440-yard relay and a 1:37.5 for a second in the 880-relay.

Elk Grove failed to take a first against Schaumburg and Crown, though the Grenadiers got good performances from Pat O'Brien in the high hurdles (16.1), Bob Negri in the long jump (19-0) and Dan Streich in the shot (46-3¼).

The Saxons managed to win all three relays, including a flash :45.6 in the 440-relay and a 1:37.6 in the 880-relay.

Schaumburg's Steve Knudson won the 100 (10.7), Bob Solik took first in the 880 (2:05.5) and Mark Hoerich, ordinarily a half-miler, ran 4:45.9 for third place in the mile.

Crown sophomore Mike Lynn captured the mile and the two-mile.

In the frosh-soph competition, Schaumburg had 82 points, Elk Grove had 54, and Crown 42.

Prospect posts 4-1 net victory

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Tennis Editor

The Prospect Knights had trouble in only No. 3 singles en route to posting a 4-1 dual meet victory over Palatine Monday. The win left the Knights at 4-1 on the season.

Only Mike Eisenberg was able to pick up a point for the Pirates, looping Tom Wagner at third singles 6-2, 3-6, 6-2.

Tom Frederick, at No. 1 singles, and Dan Hansen at No. 2 got the Knights rolling with victories.

Earlier Prospect also set down Lake Park 7-2, losing only in No. 1 and No. 5 singles.

St. Viator got singles victories from Jeff Davenport and Tom Wenzel to put the Lions in 2-0 command of Hersey. The Huskies turned things around in No. 3 singles when Steve Felice blasted Jim Beauvais 6-1, 6-1 and then swept the doubles matches for a 3-2 victory.

Bill Siebold won the No. 1 angles title for Elk Grove 6-0, 6-0 against Ridgewood and that set the tone for the afternoon as the Greens rolled to an easy 5-0 win. Only the No. 2 doubles team had to go three sets for their point.

The Greens came in sixth in their invitational Saturday with Fenton taking the team title with 21 points. Rolling Meadows grabbed fourth place with 12 points as Chuck Fischer reached the finals of No. 1 singles and Brad Weber the championship round of No. 2 singles.

New Trier East showed why they're one of the tennis powers in the state Monday as they whipped Maine West 5-0. The Indians swept through the meet without being forced to three sets in any one match and no Maine West player won more than two games in any set.

Nell Peterson kept his string unbroken as Maine East handled Waukegan 4-1. Peterson knocked off Tom Welborn at No. 2 singles 6-3, 6-3.

Who enjoys doing housework?

Cleaning ladies take pride in their job

Editor's note: (The women interviewed for this story are real, but fictitious names have been used at their request.)

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Housework. Who looks forward to it?

Long before women's liberation turned daily chores into a hotly debated household issue, the word was often uttered with a hint of disdain.

Scrubbing floors, dusting, washing windows and cleaning cupboards? Who enjoys doing it... everyday?

Mrs. Mary J. does. In fact she loves it. Even though "household technician" is today's upgraded title for a full-time cleaning lady, Mrs. J. doesn't care that she's finally been awarded a sophisticated label.

Cleaning homes is a career to her, one that during the past 15 years has helped to support both herself and two teenage grandchildren whom she reared.

"I WENT INTO it because at the age of 33 no one wanted to hire me," said Mary, who recently celebrated her 69th birthday and has no immediate plans to retire.

Mrs. J. began cleaning houses because her husband lost his business. Shortly after, he became ill and subsequently died. The need for an additional income never diminished. Mrs. J. never stopped cleaning.

However, she is very happy with her work. Employment is steady because household help in the north-west suburbs is still very much in demand. And the take home pay isn't bad either, particularly if you're not trained to do anything else, says Mrs. J.

"While I can't say I exactly enjoy what I'm doing, I certainly don't mind it," said Julia B., adding with a laugh, "I've been at it for as old as I am." And that's 78.

"Why quit? I've got nothing better to do. It keeps me out of mischief."

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR statistics for 1974 show there are some 1.5 million Americans who make their living as household workers. And 97 per cent of those workers are women.

Though household maids who keep the homes of the more affluent neat and tidy are now covered by federal minimum wage laws ($2.10 an hour to increase 20 cents by Jan. 1, 1976), many cleaning ladies, even those now making less than the minimum, prefer not to report their wages and, in fact, refuse to work for those women who insist upon it.

"If I did that, they would take away the Social Security I'm getting and then I couldn't afford to live," said Mary J., who says she just makes ends meet now supporting two grandchildren.

She cleans 10 different houses, each one every other week, and receives $18 for approximately six hours of work. Last fall because of increases in the cost of living, she raised her own prices $3 from $15 a day.

"NO ONE EVEN complained except one woman who said she would have to ask her husband first."

As it ended up, Mrs. J. didn't lose one customer because of the price hike.

They're still getting a bargain, she feels. "Cleaning ladies who come in from the city charge as much as $25 and car fare besides," she said.

One such lady is Mrs. Audrey W. who has been cleaning homes for almost 20 years.

"A sister asked me to help her one day at one of her homes and I've been doing it ever since."

Mrs. W. resides on the south side of Chicago and commutes to Arlington Heights where she works for three different people all living in the same apartment building. Her fee, $25, includes train fare. Twenty years ago when she first started out, she earned only $10.

AND MRS. J. recalls those days, too. "When I began, I had all bachelors in one apartment building in Park Ridge. I'd get $5 from each one of them and manage to do two apartments a day. That included general cleaning and even their laundry. One time I found a woman's silk nightgown. I washed and ironed it up real nice and then hung it back in the closet for the next time."

Julia B., who now makes between $15 and $20 a day, remembers working when she came home with only $5 for the entire week.

"And then I worked a lot harder than I do now," she said implying that modern conveniences have made housekeeping much less of a chore and also less time consuming.

Most of all Julia hates to clean ovens. But nearly all of the homes in which she now works have self-cleaning ovens.

"I hardly even have to do that anymore."

NONE OF THE ladies have ever run into a situation where they absolutely refused to clean a house, though Mrs. J. grimaces everytime she has to dust an expensive collection of Hummels belonging to one of her customers.

Many of the modern homes have carpeted kitchens and bathrooms which even alleviates the scrubbing of floors; something Mary J. used to enjoy doing the most until she injured one knee.

"Now it's hard for me to be down on the floor very long," said the 69-year-old grandmother.

And Audrey W. voiced a real distaste for cleaning bath tubs, even her own at home, though, like any other career, "there is the certain satisfaction and pride of doing a job well and then standing back to admire the work."

One benefit of the work is lunch. All three women expect it.

"I eat like a queen," said Audrey.

"One woman told me there was instant coffee that I could make on my own time. I answered most people serve me lunch. From then on there wasn't any misunderstanding."

SOMETIMES MORE thought than nutrition goes into the menus. One kindly widower enjoys making Mrs. J. potato pancakes and bacon.

"He's always asking me to sit down and talk to him. I tell him I have work to get done, but he insists it's all on his time."

With years of elbow grease invested, all three women have certain cleaning supplies which they stand behind and insist their customers buy.

"I started using Mr. Clean way before it ever was advertised on TV," said Mrs. J. matter-of-factly. She always brings her own rags, freshly laundered and pressed.

"I can't stand it when they give you a dirty rag to clean with. Anyhow I like a certain kind. And would you believe the price has gone up to 89 cents apiece? They were 59 cents when I started out. I wash and bleach them and iron them up after each use. But they're really nice when they're brand new."

FLOPPY-BRIMMED HATS inspired Rosemary Keloway, Maggi Creek and Patricia LaRose to ham it up as they selected ensembles for St. Theresa's Break-a-Brunch this Saturday at Villa Olivia. Cocktails are at 11 a.m.; brunch will be served at noon. Fashions will be from Bertie of Countryside. Other models will be Susan Bordan, Mrs. Harbert Bordan, Mrs. Paul Brandt and Mrs. William Zwilling. Tickets, $6.50, 358-4295.

Your rights if arrested

(First of two related columns)

by JULIE MARTOCCIO

Dear Attorney Martoccio,

I'd like to ask you a question and hope that you will think it important enough to put in your column. If a person is arrested, what should he or she do? I've wondered about this on and off but really got to thinking about it seriously the other day after a policeman stopped me and gave me a "warning" notice.

I had mistakenly driven straight ahead in a "left lane only." I was really shook up and my little boy started to cry. I know it was silly to feel as though I had committed a crime, but I always feel that way even when a police car is near mine. Then I thought, if I feel this way over such a small thing, what would I do if I should ever be arrested? I think it's about time I found out. Can you help me? — B.A.

Dear B.A.,

I think your feeling guilty is a natural one that many of us share and if it helps us to remain law-abiding, I don't think we should discourage it. Police officers have told me that, paradoxically, if you're the type of person who is seldom or never been in trouble you are more likely to feel that way than the person who is used to violating the law.

OFFICERS ARE often able to draw a conclusion about a person's background in crime by the degree of brashness the accused displays. The experienced violator learns his rights and how to use them and knows exactly what an officer is legally permitted to do. (By the way, any question a reader wants answered in this column is important whether or not she thinks so. I'm always happy to respond to such requests.)

You are certainly right in wanting to know what to do in case you're arrested.

The reasons are many. Some of them are not obvious. You may never need the information, since you are probably a law-abiding citizen, but what if you found yourself in a situation where you were falsely accused of a crime and arrested, or mistakenly identified as the person who committed the crime?

EVEN IF A person is guilty (and I might add "especially" when a person is guilty), she needs to know her rights. Being informed does not mean getting away with anything. It's simply a kind of checks and balances system. On one side the law is kept within reasonable bounds so that it won't overreach its power. At the same time, it keeps the accused from crying "framed" or "unfair" in order to escape punishment for his wrongdoing.

Since you have a child, it is more important than ever to know the procedure in the event that he is arrested. Your first step, under those circumstances, would be to get a lawyer as quickly as possible. Being aware will help you to maintain a calmer approach to the problem.

Here are some pointers that may ease your mind.

• Who can make a legal arrest? Any law enforcement officer which includes policemen, sheriffs, deputy sheriffs or state troopers. Also persons who may be authorized by the court to do so. Under some circumstances even a private citizen may make an arrest.

• How is the arrest carried out? Either with or without a warrant depending upon the circumstances.

• What is a warrant? A warrant is an order that describes the person who is to be arrested and what charges are being made against him. It directs the state law-enforcing officer or, in some instances, a named, appointed individual to arrest the person described in the complaint. Then after that person is arrested, he is brought before that court or one that is the most accessible in the same county.

• Is a warrant always necessary?

No. If the officer has reasonable grounds for believing that a warrant for the person's arrest has already been issued in this state or another jurisdiction, or if the crime was committed or attempted in the arresting officer's presence, or if the officer has reason to believe a crime has been committed plus the belief that the accused is the one who committed it, no warrant is necessary.

• What are the accused's rights after being arrested?

As soon as he or she is taken into custody, the accused has the following rights: to remain silent because anything he says may be held against him, to obtain legal counsel, and if he cannot afford a lawyer, the court must appoint one for him, and if he chooses he may have a lawyer present during the questioning.

The law says these rights must be read (and understood) by the accused immediately upon his being taken into custody.

• Does the accused have to sign any papers or answer any questions if the officers insist?

No. The days of the "third degree" are over, legally speaking. The accused may not be threatened or harassed by persistent questioning, nor may he be forced to give incriminating information. If that should happen, the information may be thrown out of court later on.

• What about the allowance of "one telephone call?"

The TV and movies have often given a false impression of an accused's right to phone calls. This and other questions will be answered in next week's column.

(Readers are invited to submit questions regarding legal problems of women and children. Names and facts that would identify the writer are withheld on request. Attorney Martoccio's column is to inform and not advise. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Today's babies better than ever?

Researchers at the Albany (N.Y.) Medical College will spend the next three years examining 1,000 babies in the hope of confirming their belief that the baby of today is better than the baby of 20 years ago.

Dr. Ilida Knobloch, project director and professor of pediatrics at the college, says the purpose of the program is twofold: to determine if, indeed, today's infant is physically and mentally superior to his predecessor and to establish a new standard for the developmental rate of infants.

"Having an established norm is very important in the early detection of abnormal children," Dr. Knobloch said. "We have to see if the norms have changed. The developmental sequence will not change, just the rate."

WHAT IT ALL boils down to, she says, is that today's baby is developing at an unusually fast rate. "Where we used to expect babies to begin walking at 15 months, now they begin at 12. We used to expect them to be able to sit independently at 40 weeks, but now they're doing it at seven months."

The "normal" child of 20 years ago may be considered "slow" today, she added.

Developmental rate changes are not only physical. While the study will include investigation of the babies' motor control and development, Dr. Knobloch plans to concentrate on the behavioral aspects of the young child's development.

"I'm more concerned with the way a baby thinks," she said. "You can have a child with cerebral palsy (a physical disorder resulting from injury to the brain before or during birth) that has perfectly normal behavior."

ONE THOUSAND babies, aged four weeks to three years, will be examined during the course of the study, which is expected to continue for several years. The children will be examined in what, to them, is a play situation. Records will be kept on each child.

Dr. Knobloch doesn't expect to discover why babies are developing faster. "I don't think we're going to be able to give any answers... to do that you'd need an experimental study, which is something you can't do with human beings." She does, however, expect to be able to make some pretty good guesses.

The initial grant of $15,000 for the study has been provided by the Johnson and Johnson Foundation. Staffing and space for the survey are being provided by the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene and the Albany Medical College.

Jayceettes donate to Salvation Army

Elk Grove Village Jayceettes has donated $400 to the Salvation Army. The money was earned from proceeds of the food stand operated by the Jayceettes at the Jaycee Carnival last summer.

The Salvation Army was the primary philanthropic choice of the Jayceettes because of the many and varied ways the Army serves the people of Elk Grove, the inner cities and the people of the world. The Army serves Elk Grove with the Fire Wagon, an all-volunteer effort which offers coffee and doughnuts at any major fire or other disasters. The Army also serves the deaf, blind, and senior citizens of Elk Grove.

Historically the Salvation Army has been known for its "soup kitchens," battlefield assistance, home for unwed mothers and counseling centers.

Buying an air conditioner?

There's one number you should know besides the price.

Before you choose an air conditioner, ask the dealer for its energy efficiency ratio. This number tells you the efficiency of a unit. An air conditioner with an EER number of 8 or above will be thrifty for you electrically.

The EER number is computed by dividing the BTUs by the watts. A 12,000-BTU unit that uses 1500 watts will rate an 8. If the EER doesn't appear on the tag or metal nameplate, use this simple formula yourself. It's a worthwhile exercise that can pay off in electric dollar savings over the long run. Don't buy too much capacity. Surprisingly, an air conditioner that's too big usually won't keep you as comfortable as a smaller unit.

So measure the space to be cooled before you go to the dealer. Also note any doors that might let cool air escape, or windows that might let direct sunlight in. The dealer will have charts to translate your notes into the right air conditioner selection.

It makes a lot of sense to buy an air conditioner that starts efficient and stays efficient. And saving energy always makes sense.

Term Danish out

Under Federal Trade Commission guidelines, furniture made in the Danish style in the United States may not be referred to as Danish style or design. But the FTC permits the use on furniture of such commonly accepted terms as Chinese Chippendale and French or Italian Provincial.

Patties use bread crumbs

Dear Dorothy: While I loved that simple hamburger patty recipe you have recommended, I'm wondering if you've ever run across a recipe for hamburger patties using bread crumbs. My mother used to make one, which, unfortunately, she never wrote down. —Doris Schmidt

Mrs. George Frank cooks that way. I watched every move she made one day and maybe the patties are similar to what your mother made. To a pound of ground chuck, add one tablespoon of bread crumbs which have been soaked in one-quarter cup of milk. Then comes an egg yolk, a teaspoon-plus of tomato catsup, a little minced onion, a sprinkling of Worcestershire sauce and a shake of salt and pepper. Gently mixed, fry them in shortening, as rare as anyone wishes.

Dear Dorothy: We recently got a dinette suite with benches covered with vinyl-coated fabric. The children got ball-point ink on three of the benches. What can I use to remove this stain without harming the covering? —Mrs. Sheila Tkatch

There are several things that ought to take stains such as this from that type of fabric — rubbing alcohol, lighter fluid or an ink stain remover made by one of the large pen manufacturers. His nibs insists on carrying a real fountain pen and I've found the remover invaluable when ink leaks into his pockets. You can find it in stationery stores or good drug or variety stores.

Dear Dorothy: When you're through showering or bathing, put a dab of shampoo on a moist sponge and proceed to clean the tub. It's easy on the hands, makes the tub sparkle and the shampoo wipes away all traces of grease, dirt, and so forth. And there will be no ring. —Bernice Roth.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60067.)

JCPenney

Open weave, sheers, antique satin custom draperies.
20% off fabric and labor.

Our open-weave draperies are very right for contemporary rooms. They filter light without blocking it, soften glare. Our custom sheers and elegant antique satins are for more traditional decors. The sheers may be used to underscore draperies and are beautiful enough to solo if you prefer a light, airy look. To see them all just call us. A JCPenney custom decorator will visit your home with samples and idea illustrations, ready to give as much—or as little—advice as you ask for. And it only takes a phone call, our advice is always free.

Juniors join Johnny Horizon

The Conservation Committee of the Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines has joined the Bicentennial effort of Johnny Horizon '76 to clean up America. Johnny Horizon '76 symbolizes the spirit and the conscience of millions of Americans who care for their country.

The program has two major action phases: the first is educational, to make all Americans aware, from school children through senior citizens, that environmental improvement and protection is everyone's responsibility, and that each and every individual can do something about it. The second phase is action "on the ground," designed to inspire people to work together to prevent pollution and to clean up.

Ald. Szabo wins

3 incumbents ousted from council

by STEVE BROWN and LUISA GINETTI

It was a bad night for incumbents in Des Plaines Tuesday as three of four veteran aldermen involved in contested elections were ousted from the city council.

Two highly organized grassroots campaigns put on by Robert Sullivan, 36, of 1133 S. River Rd., in the 2nd Ward, and Robert Kraves, 39, of 1700 Pratt Ave., in the 6th Ward, proved to be the undoing of Ald. Kenneth Kehe, 43, of 1419 Forest and Ald. Ewald Swanson, 54, of 1856 Welwyn.

Sullivan beat Kehe, 731 to 319, while Kraves won over Swanson by a 409 to 371 margin.

THE ONLY successful incumbent was Ald. Joseph Szabo, 1st, who beat James Ballowe, 68, of 888 Acres Ln. Szabo, 54, of 785 Graceland, won by a 568 to 293 margin.

Ald. Spencer Chase, 3rd, was the third incumbent to lose. He was beaten by former Ald. John Leer by a 418 to 463 total.

In the 4th Ward, which featured two newcomers fighting for the seat now held by retiring Ald. Robert Hinde, Patrick "Dan" Brannigan, 36, of 884 North Ave., beat Clifford Scherer, 43, of 194 Norman Ct., 428 to 339.

THE VICTORIES by Sullivan and Kraves are seen as a serious cut into the block of backers who regularly support Mayor Herbert H. Behrel.

In the wake of the election results, Behrel only shrugged his shoulders and said, "You win some and you lose some."

Kehe and Swanson were two of Behrel's strongest backers and major supporters of controversial plans for downtown redevelopment. Their upset, coupled with the retirement of Hinde, seems to indicate the mayor's power base has been strongly eroded.

PROBABLY THE brightest side of the election for the mayor was the victory of Leer over Chase. Chase, 56, of 1140 Allini Dr., had been an outspoken critic of the mayor. Leer, 54, of 1051 Jeanette St., who had served eight years on the council, was a Behrel backer.

Chase ousted Leer by 41 votes in 1971 to gain his seat on the council. Chase was the 1969 opponent for Behrel.

All of the newcomers expressed the hope they will be good aldermen.

"I hope I didn't give the impression I will be a Capt. Marvel. I'll try to do the best I can," Sullivan said.

"I'm amazed and super excited and I expect to do a super job. I am interested in the city and I want to see it grow right," Kraves said.

"I want to thank my workers. They're

ROBERT SULLIVAN, left, was one of the upset winners in Tuesday's Des Plaines aldermanic election. Sullivan and Robert Nebgen, a supporter, look over election returns in the 2nd Ward race. Sullivan ousted Ald. Kenneth Kehe. Two of three other incumbent aldermen also lost city council seats.

'Not moving fast enough'

Special unit may help update city plan

A special committee may be formed to aid Michael Richardson, Des Plaines director of planning and zoning, in updating the city's comprehensive plan.

Mayor Herbert H. Behrel said Tuesday he may ask the city council to create either a special committee or a permanent committee to work on the comprehensive plan. The committee probably would be composed of aldermen.

"We are just not moving fast enough on revising the plan," Behrel said. The city developed a comprehensive plan in 1971. The plan cost $90,000, but about $45,000 was provided through a federal grant.

The mayor also suggested that the city might need to revise its regulations governing the type of businesses that can be established in the C-4 commercial district in order to attract new businesses into the downtown area.

BEHREL SAID THE city council might want to take a look at the permitted uses now allowed by the city code and determine if any uses can be added. "We probably would want to do this on an interim or temporary basis until the redevelopment program gets under way," Behrel said.

Behrel said if the city expands the types of businesses that could be established, it probably would set a time limit, perhaps five years, on the length of time the business can operate.

He suggested that "Besides the committee we should also get the plan commission involved in the update."

Daley 'Bearing down' on move

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley lashed out Tuesday at the Chicago Bears' plan to move to a new stadium at Arlington Park Race Track and vowed to go to court to take "Chicago" out of the team's name if it makes the move.

"You don't want the name of Chicago in Arlington Heights," Daley told an audience of city hall reporters.

City lawyers are preparing briefs for a suit to prohibit the Bears' owners from referring to their team as "Chicago" if they go through with their stated intention to be a principal tenant in a proposed $25 million stadium adjacent to the race track, he said.

"I tell you this pretty directly," Daley said. "They won't use the name of Chicago and move to Arlington Heights. They can use the name Arlington Heights Bears, but never use the name Chicago while I'm mayor."

DALEY AID HE does not expect the move over will take place. "The citizens of Arlington Heights are not foolish enough to vote a bond issue for eight football games," he said.

Madison Square Garden Corp., owner of Arlington Park, is expected to ask the village board to issue revenue bonds for the stadium which would seat 80,000 fans, compared with the 55,000 seats being used at Soldier Field.

Bears' officials could not be reached Tuesday for their reaction to Daley's remarks.

The mayor called Soldier Field "the best field in the United States," and said the City of Chicago will not build a professional stadium for any team.

"We're hoping eventually to get the Olympic Games in Chicago," he said.

Daley said a domed stadium was not needed in Chicago.

"We're a robust people. We're sturdy people in the Midwest," he said.

BEARS' OFFICIALS have said Soldier Field is too old and too small for use by a National Football League team. But Daley promised the stadium will not be torn down.

Madison Square Garden officials are expected to come before the village board in May or June to outline their stadium plan and attempt to persuade village trustees to finance the project with tax-free revenue bonds.

In return the village is likely to see revenue from the stadium through an admission tax. Other income possibilities that have been mentioned are the proceeds from a preseason exhibition game and a minimum guaranteed annual payment to the village.

Filers play 'beat the clock' as tax-return deadline nears

by JOE SWICKARD

Ed Downey unlocked the back of the box and out they tumbled.

Those white preaddressed envelopes to the Internal Revenue Service seemed to stand apart from the rest of the mail Downey, a postal assistant, was unloading at the Post Office.

The countdown was on and the last-minute filers — the perennial procrastinators — were lining up to get their returns in before the midnight deadline. Downey kept filling the mail sacks, it didn't matter to him. He filed back in January and already had his refund.

Not so with Jeff Cady. He leaned out of the window of his truck and laughed as he pushed the return through the slot.

"Hah. I've been too busy responding to sump-pump emergencies to file it," said Cady, who runs the Emergency Sump Pump Service, Arlington Heights.

"OH GOD," SAID Jay Woods while throwing up his hands. "Why am I filing now? Because it got lost in the mails."

Woods, Arlington Heights, spent the day getting emergency forms and hurriedly completing them before the midnight deadline. He walked away from the mailbox shaking his head.

There were pauses in the rush to the mailboxes between commuter trains.

Those not pulling close enough to the box had the added aggravation of leaning and straining to pay their taxes.

Outside of emergencies and lost forms, the most common reason for the last minute posting was owing Uncle some money.

"I have to pay money," called Warren Fromm, Palatine, as he slid his return in the slot.

DONALD DOLNIAK, Arlington Heights, said "I had to pay. How's that for a reason?"

One woman said, as she dropped in other mail, "We filed a long time ago. My husband took care of it downtown." She shook her head in silent comment on those waiting until Tuesday night.

"Yeah, it's income tax. But it's not mine, it's my boss'," said Corey Iverson, Rolling Meadows. "I sent mine in back in January. . . I don't know whether you could say I always do it early. This is only the second year I've done it."

The clock marched on toward midnight and the box postal assistant Downey had so recently emptied was rapidly getting filled.

"I owed 'em money and I'm not going to give it to 'em any sooner than I have to," shouted one taxpayer roaring off until next April 15.

Residents react to staff cuts; River Trails delays action

by LINDA PUNCH

The River Trails District 26 Board of Education postponed action on staffing cuts Tuesday night after residents questioned the effects of the cutback on the educational program.

More than 75 persons — about one-third of them teachers — attended the board meeting. Both board members and members of the audience said they feared the program cutbacks could lower the quality of education in the district.

Supt. John Fridlund presented a staffing plan which would reduce the teaching staff at the junior high level and would eliminate the CORE program — a teaching method in which a group of students share the same math, science, social studies and language arts teachers.

FRIDLUND'S PLAN, based on suggestions of the building principals, would eliminate a reading teacher, a social studies teacher, a learning-disabilities teacher and a full-time and part-time French teacher at the junior high level. The plan also calls for a cutback of nine teachers at the elementary school level.

Fridlund said the staffing plan would save the district about $144,000. Board member William Haase estimated that amount, which doesn't include pay raises for teachers and staff, would prevent the district from going into debt next year.

Parents in the audience said they were afraid the junior high program changes would affect the quality of education.

"I think you are lowering the quality of education at the junior high level which I consider the most crucial phase. I think you're really hurting those students," said Joy Daskall.

FRIDLUND SAID the administration was trying to make cuts that would be "the least harmful to students," describing the French program as the least necessary.

"It's difficult for a student to go into high school not knowing how to read or not knowing the basic math concepts. But there's not a kid in America who can't walk into a high school without the benefits of French," he said.

Audience members also questioned why cuts weren't being made in other areas besides teaching staff and programs. Board Pres. Michael Sheyker said, "We can cut in other areas — and we intend to — but salaries make up 70 to 80 per cent of the budget."

Many of the board members said they would be willing to accept a small deficit in the budget, but Haase said there is "no way in living hell to reduce any deficit the following year. If we have a deficit in June 30, 1976, in my opinion the deficit will increase in succeeding years and eventually lead us to financial ruin," he said.

The staffing plan will be discussed at the next meeting of the Dist. 26 board.

Easements for deep-tunnel plan fail to get parks OK

The Mount Prospect Park Board has failed temporarily to approve easements requested by the Metropolitan Sanitary District for its deep-tunnel project.

Comr. Rosemary Argus stated the vote on the easements with only three of the five commissioners present at Monday's meeting. Comr. William Selep was absent from the meeting, and the fifth board seat has been vacant since the death of Roland C. Becker.

Mrs. Argus said approval of the easements would be inappropriate at this time because the deep-tunnel project has not yet won approval from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency. She said that park approval of the easements in effect would be an endorsement of the project.

The deep-tunnel project would carry Northwest suburban sewage 160 feet under Mount Prospect streets and parkways to the O'Hare Reclamation Plant in Des Plaines. The tunnel would run through sections of the Weller Creek Park and Mount Prospect Country Club.

MRS. ARGUS, a Des Plaines resident, has been associated with a group of residents who oppose construction of the Des Plaines sewage treatment plant. They say the plant will create bad odors and be a health hazard to residents living nearby.

When Comr. Elmer Blasco moved for approval of the easements, the motion died for lack of a second, although Park Board Pres. Robert T. Jackson indicated that approval of the easements would not be an endorsement of the project.

Without Mrs. Argus' vote, the motion could not have been approved.

The matter will be considered again at a special board meeting scheduled for Monday.

The park board also approved annexation of 24 acres in the southwest section of Mount Prospect. A total of 105 lots on Palm Drive, Thornwood Lane, Locust Lane and Willow Lane were added to the district at the request of residents in the area.

the ones who helped to put me in. I hope I will be a good alderman," Brannigan said.

VOTE TOTALS in the eight wards generally ranged between 20 and 25 per cent, according to unofficial totals.

The largest turnout was seen in the 3rd Ward where 1,311 ballots were cast. There are 3,332 registered voters in the ward.

Szabo said he was pleased to be reelected. "It took a lot of hard work by a lot of people," he said. Szabo, elected to a fourth term, will become the senior alderman.

Swanson would say only that "You win some and you lose some," after learning that his 12-year career on the city council will come to an end.

Leonard Grazian

Sciez, Grazian named school board leaders

Kathryn Sciez and Leonard Grazian were elected presidents of the Des Plaines Dist. 62 and High School Dist. 207 boards Monday night.

Mrs. Sciez, a member of the Dist. 62 board since 1970, has served on the board financial committee and has been active on the legislative committee of the Illinois Assn. of School Boards. She succeeds James Kremers, who retired from the board after six years of service.

Grazian, a member of the board since 1971, was first elected as board president in December, succeeding Robert Claus. He has a degree from John Marshall Law School and practices law in Chicago. He was an unsuccessful candidate for Circuit Court judge in the November election.

Jaycee carnival April 22-27

The first carnival of the year is coming to town April 22-27.

Jaycees will set up their rides, game booths and concessions at the corner of Lee and Oakton streets. The carnival is expected to feature more than eight rides for adults and older children along with kiddie rides.

Rides will be operating from 3 to 11 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, Saturday hours are from noon to midnight and Sunday from noon to 11 p.m.

New program for children

The Maine Township Jewish Congregation Early Childhood Center, 8900 Bullard Rd., Des Plaines, offers a new program for children who will be 2 years old by Dec. 1.

Beginning in October, the mother-child group will meet for three 10-week sessions throughout the school year. This approach in early childhood education offers the children and mothers the opportunity to be introduced to a preschool experience together.

Sessions will be held once a week from 9:30 to 11 a.m. In addition, the school also offers a three- or five-day schedule for children ages 3 to 5. For information, call 297-2006.

AT THE 1971 OPENING, Arlington Park Theatre was patronized by many local residents. The theater closed this weekend and will not reopen until a new leasing agreement is worked out with Hilton

Corp., the owners. In the past four years many celebrities have appeared on its stage, including Art Carney, Don Knotts, Burt Reynolds, Barbara Rush and recently, the Gabor sisters.

Arlington Park Theatre goes dark; expenses cited

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Arlington Park Theatre, which opened just four years ago amid high hopes that professional theater could flourish in the Northwest suburbs, has closed its doors.

Saturday's performance of "Brief Lives" marks the last production to be staged in the theater-in-the-round until a new rental agreement can be worked out between the Hilton Corp., owners of the theater, and either the present producer of Arlington Park Theatre, David Lonn, or a new production company.

A spokesman for Hilton Corp., released this statement: "The lease with Arlington Park Theatre is being terminated and the theater is temporarily closed. Hilton Corp. is doing whatever is necessary to have the theater reopened in the near future. But at this time we are not sure who the new operator will be."

ARLINGTON PARK THEATRE opened in July of 1971 adjacent to what was then the Arlington Park Towers Hotel. In the four years the theater has had five owners. The original lease called for a certain percentage of the weekly gross sales as rental payment "which just became impossible to meet," said Lonn.

Operating expenses greatly increased, he said, as the theater brought in bigger name stars and better productions.

"Our operating expenses fluctuate anywhere from $26,000 to $43,000 per week and our gross sales vary from $48,000 to $72,000 per week," Lonn said. "From this it is impossible to come up with a percentage formula."

LONN CITED SKYROCKETING real-estate taxes and

cost-of-living increases as other factors affecting the escalating costs of operating the theater.

Lonn added that previous owners were all sympathetic and realized that a new lease had to be developed.

By verbal agreement with previous owners, Lonn said his production company, Rannoch Productions, had not been paying the full amount stated in the lease.

HILTON, WHICH took over ownership of the theater last December, is holding Rannoch Productions to the original demands of the lease and in addition is asking $90,000 in back rent, Lonn said.

"Originally, the theater was designed as a typical suburban theater," said Lonn. "But people did not support it. It was a disaster. Burt Reynolds was the only thing that saved the theater during the first six months of operation. Bringing in comedies with has-been stars isn't the answer."

"We had to spend more money to bring in the kind of show people did want to see."

IN THE FOUR YEARS of its existence, Arlington Park Theatre, under the guidance of Lonn, has won several honors.

The theater has been awarded two Joseph Jefferson Awards for best production.

"Dance on a Country Grave," which had its premier at Arlington Park Theatre in December 1973, received the award as did "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," which won in 1972.

In addition, the latter production set a new record in Chicago theater by being nominated in five different "Jeff" categories and winning all five. No other production has been so honored.

Flag pageant at hall

A historical flag pageant, presented by the Marine Corps, will be one of the featured highlights of the Bicentennial Township Ball. The pageant will trace the history of our 13 national flags from "Old Glory" to the current national ensign. Marines from Great Lakes, will present each of the flags in uniforms of the period.

The Bicentennial Ball will be Saturday, July 5, at the Regency Hyatt House, Rosemont. It is sponsored by the Maine Township government, and is supported by the Des Plaines Bicentennial Commission.

The ball will be the official opening event of the national Bicentennial celebration in Maine Township. It will also mark the township's 125th birthday, and 200th year of the Marine's founding. Tickets for the ball are $30 per couple. For information call 297-2310.

Notre Dame slates dancer

Notre Dame High School for Boys, Niles, will celebrate 20 years of service to the community with a benefit dance at the school May 3.

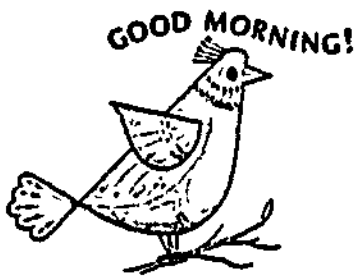

Sponsored by the school's Mothers' and Fathers' clubs, donations to the 20th anniversary dance will be $5. per person with all proceeds going toward the school's facilities and programs. A 10-piece orchestra will provide the music for entertainment and dancing.

Tickets may be obtained by calling the school at 965-2000 or Kay Sullivan at 966-7907 or writing the 20th Anniversary Dance Committee, Notre Dame High School, 7635 Dempster St., Niles, Ill. 60648.

Fabish ousts Armstrong for president

by JOHN MAES

Former Buffalo Grove trustee Edward Fabish upset incumbent Gary Armstrong 2-to-1 Tuesday to win a four-year term as village president.

Fabish, who campaigned for "selective" village growth with controlled construction of apartments, received 1,461 votes to lead five candidates.

Armstrong, who was elected village president with 1,060 votes in 1971, received 677 votes and lost 10 of 12 precincts to Fabish.

TRUSTEE EDWARD OSMON received 392 votes; Trustee Randall Rathjen, 94, and 21-year-old James Stumbaugh, 64.

Osmon and Rathjen, in choosing to run for village president rather than for reelection as trustees, will forfeit their trustee seats to independents.

The three independent trustee candidates swept into office Tuesday, overcoming Armstrong's Best Government Party slate. Winners in the trustee races were Robert Bogart, Dorothy Berth and John Marienthal.

Incumbent Village Clerk Verna Clayton was unopposed in winning another four-year term.

"I'm disappointed. I don't understand it," said Armstrong, 42, of 274 Timberhill Ln. "I frankly just don't understand what the citizens were mad about." Armstrong (Continued on Page 5)

Berth, Bogart, Marienthal elected village trustees

Three independent candidates — Dorothy Berth, Robert Bogart and John Marienthal — were elected Buffalo Grove trustees Tuesday as voters rejected Village Pres. Gary Armstrong's Best Government Party slate.

"Now we have to do it," Bogart, of 930 Plum Grove Circle, said. "We have to go to work."

The three independents each polled more than 1,600 votes to upset incumbent Trustee James Shirley, the leading vote getter in the village's 1971 election. Shirley, 39, of 4 Villa Verde Dr., finished fourth of the six trustee candidates Tuesday with 1,235 votes.

Bogart led the trustee candidates with 1,791 votes. Mrs. Berth, 304 Indian Hill Ln., received 1,668 votes and Marienthal, 28, of 931 Dunham Ln., received 1,645.

BGP candidates Gary Ikens, of 73 Es-sington Ln., and Ralph Swanson, of 250 Lake Blvd., finished fifth and sixth in the race for the four-year terms with 725 and 665 votes respectively.

Kiddle, Lapham victorious in race for park positions

Incumbent William J. Kiddle Jr. and newcomer Richard J. Lapham are apparent winners in Tuesday's Buffalo Grove Park Board race.

The two defeated three other candidates — incumbent Eugene Muryn and challengers Eugene J. Branski and Harvey R. Foster — for six-year terms.

Kiddle was the top vote-getter, leading in all 12 precincts with an unofficial total of 1,390 votes. Lapham unseated Muryn with a total of 949 to Muryn's 842.

Branski polled 793 votes and Foster received 615.

"I am surprised by the outcome," Lapham said. "I am very pleased and I can pledge to the people I'll put forth my best effort."

Lapham said he wants an opportunity to examine the district's priorities for park development projects.

"I'd like an opportunity to get in and look at it," he said. "I expect to be my own man and offer my own ideas."

Kiddle, vice president of the board, said he believes the park board will remain compatible and welcomed Lapham. He said he discussed park district objectives with Lapham and believed he will be supportive.

Ed Downey unlocked the back of the box and out they tumbled.

Those white preaddressed envelopes to the Internal Revenue Service seemed to stand apart from the rest of the mail Downey, a postal assistant, was unloading at the Post Office.

The countdown was on and the last-minute filers — the perennial procrastinators — were lining up to get their returns in before the midnight deadline. Downey kept filling the mail sacks, it didn't matter to him. He filed back in January and already had his refund.

Not so with Jeff Cady. He leaned out of the window of his truck and laughed as he pushed the return through the slot.

"Hah. I've been too busy responding to sump-pump emergencies to file it," said Cady, who runs the Emergency Sump Pump Service, Arlington Heights.

"OH GOD," SAID Jay Woods while throwing up his hands. "Why am I filing now? Because it got lost in the mails."

Woods, Arlington Heights, spent the day getting emergency forms and hurriedly completing them before the midnight deadline. He walked away from the mailbox shaking his head.

There were pauses in the rush to the mailboxes between commuter trains.

Those not pulling close enough to the box had the added aggravation of leaning and straining to pay their taxes.

Outside of emergencies and lost forms, the most common reason for the last minute posting was owing Uncle some money.

"I have to pay money," called Warren Fromm, Palatine, as he slid his return in the slot.

DONALD DOLNIAK, Arlington Heights, said "I had to pay. How's that for a reason?"

One woman said, as she dropped in other mail, "We filed a long time ago. My husband took care of it downtown." She shook her head in silent comment on those waiting until Tuesday night.

"Yeah, it's income tax. But it's not mine, it's my boss'," said Corey Iverson, Rolling Meadows. "I sent mine in back in January . . . I don't know whether you could say I always do it early. This is only the second year I've done it."

The clock marched on toward midnight and the box postal assistant Downey had so recently emptied was rapidly getting filled.

"I owed 'em money and I'm not going to give it to 'em any sooner than I have to," shouted one taxpayer roaring off until next April 15.

AT THE 1971 OPENING, Arlington Park Theatre was patronized by many local residents. The theater closed this weekend and will not reopen until a new leasing agreement is worked out with Hilton

Corp., the owners. In the past four years many celebrities have appeared on its stage, including Art Carney, Don Knotts, Burt Reynolds, Barbara Rush and recently, the Gabor sisters.

Arlington Park Theatre, which opened just four years ago amid high hopes that professional theater could flourish in the Northwest suburbs, has closed its doors.

Saturday's performance of "Brief Lives" marks the last production to be staged in the theater-in-the-round until a new rental agreement can be worked out between the Hilton Corp., owners of the theater, and either the present producer of Arlington Park Theatre, David Lonn, or a new production company.

A spokesman for Hilton Corp., released this statement: "The lease with Arlington Park Theatre is being terminated and the theater is temporarily closed. Hilton Corp. is doing whatever is necessary to have the theater reopened in the near future. But at this time we are not sure who the new operator will be."

ARLINGTON PARK THEATRE opened in July of 1971 adjacent to what was then the Arlington Park Towers Hotel. In the four years the theater has had five owners. The original lease called for a certain percentage of the weekly gross sales as rental payment "which just became impossible to meet," said Lonn.

Operating expenses greatly increased, he said, as the theater brought in bigger name stars and better productions.

"Our operating expenses fluctuate anywhere from $26,000 to $48,000 per week and our gross sales vary from $48,000 to $72,000 per week," Lonn said. "From this it is impossible to come up with a percentage formula."

LONN CITED SKYROCKETING real-estate taxes and

cost-of-living increases as other factors affecting the escalating costs of operating the theater.

Lonn added that previous owners were all sympathetic and realized that a new lease had to be developed.

By verbal agreement with previous owners, Lonn said his production company, Rannoch Productions, had not been paying the full amount stated in the lease.

HILTON, WHICH took over ownership of the theater last December, is holding Rannoch Productions to the original demands of the lease and in addition is asking $90,000 in back rent, Lonn said.

"Originally, the theater was designed as a typical suburban theater," said Lonn. "But people did not support it. It was a disaster. Burt Reynolds was the only thing that saved the theater during the first six months of operation. Bringing in comedies with has-been stars isn't the answer."

"We had to spend more money to bring in the kind of show people did want to see."

IN THE FOUR YEARS of its existence, Arlington Park Theatre, under the guidance of Lonn, has won several honors.

The theater has been awarded two Joseph Jefferson Awards for best production.

"Dance on a Country Grave," which had its premier at Arlington Park Theatre in December 1973, received the award as did "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," which won in 1972.

In addition, the latter production set a new record in Chicago theater by being nominated in five different "Jeff" categories and winning all five. No other production has been so honored.

Gains majority on village board

Wheeling's WHIP wins 4 trustee posts

by RICH HONACK and JOE FRANZ

Running on a reform platform, the Wheeling Improvement Party won four trustee seats to capture a majority of the village board seats in the municipal election Tuesday.

In an overwhelming victory over the Wheeling Representative Party and the incumbent Wheeling Community Party, WHIP will now have five of the six trustee seats, with Trustee Donald Jackson already on the board.

Leading the field was WHIP candidate Otis (Skip) Hedlund with 1,475 votes in his race for a two-year term. Following Hedlund were four-year WHIP candidates John C. Cole, 1,442; Charles M. Kerr, 1,419, and Gilbert J. Monoson, 1,158.

THE CLOSEST candidate to WHIP was WRP candidate Roger A. Powers with 810 votes. He was seeking a four-year seat. His fellow candidates on the WRP ticket were no closer than 760 votes.

The incumbent Community Party candidates trailed far behind. Leading the Community Party was the state's only nonincumbent, William Rogers, with 771 votes. Behind him were John W. Koepfen and Albert W. Lang with 647 and 624 votes respectively.

Low vote-getter Tuesday was Trustee Edward A. Berger, with 593 votes in his bid for the two-year term.

WHIP RAN ON A platform calling for reform of village government in the wake of a federal investigation that brought indictments against six former Wheeling and Cook County officials for shakedowns of developers. Four of the six have pleaded guilty to the charges and two are awaiting trial.

Village officials said the scandal and good weather brought a surprisingly high turnout, 2,781 voters, to the polls. They said there were no incidents at any of the village's 10 precincts.

WHIP victors said Tuesday night their win was a victory "for the people of Wheeling." They said they ran their campaign against the organization of political boss James Stavros who is serving a four-year prison term for his role in the developer shakedowns.

"After 20 years the machine in Wheeling has been broken — it has been stopped. The common man who has nothing to do with secret land trusts, nepotism and corruption has spoken. We won because the average man voted," said Monoson.

OTHER WHIP candidates also said it was a vote from the common man in Wheeling that put them over the top. "The people gave us a mandate to make the changes we said we'd make and we will try to carry that responsibility," Hedlund said.

Koepfen said, after conceding defeat, "It is a weight off our (incumbents) backs. We would like to have continued but the people had their say today. I will support WHIP as will my other party members — 100 per cent."

Trustee William Hein, who was not running but put together the WRP ticket said, "I (Hein) lost tonight, but I lost because of COMPAR, otherwise this election would have been mine. I lost the election but I'm coming back — I'll keep coming back. I would support anyone who works for the village, but WHIP isn't going to do that."

WRP's Clark said, "I hate to lose. I hope they carry through with their plans. I hope they work for the village."

Next school year begins Aug. 28

The school calendar for the 1975-76 school year has been adopted by the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 Board of Education.

School will begin on Aug. 28, the Friday before Labor Day. Students will have two weeks off for winter vacation starting Dec. 20 with students returning to class on Jan. 5.

Spring break will begin April 16 with classes resuming on April 26. June 11 is the last day of school. School will be closed for five additional holidays and students will be dismissed for four institute days during the year.

Former trustee Edward Fabish, who defeated Armstrong Tuesday for village president, predicted "cooperation" among the independent candidates because "basically we see eye to eye."

Fabish and the three trustees-elect have called for reduction of village water rates and have opposed high-density apartment construction.

"I think the citizens have spoken," said Bogart, Midwest sales manager for Hilton Corp. He said during the campaign he is disturbed at the way the village has grown the past few years and wants to create a better balance between apartment developments and houses.

"The independents were saying what the people were saying," said Mrs. Berth, a housewife. During the campaign, she also spoke against apartment developments.

Marienthal, regional credit manager for Wilson Sporting Goods, said in victory: "The people agreed with my platform." He, too, favors a hard line with developers.

Robert Bogart

Fabish elected village president in upset

FABISH, 48, of 470 Lauren Ln., said in victory: "I guess this is the year of the independent. It started with Watergate, was seen in Hoffman Estates and then occurred in Wheeling.

"I promise I won't let anyone down," he said. "I promise I will deliver."

Fabish, an electrician who also works for VIP Real Estate, said his campaign against increased apartment development in the village and a voter turnout of single-family homeowners combined for the victory.

The largest voter turnout came in Precinct 11 where Fabish won 223 votes to Armstrong's 117. Fabish polled 195 votes in Precinct 10 and received nearly 140 votes in Precincts 5, 2 and 7.

Armstrong, 431 Millers Rd., Des Plaines, has served on the board since 1971, including a term as president in 1973-74.

Artemenko succeeds Jack Costello, who served as president for the 1974-75 term.

In Saturday's school board election, Artemenko led all candidates with 2,474 votes en route to reelection to his second full term in office. He was appointed to fill a one-year vacancy in 1971.

Gain majority on village board

WHIP reformers take 4 trustee posts

Results by precinct on Page 5.

Running on a reform platform, the Wheeling Improvement Party won four trustee seats to capture a majority of the village board seats in the municipal election Tuesday.

In an overwhelming victory over the Wheeling Representative Party and the incumbent Wheeling Community Party, WHIP will now have five of the six trustee seats, with Trustee Donald Jackson already on the board.

Victorious candidates on the Wheeling Improvement Party ticket were in agreement Tuesday that village residents can expect to see some changes in the image and workings of their local government.

"I think the people have given us a mandate to make the changes we said we'd make," said Otis L. Hedlund, winning WHIP candidate for a two-year term on the village board. "As far as I'm concerned there is a mandate from the people to make the changes that need to be made and WHIP will make all the changes that need to be made."

Trustee Donald Jackson, the only WHIP member of the village board, echoed Hedlund's sentiments.

"Now that WHIP has won four seats it has a tremendous responsibility," Jackson said. "Now more than ever we have a responsibility to serve the people."

CHARLES M. KERR, who will assume a four-year term on the board, said the results of the election, in which WHIP candidates captured all four seats, were an "ultimatum" from the voters.

"I think the people have given us an ultimatum that they want a change," Kerr said. "I'm satisfied that WHIP will do just that."

John C. Cole, who was elected to a four-year term on the board, said the party is now faced with the task of implementing its platform.

"I know we have one heck of a job in front of us," Cole said. "We've got to get the administration of the village in shape. We've got to get rid of all the conflicts of interest and secret land trusts. I hope to God this is the end of machine politics in Wheeling."

GILBERT J. MONOSON, who also won a four-year term on the board, said the victory marked an end to machine politics in Wheeling.

"After 20 years the machine in Wheeling has been broken — it has been stopped," Monoson said. "The common man who has nothing to do with secret land trusts, nepotism and corruption has spoken."

The victors agreed that the first order of business facing them is to organize as a board so they can implement their platform which called for such things as public safety, integrity in government and an improved administration.

Cole said he felt another priority facing the new board is an evaluation of all village employees including Village Mgr. George Passolt.

ALL THE VICTORS said they believed the results reflected the voters' desire for the WHIP party candidates to carry out their promises for a change in village government.

The candidates expressed mild surprise at their sweep of all four seats.

"We had hoped for four seats," Jackson said. "Everyone worked very hard and naturally we're elated."

Daley 'Bearing down' on move

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley lashed out Tuesday at the Chicago Bears' plan to move to a new stadium at Arlington Park Race Track and vowed to go to court to take "Chicago" out of the team's name if it makes the move.

"You don't want the name of Chicago in Arlington Heights," Daley told an audience of city hall reporters.

City lawyers are preparing briefs for a suit to prohibit the Bears' owners from referring to their team as "Chicago" if they go through with their stated intention to be a principal tenant in a proposed $25 million stadium adjacent to the race track, he said.

"I tell you this pretty directly," Daley said. "They won't use the name of Chicago and move to Arlington Heights. They can use the name Arlington Heights Bears, but never use the name Chicago while I'm mayor."

DALEY AID HE does not expect the move ever will take place. "The citizens of Arlington Heights are not foolish enough to vote a bond issue for eight football games," he said.

Madison Square Garden Corp., owner of Arlington Park, is expected to ask the village board to issue revenue bonds for the stadium which would seat 85,000 fans, compared with the 55,000 seats being used at Soldier Field.

Bears' officials could not be reached Tuesday for their reaction to Daley's remarks.

The mayor called Soldier Field "the best field in the United States," and said the City of Chicago will not build a professional stadium for any team.

"We're hoping eventually to get the Olympic Games in Chicago," he said.

Daley said a domed stadium was not needed in Chicago.

"We're a robust people. We're sturdy people in the Midwest," he said.

RICHARD J. DALEY

BEARS' OFFICIALS have said Soldier Field is too old and too small for use by a National Football League team. But Daley promised the stadium will not be torn down.

Madison Square Garden officials are expected to come before the village board in May or June to outline their stadium plan and attempt to persuade village trustees to finance the project with tax-free revenue bonds.

Neuenfeldt triumphs unopposed

Schnaitmann easily wins 6-year park board seat

Incumbent Frank J. Schnaitmann easily defeated challenger Steven M. Weil Tuesday for a six-year term on the Wheeling Park Board.

Schnaitmann, 37, of 51 George Rd., received 441 votes to 250 for Weil, 26, of 624 Ivy Ct., according to unofficial tallies. Schnaitmann's victory margin was about the same in the two large Wheeling precincts. He also carried the small Buffalo Grove precinct.

William Neuenfeldt

William Neuenfeldt, 35, of 32 Redwood Tr., received 560 votes in his unopposed bid for the two-year term.

Schnaitmann beat Weil 208 to 105 at Heritage Park, where residents of the eastern half of Wheeling voted. At London Junior High School where the western half of the village voted, Schnaitmann won 222 to 137. In the Buffalo Grove precinct, Schnaitmann won 11 to 8.

Park Director David Phillips characterized the turnout as "not too heavy." He said the vote may have been kept down because except for residents in two village precincts, residents had to vote at different locations for the village and park elections.

Schnaitmann said he was "happy" he won and said he "appreciated" everyone who came out to vote for him.

Traffic counter taken from Jeffery Avenue

A $500 county traffic counter was stolen from the area of E. Jeffery Avenue, where it was being used for a traffic survey, Wheeling police said Thursday.

Police said theft of the counter and its activator hose was first noticed Tuesday night by a policeman on patrol. A metal traffic sign stake, to which the counter was chained, apparently was lifted from the ground, police said, so the counter could be slipped off.

Roads in the Meadowbrook East area are to be resurfaced in the near future and the area was being surveyed to see how strong a road surface is needed, police said.

Public hearings planned on law seeking donations

Wheeling officials will conduct hearings on a proposed ordinance that would require developers to make cash or land donations to the park and school districts before building plans are approved.

The village board, by a 6-to-0 vote Monday night, directed the plan commission to schedule public hearings on the proposed ordinance. No dates have been set for the hearings.

Officials also voted to send copies of the ordinance to Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 and the park district, and to invite representatives of the two bodies to attend the public hearings.

VILLAGE ATTY. Paul Hamer said Tuesday the school and park districts will be asked to participate in the public hearings so an acceptable formula can be determined for obtaining land or cash donations from builders of new developments.

The park district recently asked the village board to adopt an ordinance similar to one in Naperville that was successfully defended in DuPage County Court. The decision is being appealed by several developers who were required to make donations in Naperville.

Parks Supt. David Phillips said donations from developers have been "minimal at best" and that a firm policy of obtaining donations is needed.

Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill said although the schools have not suffered that much from the lack of such an ordinance, he probably would support its passage.

WHEELING OFFICIALS have decided to consider a builder-donation ordinance even though Hamer has told them the village does not have the statutory authority to pass such a measure.

The attorney said the village should not enact such an ordinance until it reaches a population of 25,000 and is granted home-rule powers.

The Naperville ordinance, however, was first passed in 1971 before that community gained home-rule status.

Village board members said if the ordinance is enacted, all donations by builders will be placed in an escrow account until a decision is made on the appeal of the Naperville ordinance.

Next school year begins Aug. 28

The school calendar for the 1975-76 school year has been adopted by the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 Board of Education.

School will begin on Aug. 28, the Friday before Labor Day. Students will have two weeks off for winter vacation starting Dec. 20 with students returning to class on Jan. 5.

Spring break will begin April 16 with classes resuming on April 26. June 11 is the last day of school. School will be closed for five additional holidays and students will be dismissed for four institute days during the year.

Parent-child seminar

The Twin Groves Baptist Church of Buffalo Grove will sponsor a seminar in parent-child relationships April 27 at the church, 750 N. Arlington Heights Rd.

Dr. Bruce Hartung, director of community counseling services at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, will lecture and lead discussion on child discipline and communication.

A registration fee of $7.50 per couple will be charged. Further information can be obtained by calling 537-9090 or 537-6974.

O'Brien fails to win a precinct Kessell, SUP Party sweep to victory

by PAT GERLACH

The incumbent Schaumburg United Party swept to victory Tuesday retaining six village offices by overcoming a challenge by the new Schaumburg Citizens for Planned Progress party.

In the largest voter turnout in the history of Schaumburg, Trustee Raymond Kessell was elected village president with a total vote of 3,113 of the 4,039 ballots cast. His opponent, Sally O'Brien, tallied 1,041 votes, failing to carry any of the village's 18 precincts.

Sandy Carsello was elected to a third term as village clerk with 2,383 votes to her challenger Carolyn Sue Jordan's 1,399.

IN THE RACE for a two-year unexpired trustee term, Neil Hornstrom tallied 2,770 votes to Dominic Levita's 1,397, beating the SCOPP candidate by one vote in Levita's home precinct.

Incumbent Edward G. Olsen led the race for three four-year trustee terms with 3,033 votes. Newcomers James Rogers and Alan Larson tallied 2,911 and 2,813, respectively. SCOPP trustee candidate Lawrence Thiesen tallied 1,292 votes, with James Origer bringing in 1,102 and Martin Ryan, 1,069.

Kessell, who will succeed retiring Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher next month, said he was "pleased" with the record turnout. "I look at this as a complete vindication of what has happened," he said in obvious reference to SCOPP's anti-density platform.

MRS. O'BRIEN and other SCOPP candidates attributed their defeat to a well-organized SUP "machine" which ground out the vote. "I didn't lose even in defeat," she said, adding that SCOPP workers are experienced and committed. "SUP really gave us a challenge today and I never back down from a challenge," she said, wiring congratulations to Kessell at 11 p.m. and pledging her personal support and that of her party to his administration.

Early Tuesday, State's Atty. Richard Means ruled that 20 ballots in Mrs. O'Brien's home precinct, which had been numbered in error by election judges, were to be counted.

"Improper numbering was not an attempt by the voters to spoil an election and both Mike LaVelle (state board of elections director) and I believe they cannot be penalized for the mistakes of election judges," he said, noting that election laws permit the village clerk to choose all judges, resulting in Tuesday's election judges all representing the incumbent party.

Vince Carsello, SUP campaign manager called the victory "clear cut," attributing it to SUP's work force, but said (Continued on Page 5)

by TONI GINETTI

The Hoffman Estates Village Board will keep its all-Republican makeup in the wake of an easy victory Tuesday for three GOP candidates. William Cowin, William Palmer and Jeanne M. Pavey — over independent William Dooley.

Incumbent Cowin, and first-timers Palmer and Mrs. Pavey took the three trustee seats in an election which drew only about 10 per cent of the village's eligible voters.

The three were challenged by Dooley, who ran a low-level campaign attempting to break into the solid Republican board.

Dooley, 104 Gentry Ct., outpolled the three Republicans only in his home area, Precinct 6, where he received 32 votes compared to 28 each for the others.

THE HIGHEST vote getter was newcomer Mrs. Pavey, a Winston Knolls subdivision resident, who conducted an extensive door-to-door campaign. She received 904 votes while Palmer polled 893, Cowin 808, and Dooley 331.

"I think probably what caused it is working," Mrs. Pavey said of her vote total. "I personally called on 2,000 homes, and with help close to 3,000 homes were reached. Every home in the Winston Knolls section was contacted, but there were many hundreds of houses south of the tollroad that we reached, too."

Mrs. Pavey, 48, will be the second Winston Knolls resident on the board, joining Trustee Melvin Timmons, and she said Tuesday she will work toward "what is best for the entire village."

Cowin, 45, who will begin a third term on the board, Tuesday night called the victory gratifying and said he did not think the GOP alignment on the board would hinder debates.

"I think it's going to be the most exciting of my terms," he said. "I think we have pretty well handled the problems created in the past and I think during the next four years we're going to capitalize on the opportunities of the future."

"The challenges are great enough that we don't need controversy, we need teamwork," Cowin said.

Daley 'Bearing down' on move

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley lashed out Tuesday at the Chicago Bears' plan to move to a new stadium at Arlington Park Race Track and vowed to go to court to take "Chicago" out of the team's name if it makes the move.

"You don't want the name of Chicago in Arlington Heights," Daley told an audience of city hall reporters.

City lawyers are preparing briefs for a suit to prohibit the Bears' owners from referring to their team as "Chicago" if they go through with their stated intention to be a principal tenant in a proposed $25 million stadium adjacent to the race track, he said.

"I tell you this pretty directly," Daley said. "They won't use the name of Chicago and move to Arlington Heights. They can use the name Arlington Heights Bears, but never use the name Chicago while I'm mayor."

DALEY AID HE does not expect the move ever will take place. "The citizens of Arlington Heights are not foolish enough to vote a bond issue for eight football games," he said.

Madison Square Garden Corp., owner of Arlington Park, is expected to ask the village board to issue revenue bonds for the stadium which would seat 39,000 fans, compared with the 35,000 seats being used at Soldier Field.

Bears' officials could not be reached Tuesday for their reaction to Daley's remarks.

The mayor called Soldier Field "the best field in the United States," and said the City of Chicago will not build a professional stadium for any team.

"We're hoping eventually to get the Olympic Games in Chicago," he said.

Daley said a domed stadium was not needed in Chicago.

"We're a robust people. We're sturdy people in the Midwest," he said.

BEARS' OFFICIALS have said Soldier Field is too old and too small for use by a National Football League team. But Daley promised the stadium will not be torn down.

Madison Square Garden officials are expected to come before the village board in May or June to outline their stadium plan and attempt to persuade village trustees to finance the project with tax-free revenue bonds.

In return the village is likely to see revenue from the stadium through an admission tax. Other income possibilities that have been mentioned are the proceeds from a preseason exhibition game and a minimum guaranteed annual payment to the village.

Filers play 'beat the clock' as tax-return deadline nears

by JOE SWICKARD

Ed Downey unlocked the back of the box and out they tumbled.

Those white preaddressed envelopes to the Internal Revenue Service seemed to stand apart from the rest of the mail Downey, a postal assistant, was unloading at the Post Office.

The countdown was on and the last-minute filers — the perennial procrastinators — were lining up to get their returns in before the midnight deadline. Downey kept filling the mail sacks, it didn't matter to him. He filed back in January and already had his refund.

Not so with Jeff Cady. He leaned out of the window of his truck and laughed as he pushed the return through the slot.

"Hah. I've been too busy responding to sump-pump emergencies to file it," said Cady, who runs the Emergency Sump Pump Service, Arlington Heights.

"OH GOD," SAID Jay Woods while throwing up his hands. "Why am I filing now? Because it got lost in the mails."

Woods, Arlington Heights, spent the day getting emergency forms and hurriedly completing them before the midnight deadline. He walked away from the mailbox shaking his head.

There were pauses in the rush to the mailboxes between commuter trains.

Those not pulling close enough to the box had the added aggravation of leaning and straining to pay their taxes.

Outside of emergencies and lost forms, the most common reason for the last minute posting was owing Uncle some money.

"I have to pay money," called Warren Fromm, Palatine, as he slid his return in the slot.

DONALD DOLNIAK, Arlington Heights, said "I had to pay. How's that for a reason?"

One woman said, as she dropped in other mail, "We filed a long time ago. My husband took care of it downtown." She shook her head in silent comment on those waiting until Tuesday night.

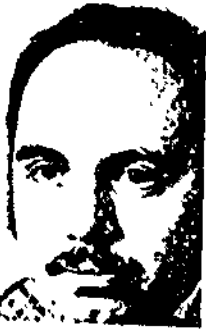

"Yeah, it's income tax. But it's not mine, it's my boss'," said Corey Iverson, Rolling Meadows. "I sent mine in back in January. . . I don't know whether you could say I always do it early. This is only the second year I've done it."

The clock marched on toward midnight and the box postal assistant Downey had so recently emptied was rapidly getting filled.

"I owed 'em money and I'm not going to give it to 'em any sooner than I have to," shouted one taxpayer roaring off until next April 15.

O'Brien pledges to 'crack machine' while Kessell welcomes competition he is retiring as campaign manager "after seven consecutive elections in which I have helped elect 33 candidates."

MRS. JORDAN, who led her losing ticket, called her personal split vote "encouraging" and said she intends to run again in four years. Levita described the new party as having a "good foundation — we will try even harder next time."

At their victory celebration at The Lancer Steak House Restaurant, SUP winners and supporters were ebullient, greeting Atcher with a standing ovation. Rogers said he looked at SUP's "tremendous" vote turnout as "a great tribute to what's gone on" in Atcher's administration, adding "the people had their say."

"It's fun to win and fun to win big," said Larson, who said he anticipated the wide vote margin.

OLSEN SAID he was "overwhelmed" at the vote totals, but "humble because of the hard work of so many people who donated their time."

Sally O'Brien rested her chin on the shoulder of her husband, Tim, and he patted her head, holding back the tears.

"It's OK, I can take it," Mrs. O'Brien said, trying to soothe him. "I can't," he replied, his voice cracking with emotion.

And from that momentary sense of gloom midway through the vote totals sprang the verbal hope and optimism that the Schaumburg Citizens for Planned Progress (SCOPP) will be back to confront the dominant Schaumburg United Party (SUP) in the future, even though the new party was overwhelmed in Tuesday's village election.

MRS. O'BRIEN, SCOPP's unsuccessful candidate for village president, and other SCOPP leaders expressed the confidence that the party did not die and would be around to make the village board accountable to village residents. Bitter comments about machine politics came from party workers at party cochairman David Johnson's home, 407 Sequoia Ct.

Meanwhile, across town in the plush Motorola Room of The Lancer Steak House restaurant, jubilant SUP members sipped drinks, congratulated the party's successful slate and gave a rousing, standing ovation to retiring Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher, SUP chairman.

"We are accepting that vote as a thank you from the people of Schaumburg," Atcher said. "We are happy tonight because we're turning over Schaumburg to such competent and experienced people."

"We (the Atchers) will be rooting for SUP and voting as citizens of Schaumburg," he said, adding he and his wife Maggie would be going back to Country and Western music along with helping the singing careers of their two daughters.

Atcher said he had been asked to come back to the booming music field and that "things looked good."

"Much of what happens in this music happens in Nashville, but it would have to be mandatory before we would move from Schaumburg," Atcher said.

"No, you don't, you could commute," a voice called out.

Vigorously applauding the comments of his long-time leader was Village President Raymond Kessell. Kessell said he welcomed future competition from SCOPP.

"Competition is what built this country, and I enjoy it," he said.

ALL THE SCOPP candidates vowed the party would be back in two years for the next election and that in the meantime they would be in attendance at village board meetings, monitoring the board's actions.

"We're going to keep on their backs and keep rattling their cages," said Lawrence Thielen, trustee candidate. "We need another party in the village."

O'Brien, SCOPP steering committee member who throughout the night had shaken his head in disbelief at the SUP blitz, attributed the defeat to the SUP "machine." "We have to crack that machine."

"THE PARTY IS NOT dead," said Do-

Apartment ransacked while she vacations

A Hoffman Estates woman told police belongings worth $15,000 were taken from her apartment while she was on vacation.

Mary Canham, 224 Mesa Dr., reported that only the fixtures remained. Taken were furniture from all the rooms, 10 evening gowns, all carpeting and pictures and plaques, police were told.

Police said they could find no signs of forced entry.

first at his nominating convention in December, pledged to work toward "doing what the people elected me to do."

"I feel like a bear in a honey tree," he said. He expressed disappointment, however, in the low voter turnout. "There wasn't enough heat in the kitchen. I would have liked to see a bigger turnout."

Despite his defeat, Dooley, 47, said he was pleased with the campaign. "I wasn't sure an Irishman could talk with the people," he said. He said he plans to stay involved in village affairs although he did not know if he would run again for office.

The voter turnout as expected was very light, with only 1,103 persons casting ballots from some 12,461 registered voters.

Neuckranz, Rock, Retzke win

Meyer keeps mayor post by 79 votes

by NANCY COWGER

Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland J. Meyer was elected to a third term Tuesday, defeating former mayor William Mieska by only 79 votes.

Meyer totaled 1,817 votes to Mieska's 1,739 in unofficial tallies for the first contest Meyer has faced since he defeated Mieska in 1967. Meyer carried three of the five city wards — the 1st, 2nd and 3rd.

Meyer late Tuesday announced this will be his final term in any city elective office, and said he "only ran this time because the city needs changes." With no future campaigns ahead of him, he can institute policies as he sees fit, he said, challenging the city council with a promise to veto some of its votes.

RAYMOND NEUCKRANZ, president of the Rolling Meadows Park Board, defeated Ald. Thomas J. Scanlan, 1st, by 53 votes in a four-way contest.

Neuckranz polled 353 votes, most from the 1st Precinct, while incumbent Scanlan got 302. Bernard T. O'Connor, who was endorsed by the Plum Grove Countryside Homeowners' Assn., trailed with 180 votes, while John Rolfe, the youngest candidate in the election at 22, polled only 19 votes.

In the 3rd Ward, incumbent Ald. John T. Rock kept his seat by only seven votes. But challenger Charles W. Zeller, an independent, has vowed to seek a recount, charging improper listings of voters.

Incumbent 4th Ward Ald. Kenneth W. Retzke won an easy victory over challenger Rudolf Balek, a former alderman defeated six years ago and running as an independent.

Meyer said his final term in office will include emphasis on long-range planning, and using his veto power "on projects I don't think are worthwhile." While Meyer would not be specific he said these projects would involve municipal spending.

Meyer described Tuesday's turnout as good, estimating about 8,200 persons are registered to vote in the city.

MIESKA LASHED OUT at the Plum Grove Countryside subdivision. In the Precinct 2 of the 1st Ward, blaming residents there for his election loss.

"I'm proud of the City of Rolling Meadows, but I'm not proud of Countryside. They've never admitted that they're a part of Rolling Meadows, and it's about time they did," he said.

Aldermen William D. Ahrens, 2nd; and James A. Huddleston, 4th, and Treasurer Robert B. Cole, all running unopposed, won reelection. Clerk candidate Elizabeth Brissenden, also unopposed, was elected.

The mayoral election was a surprise to many campaign watchers, but Meyer said he anticipated it, "because in any election it's easier to run against an incumbent." The incumbent is faced with the task of getting satisfied voters to the polls, said Meyer, and the challenger, can find it "easy to get people out to vote against something."

Meyer said there was a shortage of issues in the campaign, but "the mud was there." He and his fellow members of the Citizens' Action slate of 1975 could not return the mud slinging, he said, but "had to stand back and take the crap."

Mieska challenged Meyer to "listen to that other 49 per cent" that did not vote for Meyer's return to third term.

ROCK ALSO SAID he was not surprised by the close return in his ward, but said he doubted Zeller would actually proceed with a recount.

Neuckranz attributed his defeat of Scanlan to "hard work and honesty," and said he would remain on the park board "only until the new president says they can do without me." He will resign that board's presidency immediately, he said.

"People wanted a change. They didn't like what Scanlan stands for. I don't think the people believed him," said Neuckranz said.

Meyer squeaked by Mieska with only 79 votes, pointees who worked against his election to a third term.

3rd Ward loser Zeller to demand a recount

Charles W. Zeller, an independent candidate for 3rd Ward alderman who lost Tuesday by an unofficial count of seven votes, said he would demand a recount.

Incumbent Ald. John T. Rock was the apparent winner, with unofficial tallies giving him 413 votes to 406 for Zeller.

Mayor Roland J. Meyer said he did not know if Zeller was entitled to a recount and planned to check with City Atty. Donald M. Rose for advice on what position the city council should take. Meyer noted Zeller would be responsible for paying the costs of a recount, but said he did not know what the cost would be.

ZELLER BLAMED what he termed a "mixup" in registration records and confusion at all three precinct polling places for his narrow loss. In each precinct, voters were listed as residing in a wrong precinct, said Zeller. Their names "were badly scrambled," he said. He said he did not know if the fault would lie with the city clerk's office or the county clerk's office. He said he did "not know" if the "mixup" constituted vote fraud.

Zeller said the confused listings caused a number of voters to "walk home in disgust" without voting. Both judges and voters were confused, he said.

Zeller also said he understood that in the 3rd Precinct about 130 voters cast straight-ticket ballots for the Citizens Action Party of 1975. "It's very difficult for an independent candidate" with so many voters casting straight-party ballots, he said.

Daley 'Bearing down' on move

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley lashed out Tuesday at the Chicago Bears' plan to move to a new stadium at Arlington Park Race Track and vowed to go to court to take "Chicago" out of the team's name if it makes the move.

"You don't want the name of Chicago in Arlington Heights," Daley told an audience of city hall reporters.

City lawyers are preparing briefs for a suit to prohibit the Bears' owners from referring to their team as "Chicago" if they go through with their stated intention to be a principal tenant in a proposed $25 million stadium adjacent to the race track, he said.

"I tell you this pretty directly," Daley said. "They won't use the name of Chicago and move to Arlington Heights. They can use the name Arlington Heights Bears, but never use the name Chicago while I'm mayor."

DALEY AID HE does not expect the move ever will take place. "The citizens of Arlington Heights are not foolish enough to vote a bond issue for eight football games," he said.

Madison Square Garden Corp., owner of Arlington Park, is expected to ask the village board to issue revenue bonds for the stadium which would seat 83,000 fans, compared with the 55,000 seats being used at Soldier Field.

Bears' officials could not be reached Tuesday for their reaction to Daley's remarks.

The mayor called Soldier Field "the best field in the United States," and said the City of Chicago will not build a professional stadium for any team.

"We're hoping eventually to get the Olympic Games in Chicago," he said.

Daley said a domed stadium was not needed in Chicago.

"We're a robust people. We're sturdy people in the Midwest," he said.

BEARS' OFFICIALS have said Soldier Field is too old and too small for use by a National Football League team. But Daley promised the stadium will not be torn down.

Madison Square Garden officials are expected to come before the village board in May or June to outline their stadium plan and attempt to persuade village trustees to finance the project with tax-free revenue bonds.

In return the village is likely to see revenue from the stadium through an admission tax. Other income possibilities that have been mentioned are the proceeds from a preseason exhibition game and a minimum guaranteed annual payment to the village.

Filers play 'beat the clock' as tax-return deadline nears

by JOE SWICKARD

Ed Downey unlocked the back of the box and out they tumbled.

Those white preaddressed envelopes to the Internal Revenue Service seemed to stand apart from the rest of the mail Downey, a postal assistant, was unloading at the Post Office.

The countdown was on and the last-minute filers — the perennial procrastinators — were lining up to get their returns in before the midnight deadline. Downey kept filling the mail sacks, it didn't matter to him. He filed back in January and already had his refund.

Not so with Jeff Cady. He leaned out of the window of his truck and laughed as he pushed the return through the slot.

"Hah. I've been too busy responding to sump-pump emergencies to file it," said Cady, who runs the Emergency Sump Pump Service, Arlington Heights.

"OH GOD," SAID Jay Woods while throwing up his hands. "Why am I filing now? Because it got lost in the mails."

Woods, Arlington Heights, spent the day getting emergency forms and hurriedly completing them before the midnight deadline. He walked away from the mailbox shaking his head.

There were pauses in the rush to the mailboxes between commuter trains.

Those not pulling close enough to the box had the added aggravation of leaning and straining to pay their taxes.

Outside of emergencies and lost forms, the most common reason for the last minute posting was owing Uncle some money.

"I have to pay money," called Warren Fromm, Palatine, as he slid his return in the slot.

DONALD DOLNIAK, Arlington Heights, said "I had to pay. How's that for a reason?"

One woman said, as she dropped in other mail, "We filed a long time ago. My husband took care of it downtown." She shook her head in silent comment on those waiting until Tuesday night.

"Yeah, it's income tax. But it's not mine, it's my boss'," said Corey Iverson, Rolling Meadows. "I sent mine in back in January. . . I don't know whether you could say I always do it early. This is only the second year I've done it."

The clock marched on toward midnight and the box postal assistant Downey had so recently emptied was rapidly getting filled.

"I owed 'em money and I'm not going to give it to 'em any sooner than I have to," shouted one taxpayer roaring off until next April 15.

AT THE 1971 OPENING, Arlington Park Theatre was patronized by many local residents. The theater closed this weekend and will not reopen until a new leasing agreement is worked out with Hilton

Corp., the owners. In the past four years many celebrities have appeared on its stage, including Art Carney, Don Knotts, Burt Reynolds, Barbara Rush and recently, the Gabor sisters.

Arlington Park Theatre goes dark; expenses cited

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Arlington Park Theatre, which opened just four years ago amid high hopes that professional theater could flourish in the Northwest suburbs, has closed its doors.

Saturday's performance of "Brief Lives" marks the last production to be staged in the theater-in-the-round until a new rental agreement can be worked out between the Hilton Corp., owners of the theater, and either the present producer of Arlington Park Theatre, David Lonn, or a new production company.

A spokesman for Hilton Corp., released this statement: "The lease with Arlington Park Theatre is being terminated and the theater is temporarily closed. Hilton Corp. is doing whatever is necessary to have the theater reopened in the near future. But at this time we are not sure who the new operator will be."

ARLINGTON PARK THEATRE opened in July of 1971 adjacent to what was then the Arlington Park Towers Hotel. In the four years the theater has had five owners. The original lease called for a certain percentage of the weekly gross sales as rental payment "which just became impossible to meet," said Lonn.

Operating expenses greatly increased, he said, as the theater brought in bigger name stars and better productions.

"Our operating expenses fluctuate anywhere from $25,000 to $40,000 per week and our gross sales vary from $40,000 to $72,000 per week," Lonn said. "From this it is impossible to come up with a percentage formula."

LONN CITED SKYROCKETING real-estate taxes and

cost-of-living increases as other factors affecting the escalating costs of operating the theater.

Lonn added that previous owners were all sympathetic and realized that a new lease had to be developed.

By verbal agreement with previous owners, Lonn said his production company, Rannoch Productions, had not been paying the full amount stated in the lease.

HILTON, WHICH took over ownership of the theater last December, is holding Rannoch Productions to the original demands of the lease and in addition is asking $90,000 in back rent, Lonn said.

"Originally, the theater was designed as a typical suburban theater," said Lonn. "But people did not support it. It was a disaster. Burt Reynolds was the only thing that saved the theater during the first six months of operation. Bringing in comedies with has-been stars isn't the answer."

"We had to spend more money to bring in the kind of show people did want to see."

IN THE FOUR YEARS of its existence, Arlington Park Theatre, under the guidance of Lonn, has won several honors.

The theater has been awarded two Joseph Jefferson Awards for best production.

"Dance on a Country Grave," which had its premier at Arlington Park Theatre in December 1973, received the award as did "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," which won in 1972.

In addition, the latter production set a new record in Chicago theater by being nominated in five different "Jeff" categories and winning all five. No other production has been so honored.

Meyer will fire aides who campaigned

Mayor Roland J. Meyer said he will fire city commissioners and employees who fought to unseat him in his bid for a third term.

Meyer said he would demand resignations from Plan Comr. Richard Schar and Richard E. Kornatz, a Zoning Board of Appeals member, as well as an unspecified number of city employees "if I can substantiate" that they worked for independent mayoral candidate William J. Miseska. Miseska lost by only 79 votes.

Kornatz is married to outgoing Clerk Eileen Kornatz, who was elected on Meyer's slate four years ago. She did not run this year.

Meyer said he expected the resignations on his desk first thing this morning. If they are not submitted before Tuesday's city council meeting, Kornatz, Schar and the city employees will be fired then, Meyer vowed.

"I'll go back and look at who was working" in the campaigns, said Meyer. "Anyone working in the election will be asked to resign," he said.

Meyer said he was not purging his opponents as much as enforcing a city ordinance prohibiting city employees from political campaigning.

"To my knowledge, I didn't" (have any city employees working on his campaign) Meyer said, although he added that several employees had volunteered to support him and he refused their assistance, pointing to the ordinance.

Meyer refused to specify which other employees were under suspicion and potential targets of the firings.

Maverick trustee Valliere defeated in Inverness

Inverness Trustee A. James Valliere, a maverick on the board since his election in 1971, was ousted Tuesday by independent William B. Garrett.

Two other incumbent trustees, Walter D. Pugh and George W. Guderley, were reelected.

Inverness Village Pres. Russell V. Puzey attributed Valliere's defeat to his recent charge that village politics keeps the board from acting on important problems.

"The voting results show that people in Inverness don't believe there is dissonance on the board, and there isn't. The residents didn't like Valliere's idea of introducing independent actions on the board. I think this lost him the election because he otherwise worked hard on his campaign," Puzey said.

Valliere, the first independent candidate elected to the Inverness Village Board four years ago, said he did not know why he had lost the election and said he didn't believe that "anything I have said in recent times worked against my reelection."

"There was a large group of people in the village who supported the three winning candidates, possibly because they did not concur with my way of thinking," he said.

Auto Windows broken

Rolling Meadows police said Tuesday that 18 reports of broken auto windows were received Monday night and Tuesday morning. Some windows appeared to have been shot out with BB guns, but others were smashed, police said.

The incidents were scattered throughout the city, although several were reported at Wilke Road addresses, police said.

Two instances of side-view mirrors being ripped off autos also were reported.

Incumbents Coughlin, Stern also win

Zajonc survives strong GOP thrust

JOAN VAN WYE

Independent Fred H. Zajonc won a third term as Village trustee Thursday, surviving a strong Republican effort to oust him from the Palatine Village Board.

Also elected were Republican incumbents Bryan B. Coughlin Jr. and Philip E. Stern. The GOP will keep its 6-to-4 majority on the board.

Unofficial totals showed Zajonc ahead of the field with 1,931 votes. Coughlin had 1,777 and Stern received 1,443 votes.

John V. Serio, the third GOP candidate, placed fourth with an unofficial total of 1,306. Unofficial totals for the remaining two independent candidates were Thomas D. LaDore, 1,171 and Patricia E. Miramonti, 1,196.

VOTER TURNOUT WAS light with only 20 per cent of Palatine's 15,000 registered voters casting ballots. This compares to a voter turnout of approximately 35 per cent in 1973 when the Republicans swept the village election.

Republicans who expected again to sweep the election and gain control of all seven seats on the board, cited poor voter turnout and general apathy in the village as the reason Serio was defeated.

"The people were saying they don't want a 7-to-0 board," said Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones, the GOP campaign manager. Fred (Zajonc) ran as a Republican in 1967 and he still has some following in the Republican organization.

"I feel I have a mandate from the people to spearhead changes," Zajonc said, after learning he was the top vote-getter. "I will expect the full assistance of the board. I plan to present complete proposals of what I feel should be done. I don't expect I will be right all the time but with eight years experience I feel I can make a very formidable contribution."

Zajonc, 60, of 311 E. Norman Dr., carried the six precincts in his home area, the Winston Park subdivision by a 540-3 margin. LaDore and Miramonti both received 320 votes in the Winston Park subdivision out tallying their Republican opponents.

THE GOP TICKET carried 7 of the 31 precincts, compared to 17 of 21 precincts in 1973. The Republican strongholds were Precinct 1 in downtown Palatine where GOP Trustee Richard W. Fonte lives, Precinct 6 where Bernard E. Pedersen, Palatine Township GOP committeeman, lives, Precinct 10 where Robert Bengman, Palatine Township Highway commissioner lives, Precinct 30 in the

Maverick trustee Valliere defeated in Inverness

Inverness Trustee A. James Valliere, a maverick on the board since his election in 1971, was ousted Tuesday by independent William B. Garrett.

Two other incumbent trustees, Walter D. Pugh and George W. Guderley, were reelected.

What election officials considered a heavy turnout of 463 voters gave Pugh 351 votes, Garrett, 341, Guderley, 334, and Valliere, 124.

Inverness Village Pres. Russell V. Puzey attributed Valliere's defeat to his recent charge that village politics keeps the board from acting on important problems.

"The voting results show that people in Inverness don't believe there is discussion on the board, and there isn't. The residents didn't like Valliere's idea of introducing independent actions on the board. I think this lost him the election because he otherwise worked hard on his campaign," Puzey said.

Valliere, the first independent candidate elected to the Inverness Village Board four years ago, said he did not know why he had lost the election and said he didn't believe that "anything I have said in recent times worked against my reelection."

"There was a large group of people in the village who supported the three winning candidates, possibly because they did not concur with my way of thinking," he said.

Degner wins 6-year park board seat

Waldon O. Degner was reelected to a six-year term on the Palatine Park Board Tuesday, tallying almost as many votes as his four opponents combined.

Degner defeated Eugene Dorsch, John Turner and Patricia Picardi, who were officials of the Palatine Rural Park District Board prior to its Jan. 1 merger with the Palatine Park Board, and former League of Women Voters park board observer Nancy Larsen.

Degner got 594 votes; Turner, 267; Mrs. Larsen, 188; Dorsch, 156; and Mrs.

Picardi, 86. Degner carried a majority of the votes in the second park district precinct, west of Hicks Road and north of the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks, which included a portion of downtown Palatine and three heavily populated rural subdivisions of English Valley, Heatherlea and Pepper Tree Farms. Turner lives in Heatherlea and Dorsch is from English Valley.

A total of 1,278 residents voted in Tuesday's election.

THE HEAVIEST turnout was in the central and northern portions of Palatine, which include the bulk of the unincorporated areas in the park district.

"It appears by the way that residents voted that rural-area representation was not a convincing issue in this election. It appears that voters didn't feel they would be slighted because of where they live in the district, and if they didn't have an unincorporated-area resident representing them on the board," Degner said.

Dorsch and Turner had insisted during the campaign that more unincorporated-area representation was needed on the park board while Degner maintained that geographic representation was not an important factor.

Degner, who has served on the park board for six years, attributed his reelection to his "personal, simple campaign." He said he had distributed simple, informational brochures "from one end of the district to the other on foot, and that's what won me the election."

Arlington Park Theatre goes dark; expenses cited

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Arlington Park Theatre, which opened just four years ago amid high hopes that professional theater could flourish in the Northwest suburb, has closed its doors.

Saturday's performance of "Brief Lives" marks the last production to be staged in the theater-in-the-round until a new rental agreement can be worked out between the Hilton Corp., owners of the theater, and either the present producer of Arlington Park Theatre, David Lonn, or a new production company.

A spokesman for Hilton Corp., released this statement: "The lease with Arlington Park Theatre is being terminated and the theater is temporarily closed. Hilton Corp. is doing whatever is necessary to have the theater reopened in the near future. But at this time we are not sure who the new operator will be."

ARLINGTON PARK THEATRE opened in July of 1971 adjacent to what was then the Arlington Park Towers Hotel. In the four years the theater has had five owners. The original lease called for a certain percentage of the weekly gross sales as rental payment "which just became impossible to meet," said Lonn.

Operating expenses greatly increased, he said, as the theater brought in bigger name stars and better productions.

"Our operating expenses fluctuate anywhere from $26,000 to $48,000 per week and our gross sales vary from $44,000 to $72,000 per week," Lonn said. "From this it is impossible to come up with a percentage formula."

LONN CITED SKYROCKETING real-estate taxes and

cost-of-living increases as other factors affecting the escalating costs of operating the theater.

Lonn added that previous owners were all sympathetic and realized that a new lease had to be developed.

By verbal agreement with previous owners, Lonn said his production company, Rannoch Productions, had not been paying the full amount stated in the lease.

HILTON, WHICH took over ownership of the theater last December, is holding Rannoch Productions to the original demands of the lease and in addition is asking $90,000 in back rent, Lonn said.

"Originally, the theater was designed as a typical suburban theater," said Lonn. "But people did not support it. It was a disaster. Burt Reynolds was the only thing that saved the theater during the first six months of operation. Bringing in comedies with has-been stars isn't the answer."

"We had to spend more money to bring in the kind of show people did want to see."

IN THE FOUR YEARS of its existence, Arlington Park Theatre, under the guidance of Lonn, has won several honors.

The theater has been awarded two Joseph Jefferson Awards for best production.

"Dance on a Country Grave," which had its premier at Arlington Park Theatre in December 1973, received the award as did "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," which won in 1972.

In addition, the latter production set a new record in Chicago theater by being nominated in five different "Jeff" categories and winning all five. No other production has been so honored.

Northview subdivision where GOP Trustee Robert J. Guss lives; Precinct 45 in the Pebble Creek and Willow Wood subdivisions where Stern and Coughlin live; Precinct 35 in the Orchard Hills subdivision and Precinct 54.

Coughlin and Stern both said they were shocked by Zajonc's strong showing at the polls. Stern accused Zajonc of running a campaign on personalities and not issues while Coughlin described Zajonc as an "unthinking" trustee who "disagrees to disagree."

Coughlin, 44, of 512 MacArthur Dr., was elected to a two-year term on the board in 1973. Stern, 40, of 448 Warwick Rd., was appointed to the board by Jones last year to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Clayton W. Brown.

Wording on ballot blamed

Voters decide 1,733-1,424 to keep clerk post elective

The office of Palatine Village Clerk will remain an elected position.

Voters Tuesday turned down, by a 1,733 to 1,424 margin, a referendum to have the clerk appointed by the village manager.

The current Village Clerk, Diane Greenlees, who had supported the referendum, said Tuesday, "People apparently did not understand the question. If the ballot had read 'hire' instead of 'appoint' I think it would have passed. When people see appointed they think of patronage," she said.

The referendum did not become a campaign issue by candidates for the village board although several Republican trustees had said they favored keeping the job elected.

Mrs. Greenlees two years ago ran on a platform abolishing her job. But voters

Tuesday apparently felt the job a necessary elected post.

The village clerk's annual salary is $1,200. The duties include taking minutes at board meetings and organizing elections.

Resale shop asks donations

The Little City Resale Shop, 5318 N. Clark St., Chicago, is in need of furniture, clothing and household item donations from suburban residents. Proceeds from the sale of merchandise are used to support the ongoing rehabilitation programs for the mentally handicapped and the blind retarded at Little City, Palatine.

Donations will be picked up at homes when residents call 271-7115. The resale shop is open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Correction

The Herald incorrectly reported Tuesday that James P. McCarthy, legal adviser to the Palatine Village Board, is with the Chicago law firm of Ashcraft and Ashcraft. He is a partner in the Chicago law firm of Littlejohn, Glass and McCarthy.

Hendricks tops all vote getters

Independents defeat United Citizens

by LYNN ASINOF
Independents swept into office in Mount Prospect as voters Tuesday overwhelmingly rejected the five candidates on the incumbent United Citizens Party ticket.

The highest vote getter in the race for four-year terms was incumbent Richard N. Hendricks, who received 4,177 votes according to unofficial totals.

Former mayoral candidate Michael H. Minton was elected trustee with 3,572 votes and Theodore J. Waltenberg, member of the River Trails Dist. 26 Board of Education, won a seat on the village board with 3,437 votes.

Independent Leo Floros, unsuccessful candidate in the 1973 race, was frontrunner in the race for two 2-year terms with an unofficial vote of 3,667. Edward B. Rhea, Jr., won the other two-year seat with 2,296 votes.

MEMBERS OF the United Citizens slate reacted with shock as precinct after precinct showed independents sweeping the election. Most of the United Citizens candidates said they had no indication that the vote would be so heavily against them.

"I knew it was going to be split, but that's not a split," said unsuccessful incumbent Marie L. Caylor. "That's a washout."

Minton said that with five independents on the seven-member village board, the government will have "a whole new direction, a change of village policies."

THE INDEPENDENTS campaigned on the "unresponsiveness" of the present board, saying it had lost touch with the people. The United Citizens ticket campaigned on the record of the present board.

Mayor Robert D. Teichert, who endorsed the United Citizens slate, said he expected no problem in working with the independents. "I think I'll enjoy again being the minority on the board," he said, noting that the vote reflected a desire for a change in political philosophy.

Hendricks, riding high on his victory, indicated that he was considering seeking the mayor's seat in 1977. "All I can say is bring on '77," he said, declining to commit himself further.

Teichert said this would have no impact on his decision to run in 1977. "I'm not going to retire as an elder statesman," he said. "If they want it, they're going to have to take it."

FLOROS SAID the sweep by the independents was a negative vote against the present government. He said he was sorry to see that Trustee George B. Anderson was not reelected. "I think it's too bad in the case of Anderson that he has to be swept out," he said. "I think the party label hurt him. It identified him with the 'in' group."

Mrs. Caylor, who offered the closest challenge to the independents, was only an estimated 80 votes behind Rhea and 48 votes behind unsuccessful independent Norma Murauskis.

"If the people want that kind of government, then perhaps they ought to try it once," Mrs. Caylor said. "I think it is a sad time for the village."

James P. Grier Jr., United Citizens campaign manager, told subdued party workers the party will have to live with the results of the election for the next two years, but warned that the party will be back.

"They have voted and told us what they think," he said. "But that doesn't make us wrong."

THE JUBILANT expression of independent Leo Floros, seated, contrasts with the somber look of Edward G. Wells, right, as both look at the results of Tuesday's election. Independents swept into office, unseating three incumbent trustees and winning a total of five seats on the seven-member board.

Mrs. Zanca heads school board after divided vote

Judith Zanca has been elected president of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education by a divided vote.

Mrs. Zanca, 81 Roxbury Ln., Des Plaines, has served on the board for five years. She was elected by a 7-to-2 vote, rather than the customary "solidarity" vote of 7 to 0.

Following Mrs. Zanca's nomination for president, board member Paul Kucharski nominated Gerald Smiley, who served as president during the 1974-75 term, for president.

The motion died, for lack of a seconding vote, and Mrs. Zanca was elected with Smiley and Kucharski voting "no." Smiles said the no votes are "all a part of our attempt to do everything in the open."

"It's healthy for board members to disagree," Smiley said.

Avis Wold, 540 Ruskin Dr., Elk Grove Village, was elected secretary of the board.

In other action Monday, the board confirmed an earlier decision that directed the administration to begin preparing for a possible fall tax hike referendum. The authorization was given at the last meeting of the board, but members wanted the authorization confirmed by the new board, which was seated Monday.

New board members Lynne Helvie and Barbara Somogyi who were elected Saturday, took their seats on the board, replacing Albert Domanico, who retired, and Jean Cashman, who was unseated in Saturday's election.

DeWaal retains River Trails parks seat

William R. DeWaal

Incumbent William R. DeWaal handily defeated challenger Robert Krueger Tuesday for a six-year term on the River Trails Park Board.

Unofficial results Tuesday showed DeWaal, 35, of 1824 Cree Ln., receiving 236 votes to 46 votes for Krueger, 29, of 1328 Peartree Ln.

Park Director Marvin Weiss said the 282 votes cast was "the largest turnout we've had for an election." He said the large turnout may have been generated because the village board elections were held the same day. Park district residents had to vote in a separate location for the park election, however.

DeWaal was appointed to the park board last January to fill a vacancy created when former Comr. Eugene L. DiBlasi moved from the area. He is an administrator of group underwriting and master policy for Washington National Insurance Co., Evanston, and former president of the Euclid-Lake Homeowners' Assn.

Krueger, a foreman and electrician for Mohawk Electric Construction Co., Chicago, also had applied for DiBlasi's seat.

Daley 'Bearing down' on move

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley lashed out Tuesday at the Chicago Bears' plan to move to a new stadium at Arlington Park Race Track and vowed to go to court to take "Chicago" out of the team's name if it makes the move.

"You don't want the name of Chicago in Arlington Heights," Daley told an audience of city hall reporters.

City lawyers are preparing briefs for a suit to prohibit the Bears' owners from referring to their team as "Chicago" if they go through with their stated intention to be a principal tenant in a proposed $25 million stadium adjacent to the race track, he said.

"I tell you this pretty directly," Daley said. "They won't use the name of Chicago and move to Arlington Heights. They can use the name Arlington Heights Bears, but never use the name Chicago while I'm mayor."

DALEY AID HE does not expect the move ever will take place. "The citizens of Arlington Heights are not foolish enough to vote a bond issue for eight football games," he said.

Madison Square Garden Corp., owner of Arlington Park, is expected to ask the village board to issue revenue bonds for the stadium which would seat 80,000 fans, compared with the 53,000 seats being used at Soldier Field.

Bears' officials could not be reached Tuesday for their reaction to Daley's remarks.

The mayor called Soldier Field "the best field in the United States," and said the City of Chicago will not build a professional stadium for any team.

"We're hoping eventually to get the Olympic Games in Chicago," he said.

Daley said a domed stadium was not needed in Chicago.

"We're a robust people. We're sturdy people in the Midwest," he said.

BEARS' OFFICIALS have said Soldier Field is too old and too small for use by a National Football League team. But Daley promised the stadium will not be torn down.

Madison Square Garden officials are expected to come before the village board in May or June to outline their stadium plan and attempt to persuade village trustees to finance the project with tax-free revenue bonds.

In return the village is likely to see revenue from the stadium through an admission tax. Other income possibilities that have been mentioned are the proceeds from a preseason exhibition game and a minimum guaranteed annual payment to the village.

Filers play 'beat the clock' as tax-return deadline nears

by JOE SWICKARD

Ed Downey unlocked the back of the box and out they tumbled.

Those white preaddressed envelopes to the Internal Revenue Service seemed to stand apart from the rest of the mail Downey, a postal assistant, was unloading at the Post Office.

The countdown was on and the last-minute filers — the perennial procrastinators — were lining up to get their returns in before the midnight deadline. Downey kept filling the mail sacks, it didn't matter to him. He filed back in January and already had his refund.

Not so with Jeff Cady. He leaned out of the window of his truck and laughed as he pushed the return through the slot.

"Hah. I've been too busy responding to sump-pump emergencies to file it," said Cady, who runs the Emergency Sump Pump Service, Arlington Heights.

"OH GOD," SAID Jay Woods while throwing up his hands.

"Why am I filling now? Because it got lost in the mails." Woods, Arlington Heights, spent the day getting emergency forms and hurriedly completing them before the midnight deadline. He walked away from the mailbox shaking his head.

There were pauses in the rush to the mailboxes between commuter trains.

Those not pulling close enough to the box had the added aggravation of leaning and straining to pay their taxes.

Outside of emergencies and lost forms, the most common reason for the last minute posting was owing Uncle some money.

"I have to pay money," called Warren Fromm, Palatine, as he slid his return in the slot.

DONALD DOLNIAK, Arlington Heights, said "I had to pay. How's that for a reason?"

One woman said, as she dropped in other mail, "We filed a long time ago. My husband took care of it downtown." She shook her head in silent comment on those waiting until Tuesday night.

"Yeah, it's income tax. But it's not mine, it's my boss," said Corey Iverson, Rolling Meadows. "I sent mine in back in January . . . I don't know whether you could say I always do it early. This is only the second year I've done it."

The clock marched on toward midnight and the box postal assistant Downey had so recently emptied was rapidly getting filled.

"I owed 'em money and I'm not going to give it to 'em any sooner than I have to," shouted one taxpayer roaring off until next April 15.

AT THE 1971 OPENING, Arlington Park Theatre was patronized by many local residents. The theater closed this weekend and will not reopen until a new leasing agreement is worked out with Hilton

Corp., the owners. In the past four years many celebrities have appeared on its stage, including Art Carney, Don Knotts, Burt Reynolds, Barbara Rush and recently, the Gabor sisters.

Residents react; River Trails delays staff cuts

by LINDA PUNCH

The River Trails District 26 Board of Education postponed action on staffing cuts Tuesday night after residents questioned the effects of the cutback on the educational program.

More than 75 persons — about one-third of them teachers — attended the board meeting. Both board members and members of the audience said they feared the program cutbacks could lower the quality of education in the district.

Supt. John Fridlund presented a staffing plan which would reduce the teaching staff at the junior high level and would eliminate the CORE program — a teaching method in which a group of students share the same math, science, social studies and language arts teachers.

FRIDLUND'S PLAN, based on suggestions of the building principals, would eliminate a reading teacher, a social studies teacher, a learning-disabilities teacher and a full-time and part-time French teacher at the junior high level. The plan also calls for a cutback of nine teachers at the elementary school level.

Fridlund said the staffing plan would save the district about $144,000. Board member William Haase estimated that amount, which doesn't include pay raises for teachers and staff, would prevent the district from going into debt next year.

Parents in the audience said they were afraid the junior high program changes would affect the quality of education.

"I think you are lowering the quality of education at the junior high level which I consider the most crucial phase. I think you're really hurting those students," said Joy Daskall.

FRIDLUND SAID the administration was trying to make cuts that would be "the least harmful to students," describing the French program as the least necessary.

"It's difficult for a student to go into high school not knowing how to read or not knowing the basic math concepts. But there's not a kid in America who can't walk into a high school without the benefits of French," he said.

Audience members also questioned why cuts weren't being made in other areas besides teaching staff and programs. Board Pres. Michael Sheyker said, "We can cut in other areas — and we intend to — but salaries make up 70 to 80 per cent of the budget."

The staffing plan will be discussed at the next meeting of the Dist. 26 board.

Plaza marks 14th year

Mount Prospect Plaza will celebrate its 14th anniversary this week with a special anniversary sweepstakes featuring a grand prize of a trip to Hawaii for two.

More than 200 prizes will be given away from today through Saturday during the celebration. The grand prize vacation trip will be given away in a drawing April 21.

Shoppers may pick up sweepstakes tickets at any plaza store. No purchase is necessary. Winning sweepstakes numbers will be posted at each store, each a different number.

Tickets may be deposited in one of the containers available at the plaza for the grand-prize drawing.

The eight-day Hawaiian trip, complete with hotel accommodations and transportation was arranged through the courtesy of Sunshine Travel Inc., Des Plaines.

Participants in the sweepstakes celebration must be 18 or older. There is a limit of one sweepstakes prize per family. Employees and their families are not eligible.

Parks expected to OK garage, office bids

River Trails Park District officials are expected to award bids Thursday for construction of a maintenance garage and office addition at a special meeting to canvass Tuesday's election results.

Most bids on construction of the new facilities came in below the park board's $125,000 estimate.

The five lowest bids were $104,190, Orange Construction Co., Schaumburg; $104,531, F. J. Biecher Construction Co., Palatine; $109,310, Polonia Construction Co., Chicago; $109,891, Floodstrom Construction Co., Deerfield, and $111,441, Oscar Berge Builders, Glenview.

Weiss said these were base bids with alternates and additions adding about $10,000 in each case.

Money for the two projects, which were combined for the bidding, will come from the $370,620.50 federal grant the park district received last year as partial reimbursement for its purchase of half the Rob Roy driving range. Work on the two projects is expected to begin shortly after a contract is awarded.

Filers play 'beat the clock' as tax-return deadline nears

by JOE SWICKARD

Ed Downey unlocked the back of the box and out they tumbled.

Those white preaddressed envelopes to the Internal Revenue Service seemed to stand apart from the rest of the mail. Downey, a postal assistant, was unloading at the Post Office.

The countdown was on and the last-minute filers — the perennial procrastinators — were lining up to get their returns in before the midnight deadline. Downey kept filling the mail sacks, it didn't matter to him. He filed back in January and already had his refund.

Not so with Jeff Cady. He leaned out of the window of his truck and laughed as he pushed the return through the slot.

"Hah. I've been too busy responding to sump-pump emergencies to file it," said Cady, who runs the Emergency Sump Pump Service, Arlington Heights.

"OH GOD," SAID Jay Woods while throwing up his hands. "Why am I filing now? Because it got lost in the mails."

Woods, Arlington Heights, spent the day getting emergency forms and hurriedly completing them before the midnight deadline. He walked away from the mailbox shaking his head.

There were pauses in the rush to the mailboxes between commuter trains.

Those not pulling close enough to the box had the added aggravation of leaning and straining to pay their taxes.

Outside of emergencies and lost forms, the most common reason for the last minute posting was owing Uncle some money.

"I have to pay money," called Warren Fromm, Palatine, as he slid his return in the slot.

DONALD DOLNIAK, Arlington Heights, said "I had to pay. How's that for a reason?"

One woman said, as she dropped in other mail, "We filed a long time ago. My husband took care of it downtown." She shook her head in silent comment on those waiting until Tuesday night.

"Yeah, it's income tax. But it's not mine, it's my boss'," said Corey Iverson, Rolling Meadows. "I sent mine in back in January. . . I don't know whether you could say I always do it early. This is only the second year I've done it."

The clock marched on toward midnight and the box postal assistant Downey had so recently emptied was rapidly getting filled.

"I owed 'em money and I'm not going to give it to 'em any sooner than I have to," shouted one taxpayer roaring off until next April 15.

Waiting for feasibility study

Village begins to plan for Bears' stadium

by KURT BAER

Arlington Heights officials have begun making plans for the day when Madison Square Garden Corp. and the Chicago Bears step forward with plans for an 80,000-seat stadium next to Arlington Park Race Track.

"We're heading into the eye of a hurricane that will soon be swelling up around us," Trustee David Griffin said Tuesday night. "Conceivably, this could be the biggest project this village has ever undertaken."

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said he has written for information on the agreement between the Buffalo Bills professional football team and Erie County, N.Y., which financed a new stadium for the Bills in Orchard Park, N.Y., a Buffalo suburb.

"The time to get into the real decision-making is when they (Madison Square Garden) present their feasibility study. I can only assume it will be comprehensive. Then we might well want to make our own (economic) studies," Hanson said.

TRUSTEE FRANK Palmatier, chairman of the village board's finance committee, cautioned against spending much village money on stadium speculation until officials were sure of Madison Square Garden's and the Bears' true intentions.

"I still think this may be a flash in the pan," Palmatier said. However, he added that village officials can ask Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel for an opinion now on which public hearings are required to consider the stadium proposal. Other information officials said they might want to have on hand before the stadium presentation includes: federal requirements for environmental impact statements, tax considerations for local school and park districts in which Arlington Park is located and liabilities the village would assume if the stadium fails economically.

The matters are expected to come up for further discussion by the full village board May 21.

Palmatier said the preliminary information should be gathered by the village staff.

Madison Square Garden president Alan Cohen told The Herald last week he hopes to be before the village board in May or June to present the stadium feasibility plan.

AT THE 1971 OPENING, Arlington Park Theatre was patronized by many local residents. The theater closed this weekend and will not reopen until a new leasing agreement is worked out with Hilton

Corp., the owners. In the past four years many celebrities have appeared on its stage, including Art Carney, Don Knotts, Burt Reynolds, Barbara Rush and recently, the Gabor sisters.

Daley 'Bearing down' on move

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley lashed out Tuesday at the Chicago Bears' plan to move to a new stadium at Arlington Park Race Track and vowed to go to court to take "Chicago" out of the team's name if it makes the move.

"You don't want the name of Chicago in Arlington Heights," Daley told an audience of city hall reporters.

City lawyers are preparing briefs for a suit to prohibit the Bears' owners from referring to their team as "Chicago" if they go through with their stated intention to be a principal tenant in a proposed $25 million stadium adjacent to the race track, he said.

"I tell you this pretty directly," Daley said. "They won't use the name of Chicago and move to Arlington Heights. They can use the name Arlington Heights Bears, but never use the name Chicago while I'm mayor."

DALEY AID HE does not expect the move ever will take place. "The citizens of Arlington Heights are not foolish enough to vote a bond issue for eight football games," he said.

Madison Square Garden Corp., owner of Arlington Park, is expected to ask the village board to issue revenue bonds for the stadium which would seat 80,000 fans, compared with the 55,000 seats being used at Soldier Field.

Bears' officials could not be reached Tuesday for their reaction to Daley's remarks.

The mayor called Soldier Field "the best field in the United States," and said the City of Chicago will not build a professional stadium for any team.

"We're hoping eventually to get the Olympic Games in Chicago," he said.

Daley said a domed stadium was not needed in Chicago.

"We're a robust people. We're sturdy people in the Midwest," he said.

RICHARD J. DALEY

BEARS' OFFICIALS have said Soldier Field is too old and too small for use by a National Football League team. But Daley promised the stadium will not be torn down.

Madison Square Garden officials are expected to come before the village board in May or June to outline their stadium plan and attempt to persuade village trustees to finance the project with tax-free revenue bonds.

In return the village is likely to see revenue from the stadium through an admission tax. Other income possibilities that have been mentioned are the proceeds from a preseason exhibition game and a minimum guaranteed annual payment to the village.

Arlington Park Theatre goes dark; expenses cited

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Arlington Park Theatre, which opened just four years ago amid high hopes that professional theater could flourish in the Northwest suburbs, has closed its doors.

Saturday's performance of "Brief Lives" marks the last production to be staged in the theater-in-the-round until a new rental agreement can be worked out between the Hilton Corp., owners of the theater, and either the present producer of Arlington Park Theatre, David Lonn, or a new production company.

A spokesman for Hilton Corp., released this statement: "The lease with Arlington Park Theatre is being terminated and the theater is temporarily closed. Hilton Corp. is doing whatever is necessary to have the theater reopened in the near future. But at this time we are not sure who the new operator will be."

ARLINGTON PARK THEATRE opened in July of 1971 adjacent to what was then the Arlington Park Towers Hotel. In the four years the theater has had five owners. The original lease called for a certain percentage of the weekly gross sales as rental payment "which just became impossible to meet," said Lonn.

Operating expenses greatly increased, he said, as the theater brought in bigger name stars and better productions.

"Our operating expenses fluctuate anywhere from $28,000 to $48,000 per week and our gross sales vary from $48,000 to $72,000 per week," Lonn said. "From this it is impossible to come up with a percentage formula."

LONN CITED SKYROCKETING real-estate taxes and

cost-of-living increases as other factors affecting the escalating costs of operating the theater.

Lonn added that previous owners were all sympathetic and realized that a new lease had to be developed.

By verbal agreement with previous owners, Lonn said his production company, Rannoch Productions, had not been paying the full amount stated in the lease.

HILTON, WHICH took over ownership of the theater last December, is holding Rannoch Productions to the original demands of the lease and in addition is asking $90,000 in back rent, Lonn said.

"Originally, the theater was designed as a typical suburban theater," said Lonn. "But people did not support it. It was a disaster. Burt Reynolds was the only thing that saved the theater during the first six months of operation. Bringing in comedies with has-been stars isn't the answer."

"We had to spend more money to bring in the kind of show people did want to see."

IN THE FOUR YEARS of its existence, Arlington Park Theatre, under the guidance of Lonn, has won several honors.

The theater has been awarded two Joseph Jefferson Awards for best production.

"Dance on a Country Grave," which had its premier at Arlington Park Theatre in December 1973, received the award as did "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," which won in 1972.

In addition, the latter production set a new record in Chicago theater by being nominated in five different "Jeff" categories and winning all five. No other production has been so honored.

Area ready to welcome Bears to Arlington: survey

by KURT BAER and MARILYN McDONALD

Northwest suburban residents appear unopposed to the prospect of the Chicago Bears making their new home in an 80,000-seat stadium at Arlington Park Race Track, an informal survey by The Herald shows.

However, organized opposition is anticipated as some families questioned in Arlington Heights, Palatine and Rolling Meadows who live near the proposed site said they would object to the noise and traffic problems the stadium would present.

Richard A. Goedke, president of the Westgate Civic Assn. which represents 1,000 Arlington Heights households east of Wilko Road, said, "We've objected to almost everything the race track has tried to do. But I would say that right now, most people are not opposed to the stadium unless tax dollars are being used in the financing."

"WE HAVE TO BE realistic in what we say. Sooner or later they're going to develop that land and I'd like to see the Village of Arlington Heights get some of the revenue," Goedke said.

He said he plans to schedule a meeting of Westgate homeowners next month to sound out residents' opinions before Madison Square Garden Corp.'s presentation to the village board in May or June.

Since plans for the stadium were reported last week Goedke said he has received several calls favoring the idea and "one or two completely taken aback."

Thomas Zahorski, 1442 E. Olive St., Palatine, said, "After all, you can't stop progress. People who own homes can't pay all the taxes. You have to get money from somewhere else. And if you keep saying 'I don't like this' and 'I don't like that,' you won't get anywhere."

IF THE VILLAGE BOARD agrees, the Bears would like to play their 1977 schedule in a $25 million stadium at Arlington Park next to Rich Stadium in Orchard Park, N.Y., where the Buffalo Bills play. The new stadium would be built with tax-free municipal revenue bonds issued by the village. The Bears play their home games in Soldier Field, Chicago.

Village officials expressed cautious interest in the stadium's possible financial benefit to the village. But they have said that the proposal must be acceptable to Arlington Heights residents.

John S. Madden, 1501 W. Euclid St., Arlington Heights, said he would like to see the question brought to residents in a referendum. "If I had an opportunity to vote, I'd vote against it because of the added traffic, noise and congestion. If it were just football games, it would be one thing, but you'll have other activities there."

"You're going to have to pump up your police and fire protection, and probably get more help from the state police," Madden said.

"If on one hand you say this is a highly residential area, but then bring in heavy traffic, you're contradicting yourself," he said.

"It's a pretty important question and I hope the people do get representation on the matter, or at least get the true facts. (Continued on page 5)

Plans for lake pose problem for new subdivision

Plans for a 38-house subdivision in Arlington Heights may have to be modified because of the proposed Lake Arlington nearby.

The subdivision is being planned for the west side of Windsor and Brookwood drives in northwest Arlington Heights by Rudy Reimer and Roland Fletcher. The site is partially along the McDonald Creek flood plain and near the proposed site of Lake Arlington.

Village Planning Engineer John Best said the proposed Lake Arlington project and the existing flood plain may call for alteration of the developers' plans for 38 houses. He said five of the lots on the 15-acre site would be affected.

"Some of them (the five lots) appear critical under existing circumstances," Best said during a plat and subdivision hearing on the project Tuesday.

ALLEN J. SANDER, village engineer, said proposed flood-control measures could also have a bearing on the number of lots that could be developed on the site. He said plans for the creek will have to wait until an aerial photographic survey is completed.

Best said if the lake project does not come about, the five lots in question would have to be set aside in flood-control measures.

Noting that neighboring Ivy Hill subdivision has experienced flooding problems, Best said, "We're not in a position to take any chances with water problems. That's as simple as I can make it."

Plan Comr. Madeline Schroeder said the "next move is up to you (Fletcher and Reimer)."

Lake Arlington has long been proposed as a flood-control facility for Arlington Heights. The projected size of it also has prompted plans for recreational uses of the lake.

Mrs. Zanca heads school board after divided vote

Judith Zanca has been elected president of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education by a divided vote.

Mrs. Zanca, 81 Roxbury Ln., Des Plaines, has served on the board for five years. She was elected by a 5-to-2 vote, rather than the customary "solidarity" vote of 7 to 0.

Following Mrs. Zanca's nomination for president, board member Paul Kucharski nominated Gerald Smiley, who served as president during the 1974-75 term, for president.

The motion died, for lack of a seconding vote, and Mrs. Zanca was elected with Smiley and Kucharski voting "no." Smiley said the no votes are "all a part of our attempt to do everything in the open."

"It's healthy for board members to disagree," Smiley said.

Avis Wold, 340 Ruskin Dr., Elk Grove Village, was elected secretary of the board.

In other action Monday, the board confirmed an earlier decision that directed the administration to begin preparing for a possible fall tax hike referendum. The authorization was given at the last meeting of the board, but members wanted the authorization confirmed by the new board, which was seated Monday.

New board members Lynne Helvie and Barbara Somogyi who were elected Saturday, took their seats on the board, replacing Albert Dominico, who retired, and Jean Cashman, who was unseated in Saturday's election.

Artemenko heads high school board

Gene Artemenko has been elected president of the High School Dist. 213 Board of Education.

Artemenko, 431 Millers Rd., Des Plaines, has served on the board since 1971, including a term as president in 1973-74.

Artemenko succeeds Jack Costello, who served as president for the 1974-75 term.

In Saturday's school board election, Artemenko led all candidates with 2,474 votes en route to reelection to his second full term in office. He was appointed to fill a one-year vacancy in 1971.

Day-treatment mental health chief named

Doris Lefley, a Chicago psychiatric nurse, has been hired as director of a new day-treatment program for emotionally disturbed adults at the Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center.

Mrs. Lefley formerly served as head nurse of the University of Chicago Day Hospital, which is part of the Illinois State Psychiatric Institute.

She will oversee the day-treatment program that is scheduled to begin in about six weeks and offer more intensive counselling than is provided by the clinic to help adults with emotional problems avoid hospitalization.

Vocational rehabilitation and other services will be included in the program for patients leaving hospitals to aid them in making a smooth transition back into their families and communities.

Next school year begins Aug. 28

The school calendar for the 1975-76 school year has been adopted by the Wheeling-Elmhurst Dist. 21 Board of Education.

School will begin on Aug. 28, the Friday before Labor Day. Students will have two weeks off for winter vacation starting Dec. 20 with students returning to class on Jan. 5.

Spring break will begin April 16 with classes resuming on April 28. June 11 is the last day of school. School will be closed for five additional holidays and students will be dismissed for four institute days during the year.

Area ready to welcome Bears: survey

It shouldn't be left up to just two or three trustees," Madden said.

ROLLING MEADOWS residents just south of the race track have coped with noise and traffic on racing days in the past, and some are apprehensive about Sunday or night football.

"We don't think much of it," said Anne Karpinski, 2403 Fremont St., Rolling Meadows. "We don't like the idea of it. I don't know if the people who frequent football games are so undesirable because we like football, too. But living in the vicinity you'd have rubbish that would blow around. But I guess you'd learn to live with it if it had to be."

"I haven't given it much thought, but it would be nice for the area in general," said George H. Smith, 2603 Fremont St., Rolling Meadows. "I'd rather come out this way to a game instead of going into Chicago."

At least one resident of the Arlington Crest subdivision just north of the race track in Palatine says he has not been bothered by noise or traffic during the racing season, and sees no reason to worry about the football season.

"I have no objections (to the Bears at Arlington Park)," said Edward Wenzel, 531 S. Warren Ave. "It wouldn't bother me. The track hasn't caused me problems."

County OKs $1.8 million for Arlington Hts. Rd. work

The Cook County Board has allocated $1.8 million in motor fuel tax funds for improvement of Arlington Heights Road in Buffalo Grove.

The road will be reconstructed and widened from two to four lanes between Lake-Cook and Dundee roads. The project includes curb and gutter installation, said Louis Quinlan, a highway department engineer.

He said work will begin late next year or early in 1977, about the same time improvements are to begin on the northern section of Arlington Heights Road from Lake-Cook Road to Ill. Rte. 53, a separate project being financed mostly with federal funds.

The southern section was resurfaced two years ago but Quinlan said the improvement was temporary and increasing traffic volumes necessitate further improvement. "It was a flexible type pavement constructed jointly by the village and county," he said. "The traffic now requires it be widened to four lanes."

Village Mgr. Daniel Larson of Buffalo Grove welcomed the move, saying an improved Arlington Heights Road will aid traffic flow from Lake-Cook Road and Rte. 53, also scheduled for improvements.

Larson said the Cook County improvement will not cost the village any money. Buffalo Grove however, must finance 10 per cent, or about $100,000 toward the cost of improvements by Lake County on the northern section of Arlington Heights Road.

Teen shot by police out of intensive care

Timothy Engelson, the 18-year-old Mount Prospect youth shot by an Elk Grove Village policeman April 5, is in fair condition and has been transferred from the intensive-care unit at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

The youth earlier was in serious condition suffering from extensive abdominal injuries.

Officials of the State's Attorney's office are reviewing the case and have not decided if any charges will be filed.

The policeman, Patrolman William Jaworski, has been temporarily relieved of duty pending the outcome of the investigation.

Engelson has filed suit in Circuit Court against the policeman and the village seeking $1 million in damages.

Minibike rider falls, breaks leg, arm

A 14-year-old minibike rider broke his arm and leg Monday when he rode his machine off a 20-foot hill.

Arlington Heights police said Paul A. Roy, 2211 Birch Ln., Rolling Meadows, was riding his minibike in a field at Old Wilke Road and White Oak Avenue when the accident occurred.

Roy was reported in fair condition at Northwest Community Hospital.

No charges were filed in connection with the accident.
